One Kind of Freedom.
Columbus Day Once More.
B. Franklin's Airbath.
San Francisco Opera.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11.

IN THIS state, Florida, you may drive an automobile legally without taking out a license and paying for the privilege of using your own car. Florida's strange theory is that if a man owns an automobile he has a right to drive it without anybody's permission.

IT IS a pleasure to mention this, in a country where everything is taxed—house, income, personal property, real estate, profits, if you make any.

If politicians in the past had been as ingenious as those of today, you would require a license to push your baby carriage, a license plate for the baby carriage and a license for the baby.

WEDNESDAY WILL be Columbus Day, and the man who found this country and the Indians and provided a location for past prosperity and present depression will be discussed. Some investigators who give excellent reasons for their statement, declare that Christopher Columbus was a Jew, and his uncle, also a Jew, helped him financially more than did Queen Isabella.

He is supposed to have been one of the Jewish people driven from Spain into Italy by superstitious bigotry, who found it convenient to conceal their Jewish origin and thus escape persecution.

ACCORDING TO the learned Mr. Ripley, Columbus did not believe the earth was round. He thought it was shaped like a pear, and wrote his belief to Queen Isabella.

Possibly he thought it wise to avoid the "round" theory. In his day the church said the earth was flat, taking literally the Bible statement that angels on the last day would stand on the four corners of the earth.

Moderns who question Columbus's Jewish origin should remember that the Semitic race in ancient days were great navigators.

Phoenicians were the first to navigate out of sight of land, trusting to the stars to guide them, before Europe had the compass, and first to sail through the Straits of Gibraltar, out into the Atlantic to work the mines and capture yellow-haired slaves in the British Islands.

A LETTER written by Benjamin Franklin in 1768 reveals the interesting fact that the wisest of the early Americans believed in taking air baths. The "sun bath" had not yet arrived.

"I find it agreeable to my constitution to bathe in cold air. I rise early and sit in my chamber without any clothes whatever, for half an hour."

Franklin's remedy for insomnia was to have a second bed always ready and move to the second bed, to change the mental attitude in case of sleeplessness.

THE STATEMENT published here and elsewhere, widely, that New York would have the only grand opera season this year is mistaken.

On the 15th of this month, in San Francisco's civic center, a new four million dollar opera house will begin its first season.

The opera house built, as a memorial to the soldiers, is by far the finest in the country, and San Francisco and California mean to support it. Forty-five hundred subscribers, who tried to buy seats for the season, had their checks returned. "Everything sold out."

San Francisco deserves credit for refusing to let depression deprive citizens of good music and for opening, at such a time as this, the most modern and most beautiful opera house in the world.

THE POTSDAM Tages Zeitung prints a passionate appeal to the former crown prince to take the reins of government and run the German empire. The writer of the article, a Socialist, says only the crown prince can save the Fatherland.

This is not much of a compliment to all the scientists and other able men of Germany.

NEWSPAPERS IN the South print large size a photograph by the Associated Press showing President Hoover receiving in Washington a delegation of 150 colored men.

The delegation, pledging support of colored voters to the Republican party and expressing the hope that that party would "uphold the rights of the colored race," is led by Roscoe Conklin Simmons, of Chicago.

Simmons, who started his political career under the late Mark Hanna, made a remarkably brilliant speech in the recent Republican convention, beginning with the statement that he had gone, the night before, to the tomb of Abraham Lincoln to find inspiration for his speech.

The picture, by the way, is NOT printed in the South with the intention of helping the Republican party.

Stork Presents Heir To W. L. Mellon, Jr.

MRS. WILLIAM L. MELLON, JR. . . . SHE WAS GRACE ROWLEY

NEW HEIR BORN TO RICHES HERE

A young Mellon lad who may be called William Larimer Mellon III, or who may not—the family hasn't yet decided—is a day old today.

He was born yesterday morning at 1:30 a. m. to Mrs. Grace Rowley Mellon, wife of William L. Mellon, Jr., with Dr. Paul Titus officiating, in St. Margaret's Hospital.

The baby boy, the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mellon, head of the Gulf Refining and other Mellon interests, becomes a great-grand nephew of Ambassador A. W. Mellon and Banker R. B Mellon, active head of the Mellon group.

The former Miss Rowley, who left society gasping on her "wedding day" by announcing that she had been wedded a year previous to Mellon—November 16, 1929—is the daughter of Elmer H Rowley, engaged here for many years in the artificial leg business. The Rowleys now reside in Detroit, where they have a similar business.

TWO ROBBERS LOCK UP VICTIM

Locked in a cupboard by bandits, Elson Yost, attendant at the Fournier Service Station, 2403 Brownsville avenue, fell out semi-conscious today when a customer heard him rapping and opened the door.

Two robbers had rifled the cash register and fled with $27, police were informed.

For two hours and a half Yost stood in his cramped, stuffy quarters, alternating yelling and pounding on the cupboard door.

He had been forced into the narrow prison by the armed holdup men who threatened to kill him if he made an outcry while they were in the place.

Police and detectives scoured the neighborhood after obtaining a description of the robbers.

Yost lives at 913 Forest avenue, Coraopolis.

McGovern's Friend Granted Concession

Commissioner C. C. McGovern's good friend, Steve Madden, today owned the riding-academy concession in South Park. Without advertising for bids from other operators, who aren't very pleased about it, the County Commissioners gave Madden the contract in return for 5 per cent of his gross revenue.

Madden served under McGovern in a National Guard troop and under Maj. William T. Rees, the commissioners' chief clerk, overseas.

Pope Urges Doctors Fight Birth Control

The convention is expected to give much attention to this subject.

New England States For Hoover in Poll

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—New Hampshire looks safe for President Hoover by a 50,000 to 60,000 majority and Vermont by a majority around 35,000.

This is according to a detailed analysis by individual counties of returns from the two states in the nation-wide postcard presidential pool of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

The New Hampshire analysis which takes into account 1,335 individual ballots shows a 66 per cent leaning to Hoover. The First Congressional District figures 67 per cent and the Second 65. The individual counties vary from 58 to 76 per cent for Hoover, not a single one giving Gov. Roosevelt a majority.

Hillsborough tops the list with 16,000. Merrimack gives Hoover 7,200; Cheshire, 6,900; Rockingham, 5,600; Stafford, 4,600; Belknap, 3,800; Carroll, 3,700; Coos, 3,600; Sullivan, 3,000, and Grafton, 2,400.

Vermont with 1,395 poll ballots considered in the analysis shows a 63 leaning to Hoover for the

U. S. BALKS RELEASE OF INSULL

Utilities King Loses Move to Block Extradition

By CHRISTOPHER PROTOPAPPAS
International News Service.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 11.—Fighting with all the resources at his command, Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities magnate indicted for embezzlement and larceny, today lost the first round of his battle to defeat extradition to the United States.

At the moment police were ready to release him, the American authorities stepped in with a formal request that Insull's detention be continued pending completion of the necessary extradition formalities.

MOVED TO PALACE

By order of the minister of the interior, Insull was removed to the Hotel Petit Palais, which in the days before the Greek revolution was the residence of former Prince Nicholas.

Before leaving the police headquarters, Insull cabled his son in Paris as follows:

"I am detained at the Petit Palais. Please address my correspondence to the American Express Company."

Insull retained Christos Ladas, former minister of communications and a noted attorney, to aid him in his battle to obtain release.

Action of the American legation in formally requesting continuation of his detention apparently precluded any hopes of early release, as the matter must now go before the Greek courts for adjudication.

Premier Eleutherios Venizelos personally interested himself in the Insull case today. From Loutraki, a popular watering place near Athens, Venizelos telephoned to the Minister of Justice to determine whether the detention of Insull was in compliance with Greek law.

The Minister replied that any

Man Falls 20 Stories To Death

From the twentieth floor of the Pittsburgher Hotel a sales manager, clad in pajamas, bathrobe and bedroom slippers, hurtled 300 feet through the air to his death today.

He had been shaving. There was still a bit of lather on one cheek. His hands were soapy. One theory is that, while glancing out the window, his damp hands had slipped on the sill.

Hotel attaches identified him as Irving A. Kuntz, 40, formerly of 5218 Akron street, Philadelphia.

Three weeks ago he had been appointed branch manager of the United States Rubber Company's office in Pittsburgh. His wife and three sons had expected to move here Thursday from Philadelphia into the house he had rented in Royce avenue, Mt. Lebanon.

Yesterday he had helped make ready the house. Early last night he had talked with office colleagues cheerfully. Circumstances of his death indicated accident.

Blair Alverson, 23, saw him futilely grab the window ledge as he fell and heard him scream. Alverson, an accountant, was glancing from an upper window of the Law and Finance Building in Fourth avenue.

Kuntz's body landed in Lemmon alley, in the rear of the hotel, which faces Diamond street. The time was 7:30 a. m., when few pedestrians were about.

A tattoo mark indicated Kuntz had served in the Navy during the World War.

URGE KING ACT IN MILK WAR

Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the Public Service Commission and former Secretary of Revenue, was urged today as mediator in the milk rate battle between producers and local distributors.

Two hundred dairymen from Western Pennsylvania, meeting in the Mayfair Hotel, today resisted efforts of the local distributing companies to cut the price of milk, boosted slightly a month ago.

The dairymen, members of the Dairymen's Co-Operative Sales Association, discussed conditions and prices. It was asserted there is too great a price spread for the distributors.

More than 200 Washington County farmers went on record last night as refusing to accept any proposition that would reduce their present price and organize the Washington County Milk Producers' Association. Eight of the 10 locals of the Dairymen's Co-operative Sales Association in the county were represented.

Westmoreland County already has a similar organization it was said. D. R. Collmery, of Harmony, was present and told of the organization work in Butler County.

BAKER ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL

Missing Ex-Head of W. & J. Found Dead On Farm

Near the college that was his alma mater and of which he later became president, Dr. Simon S. Baker, 65, former head of Washington and Jefferson College, was found shot to death today, in a field four or five miles northeast of Washington, Pa.

A pistol lay at his side. A bullet had pierced his right temple. His clothes were wet, and apparently he had been dead about 12 hours. A rainstorm swept the district late last night, and Washington County officers said Dr. Baker apparently had shot himself prior to the rain.

WASHINGTON BURIAL

Members of Dr. Baker's family were on their way to Washington this afternoon. Except that burial will be in Washington Cemetery, no funeral arrangements have been made.

Dr. Baker disappeared from his East End home in Peacock Manor, 924 Farragut street, yesterday.

Although there was no definite explanation of the former educator's presence so far from his home, which he had left ostensibly for a stroll in Highland Park, indications were that he wandered in a spirit of melancholy back toward the scene of his greatest experiences.

There are, however, several

MASKED MAN LOCKS GIRL IN TRUNK

Homestead Student Surprises Him in Dormitory Theft

International News Service.

GREENVILLE, Pa., Oct. 11.—Miss Katherine Wilharm, 17, 2311 Vondera street, Homestead, Pa., a freshman at Thiel College, was struck over the head with a revolver, bound, gagged, and thrown into a trunk in her dormitory room here today when she surprised a masked bandit ransacking the room.

Miss Wilharm was released from her trunk cell sometime later when roommates heard her muffled cries for help. Frightened by the screams coming from the trunk, the girls summoned John Zundel, who lives next door to the dormitory, "Elson House."

He extricated the frightened girl.

The co-ed informed Chief of Police Harry Barber that when she returned to her room from the college library she was confronted by a masked man, carrying a revolver. None of her roommates was in the dormitory at the time.

The man, she said, struck her over the head with the revolver. He then bound and gagged and put her in the trunk.

A hasty check-up revealed that nothing had been taken from the room. None of the other students reported seeing anyone about the dormitory, Chief Barber stated.

Judge Patterson Hits At Vote Jury Fixing

Judge Frank P. Patterson, whose utterances from the bench on prohibition law enforcement led to the lid being clamped on rackets and liquir joints, today loosed a blast at jury "fixing" in election law violation cases.

While a jury was selected to try five Hill District Negroes on charges of conspiracy to violate the election laws, Judge Patterson told the jurors they would be kept together and "locked up just as a murder jury is."

FREEZING SPELL DUE TONIGHT

Tonight will be the coldest of the season, with the mercury around freezing, according to the weather bureau.

This morning the temperature fell to 40, equaling the season's low mark thus far. By early tomorrow it is expected to drop to an official 35 with possible below-freezing temperatures in outlying districts. Continued cloudy with slowly rising temperatures is the forecast for tomorrow.

High wind with light rain which accompanied the overnight fall in temperature shattered a plate glass window valued at $300 in the Union Jobbing Company, 312 Market street.

King George and Wales Take Salary Slashes

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—King George, the Prince of Wales and all the royal family have had drastic "salary" reductions as a result of the depression, Lord Reading, former ambassador to the United States and Viceroy of India, declared today. He said:

"The King voluntarily, on the formation of the national government, reduced his civil list payments by £50,000 a year, the equivalent of 12 per cent, and it must be remembered that he has to keep up great estates out of this money. The Prince of Wales reduced his by £10,000 a year.

"We are all going through difficult and critical times. It may not be quite realized in this country that although we in England have made progress, we are by no means out of the woods."

Lord Reading left today for Washington where he is to address the Bar Association convention.

HOOVER AND ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK ON JOBLESS RELIEF

RIVALS TO TELL OF PLANS TO SPUR WORK

Issue Neglected So Far in Campaign Gets Spotlight

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 unemployed and the millions of others who are on part-time employment throughout the nation will hear this week what the rival presidential candidates propose to do for their relief during the oncoming winter.

Hitherto almost neglected in the campaign oratory, they will be treated to speeches by both Franklyn D. Roosevelt and President Hoover on what, if anything, the federal government can or should do with regard to social welfare and the problem of getting the worker back to work.

TALK ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Gov. Roosevelt's announcement in Albany that he would speak on the subject over a national radio hook-up Thursday night followed by only a few hours the White House announcement of President Hoover's speech in Cleveland Saturday night, in which he is expected to deal specifically with unemployment.

Mr. Hoover has chosen as the locale for his speech almost the center of the industrial part of the country, where unemployment is rampant and distress acute.

His address is expected to carry a heavier attack on the Democratic party than even his Des Moines speech, stressing the reconstruction program of his administration.

IMPORTANT ADDRESS

Roosevelt's welfare speech is likely to be one of the most important of his addresses, for in this he will deal directly with the human side of government—a subject close to his own heart. He will answer five questions asked of both presidential nominees by a group of welfare workers. The questions are:

Do you favor a substantial increase in federal relief outlays during the economic emergency?

Do you favor substantially increased public works appropriations to aid unemployment?

Do you favor substantially increased unemployment insurance reserves by the states?

Do you favor strengthening the children's bureau?

Do you favor a higher school-leaving age?

JIM REED HITS 'SCARE' SPEECH BY HOOVER

Blames Disregard of Trust Laws, Tariff For U. S. Ills

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Speaking from the same speakers' platform upon which President Hoover started his campaign last week, James A. Reed, of Missouri, attacked the administration last night in a political speech billed as a reply to Mr. Hoover's opening address.

He charged that disregard of the Sherman anti-trust law by Republican administrations, the Smoot-Hawley tariff, and what he described as President Hoover's "scheme to reduce the price of American farm products" were responsible for present economic conditions.

The former Democratic Senator branded the President as an exploiter of foreign enterprises whose "scheme," he said, was "to reduce the prices of American farm products," and declared that by so doing he "laid the foundation for agricultural bankruptcy."

ATTACKS TRUSTS

Departing from his prepared text, Reed launched an attack upon the last 12 years of Republican administration with a charge that "the Sherman anti-trust law went into the discard" at the start of the Harding administration.

The result, he declared, was the shrinking up of large "superholding companies" whose stocks were thrown on the market "for gambling." He named specifically the Insull corporations, but said there were many other similar projects launched. He said:

"When the bubble burst, banks began to close. Finally the effect reached out into the heart of the country and all business became paralyzed."

TARIFF BLAMED

He said the tariff caused a falling off in foreign trade, holding the Republican party responsible "for this catastrophe which swept away much of the wealth of our country."

He charged that as food administrator, Hoover fixed the maximum price of wheat at $2 per bushel in the United States, while in foreign countries it was selling at considerably higher prices.

DR. BAKER ENDS LIFE IN FIELD NEAR W. & J.

Educator Missing 24 Hours Found Miles From Home

theories why Dr. Baker chose the place he did for his death. Police thought he may have been to Washington, had visited the grounds of W. and J., and then, returning, alighted from a bus and went to the field.

H. L. Cockins, proprietor of a furniture store in Canonsburg, who said he was an intimate friend of Dr. Baker and had seen the former educator as recently as three weeks ago, said the farm where his body was found was owned by two maiden sisters, Anna and Elizabeth Quail, and that they were close friends of the Baker family. Elizabeth Quail died a year ago, and the farm now is unoccupied. Anna is now in Florida.

PLACE OF MEMORIES

Cockins said the place may have been one of pleasant memories when the Baker family had visited there, and for that reason, Dr. Baker had been attracted to it when he contemplated suicide.

He had been ill for two years, and friends said he had brooded since he resigned in 1931 as president of W. and J., where he was in disfavor among some students because of his athletic policies. These factions charged his attitude was detrimental to the interests of the college.

The body was found by Steve Santo, a pipeline walker, about a mile south of Maple View Park, 500 feet from highway Route No. 19. Washington County officers and state police were summoned while the Pittsburgh police department's resources were being marshalled in a widespread search for the missing man.

A report had it that Dr. Baker had been seen near the Highland Park reservoir, and Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh ordered the reservoir dragged this morning. Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, lifelong friend and former companion of Dr. Baker when they were students at W. and J., announced he was taking a personal interest in the search, and would do everything possible to find the missing man.

CARE FOR BODY

Washington County Detective W. B. Dinsmore and Frank Crepps, his assistant, and Corp. George Pierce, of the state police, reached the death scene and had the body removed to the McNary undertaking establishment in Canonsburg.

Dr. Baker was clad in a raincoat, which was buttoned high about his throat. He had a wallet containing a small sum of money and his glasses in his pocket.

The bullet had entered the left side of his head above the ear and had passed through his head.

At the direction of Dr. Baker's brother-in-law, J. C. McNulty, East End pharmacist, the body later was removed from the Canonsburg funeral establishment to the Devore funeral parlors at Washington, where it will be prepared for burial.

Dr. Baker purchased a revolver last June 2, the records of firearms sale disclosed. The gun he used to kill himself was of the same caliber. The purchase was made at the W. S. Brown sporting goods store, Wood street and Oliver avenue, and at the store it was said he had paid about $10 for it.

Dr. Baker's brother-in-law said he was not aware of the purchase.

The police here received a report of Dr. Baker's disappearance yesterday afternoon. Acquaintances said they saw him in the downtown district about noon, but a police report said he had been seen near the Highland Park reservoir. It was on the strength of this report that Supt. Walsh ordered the reservoir dragged this morning.

QUIT AFTER STRIKE

Dr. Baker, president of Washington and Jefferson College for 10 years, resigned May 13, 1931, following a five-day student strike. The strike began after three professors had been notified of their dismissal and two football players were threatened with expulsion for fighting in a hotel.

Previous to his post at the Washington college, Dr. Baker served the Pittsburgh public schools for 25 years, as principal, district superintendent and associate superintendent.

Born in Washington County, Dr. Baker was educated at Washington and Jefferson College and University of Pittsburgh. He married Miss Grace Little, of Washington, Pa., in 1894. Edward David Baker, their only son, was killed in France. He was in the air service.

INSULL OPPOSED REGULATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—In an address before American Bar Association delegates advocating state regulation of public utility holding companies, David E. Lillienthal, Wisconsin public service comissioner, today named Martin J. Insull among utility representatives opposing such regulation.

To illustrate the attitude of those believing holding companies should be free from control, he quoted Insull as having said a year ago:

"Regulation of the operating company with freedom of the holding company is to the best interest of the public. The public is thus protected against monopoly and has the advantage of the initiative and enterprise that financially strong business brings to institutions in which its money is invested. Regulation is not concerned with these companies."

Lilienthal said the position of those who have opposed regulation of holding companies has been that operation of them is "distinct and unrelated to those interests which the state should protect, namely the rates of the consumer and the security of the investor in operating company stock and bonds."

INSULL RESISTS EXTRADITION

suspected alien was liable to detention until his identification had been established. The police, he said, were ready to release Insull and would have done so had not the American Minister presented a written request today for his continued detention.

NOTE TRANSMITTED

The American note was handed to the Greek foreign minister. Following the usual course of procedure, the indictments returned against Insull and the demand for his arrest will be turned over to the Court of Appeals, which must decide whether the offenses charged are punishable under Greek law.

M. Constantini, Paraguayan consul here and president of the Athens Jewish community, visited Insull at police headquarters during the day, offering to lend the distinguished prisoner any possible aid. Insull turned down the offer, explaining that as he is not a Jew he would be unable to accept it.

RUMOR SPIKED

Insull's activities this morning definitely spiked a wild rumor circulated here during the night that he had committed suicide.

Insull received a group of foreign correspondents and lodged a formal complaint with them over the treatment he was receiving from the American authorities. Skinner, he said, had treated him "very badly," adding:

"They forget what I have done for America and particularly for Chicago."

Earlier he had said:

"The whole affair is the result of a thirst for vengeance on the part of my enemies."

Insull Fails to Seek Sir Basil Zaharoff's Aid

PARIS, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Despite a cable from his Chicago attorneys advising him to enlist the aid of Sir Basil Zaharoff, Samuel Insull, utilities magnate now imprisoned in Athens, made no attempt to interest the multi-millionaire Greek munitions king in his case, International News Service learned today.

Sir Basil's secretary said that neither Insull nor his son appealed to him or even visited him during their long stay in Paris.

One of the code telgrams sent to Samuel Insull, Jr., at Milan, Italy, during his father's flight from Paris suggested that he see Zaharoff "immediately if you think wise."

Sir Basil Zaharoff is known as the "mystery man" of Europe. While he is chiefly interested in the manufacture of munitions, he is intimately connected with the petroleum and other industries and is regarded as the most powerful single individual in all of Europe.

Sir Basil has always had a reputation for secrecy in everything he does and all his movements are shrouded in utmost mystery. He is 82 years of age.

SMITH ENTERS CAMPAIGN SOON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will actively enter the current political situation next Thursday as chairman of a luncheon arranged for Herbert H. Lehman and M. William Bray, Democratic nominees respectively for governor and lieutenant governor of New York.

Shortly afterwards Smith was slated to deliver speeches in several eastern states on behalf of the national, state and local Democratic tickets.

Lehman planned to start next week on a whirlwind speaking tour of the state. Bray was hopeful he could leave later this week to begin his speaking tour which was to take him into every part of the state.

DAVIS RETRIAL SET NOV. 28

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Retrial of United States Senator James J. Davis on federal lottery charges today was set for November 28 by Judge Francis G. Caffey.

Davis will be tried with three co-defendants, Raymond Walsh, Bernard C. McGuire and Theodore G. Miller.

Louis Mead Treadwell, youthful prosecutor, called the case and told the court that November 28 had been agreed upon by counsel because of other obligations of Senator Davis.

Davis and his co-defendants were indicted in connection with alleged lotteries conducted by the Loyal Order of Moose under the guise of charity balls in 1930 and 1931.

The Senator, who is director general of the Moose, obtained a severance from the others so that he could be tried in time to obtain possible vindication before making his campaign for re-election in Pennsylvania. His trial then lasted two weeks and was declared a mistrial because a juror called upon a defense attorney to tell him that another juror was "putting in the poison against your side."

MATE BEAT HER, URSULA SAYS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 11.—(Universal.)—"In-law" trouble caused the failure of Ursula Parrott's second marriage to Charles T. Greenwood, New York banker, the authoress told Referee Isaac Wolfe at a secret divorce hearing in New Haven last Friday, it became known today.

As result of her recital of her husband's alleged cruelties, Judge Wolfe today recommended to Judge John A. Cornell in Superior Court that she be granted a divorce and the right to resume the name of her first husband, Lindsay Parrott. Judge Cornell will act Friday. She said:

"My marriage lasted for five weeks, and I left my husband to go on a long trip to the West Indies.

"My husband objected to the presence in my home of my older maiden sister, and he sought to interfere in the upbringing of my own son."

The authoress also charged the banker at times drank to excess, pinched and struck her and was not "very considerate."

They were married October 14 and separated November 24 of last year.

LIBBY HIDING, FATHER MUM

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 11.—(Universal.)—Alfred Holman, Cincinnati attorney and father of Libby Holman Reynolds, indicted for the murder of her husband, Smith Reynolds, tobacco millionaire, spent yesterday in Winston-Salem conferring with his daughter's attorneys, Benet Polikoff and William Graves. He left for West Palm Beach, Fla., on business.

He would not discuss his visit other than to say that it was not prearranged, but he merely stopped en route to Florida.

He said his daughter was in good health, but would not reveal her present place of seclusion.

Reports are current that the Broadway singer and Ab Walker, boyhood friend of Smith Reynolds, will be placed on trial November 21. Solicitor Carlisle W. Higgins said he did not know when the case would be called. He declined to express an opinion as to the date.

VARE VOICES G.O.P. WARNING

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—The South will be in the saddle and the protective tariff policy will end if the voters choose Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for their next President, was the warning today of William S. Vare, Philadelphia G. O. P. chief.

Vare voiced his prediction in a stirring address here as he called for the re-election of President Hoover. Vare said:

"No city in the country is more concerned vitally with a continuance of the protective tariff principle than is Philadelphia. It is up to us to keep Philadelphia in its commanding position as the leading Republican city of the nation. We can do that most effectively by working for President Hoover and the entire Republican ticket."

TROOPS JAIL 10 MINE PICKETS

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Ten men were in Christian County Jail today following the latest brush with authorities in the Illinois coal miners' war.

They were arrested last night when militiamen, for the second time within 12 hours, dispersed pickets at Peabody mine No. 58.

Nearly 800 pickets flanked the mine as workers emerged at closing time. The crowd was routed after the arrests.

Earlier in the day the troops used tear gas. It was not necessary during the second disturbance.

THREE SEIZED IN VICE RAIDS

County detectives investigated 10 places against which complaints had been received by Judge Frank P. Patterson today and reported three raids and seven failures—"waterhauls." The raids were on the North Side.

In a dwelling at 837 East Ohio street the sleuths reported finding booze and one slot machine. The proprietor, Jake Reinhart, was charged only with violting the liquor laws.

At 719 East street, John Winkovic and booze were taken, and at 426 East Ohio street the detectives said Albert Fort was conducting a numbers lottery. Alderman Thomas Geary held Fort and Winkovic for court. Reinhart will be heard later.

Hoover Press Talk Again Cancelled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—For the third week in succession, President Hoover today cancelled his semi-weekly press conference.

LAW BALKS CITY COMPETITION

Supreme Court decisions prevent the city from laying water lines parallel to those of the South Pittsburgh Water Company to supply city residents in the South Hills, according to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

The solicitor explained to Council late yesterday that when a franchise is granted to a public utility the municipality surrenders its right to supply service, even though it might do so at reduced costs.

Under its arrangement with the South Pittsburgh Company the city pays the difference between the company's and the city's rates. An appropriation of $300,000 is made yearly for this purpose.

A recommendation by Councilman Clifford B. Connelly that the city break its agreement with the company by giving a 90-day notice was oppposed by Waldschmidt.

Children Act to Balk Zoo 'Death Sentence'

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—From hundreds of school children, women's clubs and public-spirited citizens today came gifts of money and offers of homes to the animals at the Philadelphia Zoo, which have a "death sentence" hanging over them unless City Council appropriates $100,000 for the maintenance of the zoo.

No sooner had news of the zoo officials' plan to execute the animals spread, than hundreds of letters came to V. Emerson Brown, director, suggesting many means of avoiding such a sacrifice.

George E. Dieckman, president of the Zoological Society of St. Louis, suggested the city impose a special tax of one-fifth of a mill, pointing out that such a plan had worked successfully in the Missouri city and had given $250,000 a year to the zoo without seriously burdening the taxpayers. Brown said:

"The zoo can go for a little while, thanks to the small contributions. But what we need is an assured income."

Brown Derby Gift Crop Blighted For Smith

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The depression has caused a slump in the free crop of brown derbies that Alfred E. Smith garners every year.

In previous Octobers, he always had derbies aplenty, to select from. They were sent by admirers in many parts of the country. This year he got only three, and none of them fits.

He had to order one made for the Democratic state convention at Albany.

Kidnaped Banker Freed Without Ransom

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Somewhat unnerved, but otherwise unharmed, Norman B. Collins, Chicago banker, was back at his home today after having been freed by kidnapers who released him and escaped a trap police set for them. No ransom money was paid.

Collins, held captive 12 hours, was set free when the five men, who had seized him and his wife yesterday morning near their home in patrician Wilmette, apparently became alarmed at the headlined activities of officials investigating the affair. Mrs. Collins had been released earlier.

When she returned to her home she found a note thrust under the door, directing her to drive along a designated route in Northwest Chicago, with the ransom demanded, $5,000.

Operatives of the Secret Six, Chicago anti-crime organization were enlisted, and Alexander Jamie, head of the body, dressed one of his men in Mrs. Collins' clothes, placed him in her car, and sent him on the course outlined by the kidnapers. In the rear seat was another official armed with a machine gun, and others were disguised and planted along the route. The kidnapers did not appear.

Following his release, Collins went to a drug store, where he telephoned his wife.

TORTURE DEFENSE WITNESS ADMITS SUICIDE 'FRAME-UP'

CORROBORATES STORY TOLD BY CONVICT

Staggering Blow Seen For Guards in New Testimony

By SAM MELSON
International News Service.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 11.—Testifying for the defense in the "sweatbox" torture death of Arthur Maillefert, a convict witness today corroborated a declaration by a state witness that he was asked to "frame" a suicide version of the New Jersey youth's strangulation.

James Birmingham, of Boston, Mass., convict serving an 18-month sentence for breaking and entering, placed on the stand as the third witness for the defense of George W. Courson and Solomon Higginbotham, former guards, dealth the staggering blow.

HOLDS STORY 'FRAMED'

Yesterday, Joe Blake, h e a d trusty at the Sunbeam prison camp where Maillefert strangled to death in a chain noose while confined in the "sweatbox" June 3, testified for the state that Courson asked him to "get five or six men" to say Maillefert committed suicide.

Blake declared he "framed" a suicide story with Harry Schneider and several other prisoners.

Schneider, first witness for the defense as testimony opened today, denied Blake's accusation, testifying that Maillefert, while in the "sweatbox," motioned his intentions of committing suicide.

CORROBORATES BLAKE

Birmingham, called to the stand later, corroborated Blake's testimony. Defense Attorney C. A. Avriett asked:

"Did Blake ever talk to you about Courson wanting witnesses to support the suicide theory?"

Birmingham replied:

"Yes, he (Blake) wanted me to say at the coroner's inquest that Jersey (Maillefert) made signs of suicide to me. I refused."

Avriett quickly dropped the line of questioning.

Smiling, S t a t e ' s Attorney Charles M. Durrance declined cross-examination.

DEMONSTRATES 'SIGN'

Earlier, at Avriett's request, Schneider got out of the witness chair and demonstrated how Maillefert allegedly indicated his suicidal intent.

The witness slumped, his knees sagging, his arms limp, his head drawn upward and to the rear as from the force of a body hanging from a noose. He grinned.

At this depiction, Mrs. Maillefert, mother of the dead convict youth, sobbed into her handkerchief.

'DAGGER' DEATH OF N. Y. WOMAN PROBED

Body Found in Wrecked Auto; Husband, 2 Others Quizzed

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The "Ride" murder of a housewife, slain mysteriously with a red-handled dagger, puzzled Brooklyn authorities today.

Mrs. Gemma Pignataro, 36-year-old mother of five children, was killed last night some time after she set out to care for a neighbor's sick child.

Her body was found at 10 p. m., in an automobile that had smashed against a tree in Dyker Heights. At her feet lay the knife that had severed her jugular vein.

QUIZ HUSBAND

Detectives, moving swiftly, questioned her husband and two other men, one of them the owner of the wrecked car. All denied knowledge of the killing. Delving into the woman's history, the police obtained information that led them to suspect gangsters. They considered other theories, too; one was that she might have been killed by some one who sought to attack her.

The detectives said she once had a brother, Louis Ribis, who was right-hand man for the late Frankie Yale, Brooklyn gang magnifico and one-time ally of Al Capone. This brother was murdered 10 years ago in New Jersey. The dead2 woman's husband, Fiori, was wounded in 1914 by an unidentified foe. He recovered.

SIGNS OF STRUGGLE

Scratched hands indicated that Mrs. Pignataro struggled fiercely against death. Police believe that in the struggle, the killers lost control of the car, which hit a tree. Two men were seen to flee from it after the crash.

Early last night, Mrs. Pignataro left home, saying she wanted to take care of the ailing child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pagano. When she was about to leave the Pagano house, detectives were told, Joseph Pagano offered to take her home in his brother John's car. He told police, however, that after they left the house, he found the car would not start, and that he took her to a street car instead.

It was in John Pagano's car that the body was found. Both he and Joseph insisted the auto must have been stolen.

N. J. PROFESSOR JOB ACCEPTED BY EINSTEIN

Agrees to Teach High Science Branches At Institute

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Prof. Albert Einstein, world famous scientist and father of the theory of relativity, is coming to this country as a resident faculty member of the Institute for Advanced Study, which will be located near Princeton, N. J.

The institute was founded two years ago with a $5,000,000 gift from Louis Bamberger, retired Newark (N. J.) merchant, and his sister, Mrs. Felix Fuld.

Einstein has accepted appointment as professor of mathematical or theoretical physics of the school of mathematics, the first unit of the institute. He will come here in the autumn of 1933 for the opening of the school and will live at Princeton annually from October 1 to April 15.

AIDE ALSO APPOINTED

Dr. Walter Mayer, of Berlin, Einstein's "right hand man," was appointed associate in mathematics. Dr. Oswald Veblen, professor of mathematics at Princeton, also was appointed professor in the school and Dr. J. L. Vanderslice, of Princeton, was named his assistant. Dr. Abraham Flexner will be director of the institute.

Until its own buildings are completed, the mathematics school will be housed at Princeton University. Later the institute will have a school of economics and history.

According to sponsors, the institute "will seek to isolate a small, select group of students and professors so they can explore the realms of higher science without the interference of outside distractions."

TWO ASSISTANTS

Einstein will be assisted by Dr. Walter Veblen and Dr. L. S. Vanderslice, of Princeton. Dr. Veblen has been associated with Einstein in mathematical research for many years.

The announcement followed a meeting of the institute's board at the Uptown Club last night. Those present included former Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton, who presided; Alexis Carrel, Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore College; Percy S. Straus, Louis Bamberger, Edgar S. Bamberger and Mrs. Fuld.

N. Y. RADIO DEB HUNT EXTENDS TO EUROPE

Italian Princess Sought To Join American Society Actresses

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The Waldorf-Astoria, through mediumship of "Jack Denny's Radio Debutante" orchestral presentations in the Empire Room, has introduced a dozen or more leaders of the younger social set to the radio audiences of the country since spring.

Now the scope of the idea is to be enlarged, reaching to the social centers of the continent for new talent.

Since April Miss Gloria Braggiotti, of Boston, a member of one of the oldest social register families in that cultural center of the nation, has been conducting auditions, in New York and other East Coast cities, to select the voices to have microphone appearances with the Denny orchestra, in two-week periods, from the hotel here.

Mrs. William R. K. Taylor, Jr.; Miss Louise D. Lynch, of Greenwich; Miss Jean Lang, of St. Louis; the Misses Mimi and Natalie Kountz, Miss Gwendolyn Fisk and Miss Ruth Magor, of New York; Miss Nancy Whitman, of Boston, and Mrs. Robert Ash and Miss Jean Peeples, of Washington, and Miss Jeannette Dobbin, of Baltimore, are some of those who have been through their auditions successfully and been on the air with the Jack Denny programs from the Waldorf.

TOUR WITH ORCHESTRA

Several of them are with the orchestra in Washington now and will be at the Waldorf-Astoria on October 27 when the "Radio Debutantes" return there.

Miss Braggiotti said:

"The idea is to give the young women of social prominence, who have talent, a chance to appear and win a public audience. Their parents do not agree to their appearing on the stage. Night clubs, for appearances of the debutantes, are, of course, barred. But radio, it seems, is simething different. And when appearances have been in an atmosphere and location such as that of the Waldorf-Astoria, there are no parental objections.

"Some of the young women who have appeared in the radio presentation with the Jack Denny Orchestra have already received radio broadcasting offers that are extremely gratifying to them and to the Waldorf-Astoria as sponsors for their appearance on the air.

EUROPEAN TALENT HUNT

"And now, to still further carry out the idea, I am sailing Wednesday on the Vulcania for Europe to see if some of the young ladies of continental society are interested in coming to New York as guests of the Waldorf-Astoria, for similar appearances."

Miss Bragiotti is to go first to Rome, where she has already arranged conferences, by cable, with Princess Lolia Grovanelli, Isabella Perrone and Irene and Nadyia Berlengiere. From Rome she goes on to Florence for a conference with Gabriella Monte Mario.

Then the trail will lead on to Vienna, Berlin, Paris and London.

Just who will be interviewed in these cities has not yet been decided. Miss Braggiotti said:

"But America, interested in the American debutante radio appearances of our own social register girls, may rest assured that some of the girls of European society who will come, I am sure, will be equally charming, and equally talented."

OCEAN SCANNED FOR 2 IN PLANE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Pacific waters near San Clemente Island were searched today for a missing Navy plane with two men aboard. The ship was forced down during maneuvers last night.

The airplane carriers Lexington, Saratoga and Langley and six destroyers cruised about all night, playing their huge flashlights over the water, but failed to find trace of the plane.

Lieut. Edward C. Dyer, pilot, and Seaman Chambers were aboard the plane, one of five forced down off the Southern California coast. The others were located.

Because of the unusual calm, Navy officials said they felt no fear for safety of the two men.

PERIL TO BABY BRINGS SUICIDE

One-year-old Lois seemed to be slipping from the arms of her grandmother, Mrs. Alvina Kruhm, 65.

Lois' father, Walter Colligan, rushed to the baby's side, cautioning Mrs. Kruhm to be careful. Mrs. Kruhm fell in the excitement.

An hour later, over the family washing in the kitchen of the Colligan home at 971 Manton street, Mrs. Kruhm, police were told, drank a poisonous liquid. A few minutes later in South Side Hospital she died.

Mrs. Kruhm, a widow, lived with her daughter and son-in-law. The incident seemed of only passing moment, the son-in-law said.

More significant appeared Mrs. Kruhm's condition for the last few days. She had been in a highly nervous state, it was said. The coroner's report listed her death as suicide.

GIRL EXPOSES SLAYING MYTH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Mildred Scheidler, 20-year-old hitch hiker from La Porte, Ind., today branded as fantastic the story told police of Fresno, Cal., by Arthur Metcalf, 19, who had accompanied her from Indiana, that he had attacked and clubbed her and left her for dead on the desert.

Miss Scheidler walked into a police station here last night while her body was being sought on the desert in the vicinity of Needles, Cal.

She told officers her first knowledge of the story was gained when she read it in the newspapers.

Metcalf had gone to Fresno and lived with Mrs. Wanda Scheidler, the girl's mother, posing as her lost son, while Mrs. Scheidler remained in Los Angeles to work.

TRUANT COLLIE FOUND SAFE

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Wolf III, the $2,000 collie whose disappearance raised the cry of "dog racketeers" and started the police of five Essex municipalities hunting for him, was found late yesterday with no "dog kidnapers" in evidence.

Wolf looked as if he had been places when his master, Maj. C. Roy Dickinson, publisher, and the three Dickinson children found him in a small clearing in the short timberlands. The dog's silken black coat was splashed with mud.

He was found after Fred Witton, an artist, reported a collie had wandered into his camp in Short Hills Saturday. The dog had refused to make friends with him, but kept hanging around the clearing.

AUTO ROW CASE CONTINUES

Mt. Lebanon residents today again crowded the Criminal courtroom of Visiting Judge William T. Darr, of Jefferson County, to hear the Clark-Gangeware assault and battery cases. Verdicts were anticipated during the day.

L. C. Clark, a commissioner of Mt. Lebanon Township, faces a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, and three other charges of assault and battery.

His accusers are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gangeware and E. J. Gangeware, the former's father, of Florence place, Mt. Lebanon, and A. C. Feagan, of McNeilly avenue, a friend of the Gangewares. In cross suits, the Gangewares and Feagan are charged with assault and battery by Clark and Eva J. McLain, of Beverly road.

Attorney Edward G. Coll represents the Gangewares, while Elmer A. Barchfeld and James Duff represent Clark. The Gangewares testified that last July 4, Clark's car ran into their automobile three times, and then Clark struck them when they expostulated. Clark said he did accidentally bumb their car once, and that they backed into him the second time. He said he merely struck back when they got out of their car and surrounded him.

Reunited by Blindness, They Live in Gay Past

PERTH, Western Australia, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Many years ago, whenever young Charlie Sparkes went to a dance he looked for a girl named Annie. She was pretty and graceful, and there was no one else with whom he liked to dance so well.

Then he joined the gold rush to the West. He was never to see Annie again, for one day a piece of flying quartz struck him in the eye and destroyed his sight.

Charlie Sparkes, old and blind, was sitting in the Braille Society's home the other day.

A woman joined him. She, too, was blind.

She talked to him of the days when she was a light-hearted girl, 50 years ago. She told him of the dances she had been to in Melbourne, and of a young man she always danced with there. His name, she said, was Charlie Sparkes.

They meet often now. They cannot see white hair and wrinkles. To each the other is young and handsome — gay, dashing Charlie Sparkes, and beautiful Annie.

NEW ENGLAND STATES FAVOR HOOVER

state as a whole. The canvass in Vermont is still in progress in several counties, so that the county analysis in that state are not so complete as in New Hampshire. Nevertheless, the incomplete returns in hand are sufficiently conclusive to warrant the 35,000 state majority.

Unless the Roosevelt campaign puts on a good head of steam in Rhode Island in the remaining four weeks before the election, President Hoover should carry the state by a 35,000 to 40,000 majority, the Hearst poll also indicates.

NORMALLY REPUBLICAN

Rhode Island normally is Republican by 40,000 to 50,000 majority. It gave President Coolidge a 41,000 majority in 1924 and in 1920 gave President Harding 52,000. The majority indicated for President Hoover this year is substantially near these figures.

The poll replies from Providence County, which casts 182,000 of the state's 236,000 votes, show a 58 per cent leaning to Hoover. This would mean a 29,000 majority in that county.

Newport and Kent counties, with between 15,000 and 20,000 votes each, shows Hoover leading in the poll ballots by 61 and 64 per cent respectively. This would indicate a better than 3,000 Hoover majority in Newport and more than 5,000 in Kent.

TWO COUNTIES EVEN

Bristol and Washington counties, casting approximately 20,000 votes combined, appear to be splitting practically even, according to the poll.

It is Providence County that holds the key to the Rhode Island outcome. It was Gov. Smith's 11,000 majority in that county that enabled him to take Rhode Island four years ago by a 1,500 margin. Eight years ago, however, Providence gave Coolidge a clear majority over John W. Davis and Senator La Follette of better than 22,000. That appears a difficult handicap for Roosevelt to overcome.

ACCUSE PATIENT IN 2 CRASHES

Despite a fractured skull, J. A. Simon, 48, of 4318 Murray avenue, was technically under arrest in Presbyterian Hospital today, charged with reckless driving.

Driving in West North avenue, Simon is alleged to have sideswiped a pushcart of Charles Staley, 45, of 1026 Liverpool street. Although both Staley and his cart were knocked to the street, Staley was unhurt.

Police say Simon failed to stop. Continuing on down the street, he collided with an automobile driven by Ralph Yann, 737 Lime street, stopped at Irwin avenue by a traffic light, police added. Yann was unhurt.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

WALSH, RUPP TALK AT RALLY HERE TONIGHT

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, first of the train of national Democrats to be brought to Pittsburgh by the Democratic County Committee on behalf of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt, will address a mass meeting tonight in Carnegie Hall, North Side. A second speaker will be Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for the Senate from Pennsylvania.

The Democrats are preparing an old-time political celebration tonight in advance of the meeting. Walsh, Rupp and other Democrats will parade from downtown headquarters to the North Side, with all the traditional accompaniments of a band and flaring torches.

County Chairman David L. Lawrence will open the meeting, introducing Attorney James L. O'Toole, Jr., chairman of the meetings and speakers committee. First speaker of the evening probably will be Twing Brooks, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Thirtieth District. Judge Edward C. Higbie of Fayette County, Democratic candidate for the Supreme Court, also will speak. Judge Higbie has been touring the state in his campaign, and probably will report on sentiment he found in other counties.

Senator Walsh probably will not arrive in the city until this evening. M. L. Benedum, Hoover supporter in 1928, donor of approximately $100,000 to the Republican campaign of that year, will be host to Rupp at a luncheon, the oil operator having become one of the most ardent supporters of Roosevelt in the present campaign.

THOMAS TALKS HERE OCT. 24

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, will speak in Carnegie Music Hall, October 24. The meeting is part of a nation-wide speaking tour.

John W. Slayton, Socialist candidate for Judge of Supreme Court, will speak tonight at a rally in Odd Fellows' Hall, Second avenue and Flowers street. The meeting is under the auspices of the Fifteenth Ward branch of the Socialist party.

Keep Tars in 'Shorts' From Tropical Lure

COLON, Panama, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Russian whaling ships, manned by men and women dressed in breechclouts or shorts and brassieres, were moored offshore near here early today to prevent their crews from escaping.

The lure of the tropics, it was said, tugged mightily at the hearts of the scantily attired sailor men and women, who mutinied when the vessels were in Kingston, Jamaica, because they were forbidden to "colonize Jamaica for the Soviet government."

MacNider to Address G.O.P. Veteran Unit

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Hanford MacNider, of Iowa, former national commander of the American Legion and former minister to Canada, will be the principal speaker at the initial meeting of the service men's group of the Republican State Committee at a local hotel tomorrow noon.

The Republican State Committee expects a large number of service men from all parts of the state.

HERE'S NEW HEALTH FOR YOUR LIVER

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million!

That tired, frowsy feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil, or candy and chewing-gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are, you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver which does not yield sufficient bile—causing pimples, blemishes, headaches, bread breath and a general run-down feeling.

What you need is something which acts thoroughly but harmlessly upon the liver. And in Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets you will find that "something," which stimulates the bile flow.

A successful substitute for calomel, these famous tablets are compounded of pure vegetable ingredients, and have been praised for years by millions.

To get and keep the bile flowing freely—correcting constipation, skin troubles, and win back that "fine-and-dandy" feeling of youth—go to your druggist for Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets today. 15c, 30c, 60c.

VOLPE PROBERS THINK SPINELLI FLED TO ITALY

Somewhere in Italy, possibly in the peaceful little town of Argoloi, where he was born, detectives believe Giuseppe Spinelli has laid away his two guns, is picking up the broken threads again and trying to forget the rackets, Pittsburgh sleuths, the appellation of "Big Mike" and the slaying of the three Volpe brothers, John, James and Arthur.

City detectives are sending out today hundreds of circulars to fellow detective departments of American cities. On it they ask that "Big Mike" be arrested, along with two other unidentified men, for the murder of the Volpes, July 29, in the Rome Coffee Shop, 704 Wylie avenue.

TRAIL OF FLIGHT

The circular makes no mention of Italy, but it may bring information to check the alleged slayer over his trail of flight—believed to be through Canada to Europe.

It contains a photograph of the man and mentions his alias, Richard Roe.

It does not mention that the Italian embassy has been asked to co-operate by Dr. G. Giurato, consul here, and have the Italian government seek "Big Mike" and expel him to Switzerland. Once there, the Swiss authorities will hold him for extradition.

Giurato has acted at the request of police, Ferris said.

BLONDE GIVES CLUE

A blonde woman, who is said to have identified Spinelli as the man who in front of the Rome Coffee Shop pulled out two guns and emptied them at Johnny Volpe as he fled down Wylie avenue, gave detectives the basis for their belief. Ferris learned a passport had been issued to Spinelli in 1930 and is valid for two years. He believes Spinelli accompanied John Bazzano to New York, registered with him at a hotel there just prior to the sack murder of Bazzona, and later fled to Canada and Italy.

Bazzano held the lease on the Rome Coffee Shop. His hacked body was found in Brooklyn 10 days after the Volpe murders.

Spinelli was listed on the circular as 37, height 5 feet 11 inches, weight 190 pounds, dark brown hair and eyes, smooth face.

Two men called L. Bright, 301 Roup stret, to an automobile at Coral street and Clarendon place, pointed a revolver and robbed him of $11, he told police. Bright believed the pair calling to him for street directions.

Thomas Strouthers, of 2422 Center avenue, was robbed of $40 by an armed highwayman while walking in Soho street, near Center avenue.

JULIAN HUXLEY SEES WORLD OF 'SUPERMEN'

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—A great British scientist has arrived here and has sketched a strange picture of the world of tomorrow.

A world whose policies will be controlled by one great federation of states—a world of cities of towering residence and business skyscrapers, set wide apart in parks, a world of specialized supermen—a world where families will be ordered at will in size and sex.

FAMOUS FATHER

He is Prof. Julian S. Huxley, son of Thomas Henry Huxley, who with Darwin, so completely changed the outlook of modern biological thinking.

He is here to deliver a series of memorial lectures on "The Biology of Human Nature" at Stanford University.

Speaking of the production of a race of supermen, he declared:

"What is good for mankind will not be one man made in the same monotonous and mechanical mold. That would make life both dull and inefficient. But the time approaches when there will be discrimination in breeding."

Of birth control he said:

"You control your immigrants. Why not the people whom you permit to breed? It is no worse to let people into your country who are unfit to populate it than it is to permit those already there to reproduce their weak stocks."

"SUPERNORMAL STUDY"

Huxley mentioned research being carried on in Paris with "supernormal phenomena," in which scientists have been able to detect by means of infra-red rays the spectral emanations from a psychic, Rudy Schneider. He said:

"This is the first time that science has been able to actually check and detect those supernormal phenomena connected with life and death, that before has been sensed only by the hyper-sensitive."

In the new state which Huxley pictures as the future inheritance of mankind, disease will be either entirely eliminated or controlled.

OPPOSE WOMEN AS DELEGATES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Eligibility of women as delegates to future conventions of the United Lutheran Church in America loomed today as a possible controversial issue at the eighth biennial convention of the church which opens here tomorrow night.

Majority and minority reports on the question are to be submitted to the convention, church workers said, by a committee appointed to study the subject at the last biennial convention in Milwaukee.

Opposition to election of women delegates and women officials in the church was expressed at the annual convention of the Lutheran ministerium of Pennsylvania at Lancaster, Pa., last spring in the report of a special committee.

JURIST DEFIES PHILA. MACHINE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of Common Pleas Court, known as the city's most severe jurist in dealing with convicted criminals, has defied the Philadelphia Republican organization to defeat him next year when he comes up for renomination.

Previous printed reports, which never were confirmed, indicated that several powerful political chieftains would attempt to make the jurist walk the political plank.

Judge McDevitt yesterday said he will accept defeat at the polls rather than yield to demands of "certain politicians that he lessen his war against crime," declaring:

"I never have and never will take orders from any gang of any description."

'REVENGE' SEEN IN BOWSER FIRE

KITTANNING, Pa., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—A revenge motive was advanced by state police last night for the burning of three barns on farms owned by Watson Bowser, contractor, under indictment for perjury in Pittsburgh's alleged "trucking racket."

Incendiary evidence is being sought in the ruins of the barns, burned early yesterday. Damage amounted to about $25,000.

Meanwhile, officers said they questioned Bowser, his relatives and neighbors.

The barns, located on the Kittanning-Cowansville road, contained all the grain grown on the farms this summer.

Mrs. Wallace Reid Settling Big Suit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—(Universal.)—Mrs. Gabrielle Darley Melvin's $50,000 damage suit against Mrs. Dorothy Davenport Reid, widow of Wallace Reid, film star, the All-Star Features, Inc., and others, for the alleged invasion of her past, is being settled out of court.

Mrs. Melvin alleged the defendants incorporated into a film the story of her past life, wherein she was tried for murder here in 1915, when she was accused of having slain a man who had wronged her. She was acquitted.

Bellevue Man Hurt, Probe Gang Revenge

AKRON, O., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Police are investigating the story of Roy Miller, 22, of Bellevue, Pa., who claims gangsters shot at him and then ran him down with an automobile here last night.

Miller, injured, police say, declared he had left home to "get away" from a gang and go straight," and that he was followed here by one of the gangsters.

Mummers' Parade Halted By Slump

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—H. Bart McHugh, director, has announced the official New Year mummers' parade for 1933 has been called off because Mayor J. Hampton Moore, felt the city could not afford to provide prizes. The colorful parade has featured Philadelphia's New Years program for 31 years.

Bandits 'Warned' New Banks Will Have No Cash

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(Universal.)—The new Home Loan banks will handle no cash.

Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the board, explained today he wanted this information broadcast so machine gunners will feel no temptation to shoot up the new institutions.

Rainspout Burglar Gets $400 in Gems

A burglar climbed a rainspout and entered the second-floor apartment of Joseph Boyd, at 1926 Bedford avenue, stole two diamond rings valued at $400 and $10 in cash last night.

After ransacking the Boyd apartment, he visited one on the first floor occupied by Frank Banderoff and obtained $10 in cash and a receipt for a $1,000 money order. Occupants of both appartments were absent during the robberies.

'Blind Baggage' Passenger Killed

Riding "blind baggage" on the Pennsylvania Railroad's Oil City Express, Denver Chappman, 32, of Pomeroy, O., and an unidentified companion, fell under the train at Red Bank early today and was fatally hurt. Chappman's companion was taken to a hospital in Oil City in a serious condition.

WAR, REBELLION RAGE IN CHINA, MANCHURIA

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—North, south, east and west, hundreds of thousands of soldiers waged civil war and rebellion throughout China and Manchuria today, from the Northern border of Manchuria to the Province of Fukien on the south, and from Western Szechuan Province to Shantung on the east.

There were reports also of an impending uprising in Chihli province, in which Peiping is located. These were based on a sudden mysterious appearance from retirement of Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian general," who recently went from his retreat in Shantung to Kalgan, west of Peiping.

This gave rise to a report he is attempting to gather together the military leaders of the Northwest for a drive against Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, former Manchurian war lord, at Peiping, to regain control of North China.

250,000 IN BATTLE

In the province of Szechuan approximately 250,000 soldiers are involved in the struggle for power among the military groups. The fighting is centered around Chengtu, the provincial capital, and, together with the other troubles, is the cause of considerable uneasiness among national government officials at Nanking.

In Shantung the fighting, pillaging and murder which began more than a week ago is still going on, in spite of appeals from local officials to the national government for protection. The struggle is between Han Fu-Chu, the provincial chairman, and Lui Chen-Nien, war lord of the Chefoo area.

Entire villages were reported burned by the troops of both sides; refugees poured into Chefoo, many of them with bayonet wounds; farmers who had rejoiced over the first bountiful crop since the civil wars of 1928 and 1929 are experiencing miserable conditions, and it is feared that large stocks of linen and thread in the hands of up-country workers in that center of the lace and embroidery trade have been seized.

FIGHT COMMUNISTS

In Fukien province, on the southeast, the provincial military forces, including the famous Nineteenth Route Army, which put up the long defense of Shanghai against the Japanese last winter, are engaged in a bitter struggle against Communist forces and bandits.

In Manchuria the Japanese were directing two campaigns, in the north and the south, against Chinese insurgents against the regime of Henry Pu-Yi at Changchun. The drive in the south was directed against 30,000 insurgents, while in the north, around Manchuli on the Soviet border, another large force of insurgents has seized most of the Chinese Eastern Railway west of Hailar and is holding a large number of Japanese as hostages.

TWO GET LIFE UNDER NEW LAW

ERIE, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Larry Woodward, 45, of Mayville, N. Y., and George Faber, 55, of Buffalo, N. Y., were sentenced to life imprisonment today under the new Pennsylvania habitual criminal act.

Judge J. Orin Waite pronounced sentence. The case attracted wide attention throughout the state, as it is believed to be the first time the new act of Assembly authorizing life term for habitual offenders has been invoked.

Faber had pleaded guilty to the four previous convictions, proof of which is alone sufficient to make him liable under the act. Woodward fought the case, but lost after trial.

Bernard Foley, attorney for Woodward, announced he will appeal to the highest court in the state.

The life sentence is discretionary with the court.

Von Zedtwitz Wins State Bridge Trophy

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The Costain silver trophy for the state individual contract bridge championship has been won by Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, New York, president of the American Bridge League, it was announced today. He amassed 137½ match points.

ADMITS HOLDUP AFTER 28 YEARS

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Flint police are checking a story told them by Napoleon B. Partin, 52, of this city, that he and two other men robbed an express car on a train near Stevenson, Ala., 28 years ago and escaped with $190,000, of which $50,000 still is hidden near the scene of the robbery.

Partin sent for officers to come to his home and when they arrived he told them his conscience had been bothering him and he wanted to confess.

He told Detective Inspector James M. Bevard that he and two other men robbed the train after compelling the crew to detach the locomotive and express car and run them down the track three miles, where a safe in the car was blown open and $190,000 taken. He said they escaped and later one of the men, whose name has not been revealed by police, was killed in a fight at Decatur, Ala.

Partin gave the officers the name of the county where the robbery occurred as Jackson and the county seat as Scottsboro.

PITCAIRN AIDS DR. STOKOWSKI

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Raymond Pitcairn, society leader of Philadelphia is supporting Leopold Stokowski, Philadelphia orchestra leader, in his fray with the Philadelphia Orchestra Association over the kind of music to be played this season by the orchestra.

Dr. Stokowski today received a letter from Pitcairn in which he expressed himself in favor of keeping an open-mind on what the world is doing today in music.

Pitcairn was inspired by Stokowski's speech to the Philadelphia orchestra audience in the Academy of Music last Friday. Stokowski had pleaded for an open-minded attitude toward new musical works banned as "debatable" by the orchestra association.

$800 Per Month Ample for Boy of 7

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 11.—(INS.)—A boy at the age of 7 can be reared in reasonable comfort on an allowance of $800 a month, Vice Chancellor Fallon ruled, and that was the amount on which little John Mortimer Coward III, today had to struggle along.

The decision was made when his mother, Mrs. Aufrey L. Carroll, Glen Ridge, N. J., widow of J. Mortimer Coward, wealthy shoe manufacturer, asked an allowance of between $12,000 and $17,500 a year from the Coward estate for the child's maintenance and education.

Swirling water filled the cellar of the Metropolitan Opera House, stopped traffic and delayed subways for an hour.

Police emergency squads restrained throngs of spectators.

EARNINGS DROP CHECKED BY RAILWAYS

Decrease in the revenues of the Pittsburgh Railways Company has been checked, Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the company, said today.

Whether this is due to a turn in business or the elimination of the weekly pass he could not say. But restoration of the pass will not be considered for six months, unless there is a violent unfavorable shift in company earnings.

CASH FARES GAIN

Fitzgerald declared it is the desire of the company to continue the experiment of the pass withdrawal this fall and winter.

Figures submitted to the Traction Conference Board by the company showed that since the experiment began for every pass eliminated slightly more than 18 cash fares have been substituted. On the other hand, it was stated, the revenues have decreased with an indicated decline for 1932 of approximately $3,000,000.

PROLONG EXPERIMENT

Fitzgerald said in regard to withdrawal of the pass:

"Our only experience has been with the summer, our lightest period of traffic. My opinion is we should be allowed to continue the test during this fall and winter, before we come to any conclusion as to the effect on revenues."

Fitzgerald added that as compared to one year ago, the volume of receipts dropped to 75 per cent and is now 76 or 77 per cent of what it was one year ago.

TOWN HALL FEE HEARING SET

Attorney Wilbur L. Austin, one of the three arbitrators on the $150,000 commission claim of Alderman John J. Verona against the Schenley Farms Corporation, alleged to be owed Verona for efforts in the sale of the town hall site to the county, said today a hearing on the claim will be held in his office November 13.

The defendant has made a motion in Common Pleas Court for judgment for want of sufficient evidence. The defense claims Verona, not being a licensed real estate operator, cannot recover for the service. Regardless of this pending action, Austin said, testimony as to the claim would be heard.

The other arbitrators include William B. Secrist and Harry E. Leety, who has not indicated whether he will serve. If he does not, the two remaining arbitrators will be privileged to select a third.

Nicaragua Seeks Peace With Rebels

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Private letters from Nicaraguan political leaders received here today said the Liberal party, alarmed by the spread of Gen. Augustino Sandino's insurgent activities, has sent a peace commission to Northern Nicaragua to attempt to meet Sandino and discuss peace terms with him.

The belief that Sandino would refuse to treat with the Liberals so long as American Marines remained within Nicaragua was expressed in the letters.

Safety Parader Goes Driving, 3 Cars Wrecked

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—John Stanabitz goes in for safety in a big way.

When suburban Oak Park decided on a safety week he came over from his home in nearby Melrose Park and joined in the parade which was the opening event for the anti-carelessness drive.

Having done which, the police say, he took an automobile and went for a drive, wrecking it and two others before he had finished.

The police locked him up.

TRADE LEADER'S SON SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Sewell Lee Avery, Jr., 31, son of one of Chicago's most prominent financiers, was found dead in his father's home today, evidently a suicide.

He was dressed in blue pajamas. His head was stuck into a grate, in which the gas had been turned on. It was said he had recently suffered a nervous breakdown.

Sewell Avery, Sr., president of Montgomery Ward & Co. and of the United States Gypsum Company, collapsed when notified of his son's death.

DUFFY AND 113 TO FACE COURT

John Duffy, the Wheeling Kid, and 113 other defendants will be arraigned in Federal Court Thursday to plead their innocent or guilt.

Those who plead guilty will be sentenced immediately, others will be tried next month.

Of the 114, all but eight are accused of violating the liquor laws. Duffy is charged with failing to file an income tax report on more than $200,000.

IRISH JOBLESS BATTLE POLICE

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Two thousand police, mobilized in anticipation of unemployment disorders, battled in the streets today with 10,000 jobless men and women who had gathered to demand additional government relief.

In the Falls area, three men were wounded by gunfire.

There were disturbances in other parts of the city where bricks were thrown and there was some hand-to-hand fighting. In some cases the police filed out of armored cars, drew their clubs and dispersed the crowd.

Yesterday the Ulster cabinet prohibited all meetings in connection with unemployment troubles and last night 700 extra policemen were drafted from the nearby towns.

'Kidnaped' Pugilist In Training Here

Fears of Philadelphia police that Harry (Kid) Wallace, veteran boxer of that city, has been held a captive by a gang in McKeesport since his bout with Billy Holt there, September 9, were set at rest today when it was learned the boxer is alive and well and training in McKeesport for bouts.

Reports from Philadelphia said the boxer's wife had received a mysterious message from McKeesport which aroused her suspicions. The McKeesport police were asked to investigate.

EXPO BUILDING PURCHASE BY CITY URGED

The City Planning Commission recommended to Council today that steps be taken to acquire the Exposition Building, Duquesne way, from the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society, before the termination of the city's lease, in case decision is made to improve Duquesne way along with Allegheny River wharf improvements.

The lease has several more years to run. Council recently decided to continue it under the present arrangements.

Tentative plans for the improvement of Duquesne way call for continuation of the street plan through the property on which the old building stands.

Council had on record also a communication from the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange protesting Plan "D" of parking and wharf improvements along the Allegheny River front. The plan was developed by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang and Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert.

The exchange feels, according to its communication, that the parking plan would interfere with river commerce and prohibit the use of the wharves for mooring. The city should conserve the river fronts for harbor purposes rather than for parking, the exchange declared.

The $275,000 estate of Henry Holdship King, 93, retired Pittsburgh businessman, who died October 3, is left to his daughter, Winifred J. Schultz, of Long Island. Bequests of $1,000 each are made to John H. Ward and his wife, Valeria Ward, employes.

The will stipulates that Mrs. Schultz is to receive heirlooms of the decedent's grandfather, Henry Holdship, together with King's commissions from the United States government as assistant adjutant general of volunteers, his Pennsylvania war commissions in the Third Cavalry, and the saber he used during the Civil War. The daughter and her husband, Albert B. Schultz, are named executors.

FAMILY PLEADS FOR BIGAMIST

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 11.—The deserted wife of a bigamist today sought the release of George Volkhart from the Allegheny County Workhouse to save herself and two children from starvation.

Mrs. Volkhart, of Haysville, near Pittsburgh, today petitioned court for the release of her husband, who, during a reputed lapse of memory, married Miss Edith M. Pringle, of Mt. Pleasant. He has served two of a nine months' sentence.

Volkhart, a motor mechanic, went to Greensburg to work, met Miss Pringle at a boarding house and several weeks later came to Uniontown and married her.

The deception was discovered when wife No. 1 called the boarding house to tell her husband of a sick child and was informed that Volkhart and his wife had just left.

JURY INDICTS 2 ON NEWSPAPER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The Mahoning County grand jury returned four secret indictments yesterday against six persons, including two officials of the Youngstown Telegram, a newspaper, who were charged with falsifying circulation figures. Two of the others were charged with attempting to bribe a county sanitary district official with $200,000 to obtain contracts.

Felix Bruner, editor of the Telegram, said:

"This is only one round in a long battle with the county prosecutor over public affairs."

Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas was attacked by the newspaper in an attempt to have him removed from office a year ago.

John T. Watters, business manager, and James J. Morrisey, circulation manager, were named jointly in the indictment. Each posted $1,000 bond.

To Mothers
whose children won't eat

NATURE knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system. California fig syrup is all the "medicine" they require.

The Child's Appetite Will Always Respond

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children seem to need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

Children who get fig syrup, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

A single IF

The promises made by the bottlers of California Syrup of Figs are true, and it will do the same for you, IF it's genuine CALIFORNIA. Don't accept substitutes.

Warning

A cheap, underpowered or poorly constructed refrigerator is expensive at any price. You are cautioned against accepting such a refrigerator under the impression that you are getting a genuine Frigidaire with its extra power, extra food space, and extra value. Frigidaire has not lowered its standards to make the new price possible. It is passing on to the public the economies that have been made possible in the last few months. Be sure you get a genuine Frigidaire. Unless the refrigerator you buy bears the Frigidaire name-plate, it is not a genuine Frigidaire.

And today, Frigidaire is easier to own than ever before.

A taxpayers' suit, through which a preliminary injunction had been obtained recently to restrain Frank J. Bayer, Kennedy Township tax collector, from further collecting 1932 road taxes, was not prosecuted yesterday in Common Pleas Court, and Judge W. Heber Dithrich dissolved the injunction.

Since it was granted Bayer filed a bond in Quarter Sessions Court in the amount fixed by the township supervisors, who had overlooked this legal requirement, the court was informed.

The suit, filed by Harry A. Pearson and John C. Hattman, complained the tax duplicates had been delivered to Bayer without the formality of posting bond in the amount of the assessed taxes.

We All Can't be Satisfied It Isn't Human Nature

This reminds us of the fact that lots of folks are not satisfied with their present living quarters. Some want to move into new houses, some want to move into a different apartment, and still others want to eat somebody else's cooking for awhile. While these folks are thinking about moving, others are thinking of buying or selling something, trading this or that and lots of other wants too numerous to mention.

How can you reach these people? There is only one answer. Through the classified columns of The Sun-Telegraph, which takes your message into more homes than any other daily paper published in Pittsburgh.

RIDE 'EM, COWBOY

"Nature in the Raw"—as expressed in the famous rodeo cry; inspired by the picture in the July issue of the National Geographic Magazine taken at the Ski Hi Stampede, Monte Vista, Colorado. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

Copr. 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies

Gen. Pulaski Paid Radio Tribute

An address by Calvin Coolidge, President Hoover's predecessor in the White House, at a huge Republican rally in Madison Square Garden, New York, is heard through more than 50 stations of the National Broadcasting Company, including KDKA, tonight at 8:30 o'clock. This will be Coolidge's first and last radio address of the campaign.

Mr. Coolidge

A 30-minute tribute to the memory of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish nobleman, who sacrificed his life for the cause of George Washington and the American Revolution, in an international broadcast from this country to Poland, is scheduled over a nation-wide NBC network and WCAE today at 4:30 p. m. The program, which originates in Washington, marks the 153rd anniversary of Gen. Pulaski's death in 1779, when he was mortally wounded in battle near Savannah. The day recently was designated "Pulaski Day" by President Hoover.

A dramatization of the founding of the Y. M. C. A., 111 years ago, presented in connection with that organization's "Founders' Day" celebration, is scheduled on WJAS tonight at 11 o'clock. At 3:30 on WCAE, Walter W. Head, treasurer of the national council of the Y. M. C. A. and president of the Boy Scouts of America, appears as guest speaker during the Women's Radio Review.

On the same station at 8:30 tonight, Wayne King, America's "Waltz King," inaugurates a new series of dance programs.

Listening In—

Weems With Benny. Rapid-Fire Talkers. Moke in Hospital.

Ted Weems and his orchestra have been chosen to star with Jack Benny when the latter's program moves to a Columbia chain . . . Tom Corwine does the barking you hear in the Thursday night Rin-Tin-Tin Thrillers . . . Incidentally, a story-seeking crowd invariably gathers around Corwine when he enters the studios. He intersperses his tales with all kinds of growls, yips, barks and roars of various animals . . . Frank Parker is shopping for a racoon coat—to go with the tricky little Rolls Royce roadster he bought recently . . . Harry Reser started to play the guitar at the age of 5.

Mr. Weems

A dialer who signs himself "Common Sense" rises to ask: "Just why do sports announcers think they've got to talk so fast that one cannot get half they say and gets the idea that the poor sports ann'r has a job to do and wants to get it over with? Why not give us quality instead of quantity?"

Raymond Scudder, of the New York continuity staff, gathered the material for his "Beachcomber" adventure serial when he was a newspaper feature writer in the South Sea Islands.

R. B. L.—Those "Maude and Cousin Bill" sketches are produced under the direction of Winifred Lenihan, director of the Theater Guild Dramatic School. Maud is played by Vivian Block; Bill, by Andy Donnelly; Henry, by Edwin Wragge; the mother, Ruth Wooster, and the cook, Georgia Burke.

Blaine Moke, of Riggs and Moke, is seriously ill at the West Penn Hospital—which is why you heard Irene Taylor instead of the popular comedy team on WCAE last night at 7. Blaine was taken to the hospital Friday and reports are that he will stay there for at least two weeks.

Merrill Denison, well-known playwright, does the dramatic episodes for the new "Great moments in History" program. . . . Denison dreads the idea of sitting down to a typewriter and won't do anything until it's absolutely necessary—that's why he writes radio plays. He has a deadline—that certain time when the microphone is cut in. . . . Nevertheless, he can turn out a play between breakfast-time and noon . . .

The story of a band of thieves and their seizure of $100,000 worth of aspirin, which earned them the title "The Headache Gang," is the Dance Hour drama on WCAE at 10 tonight. Roger Wolfe Kahn provides the rhythm.

Georgie Price substitutes a dramatic recitation of the poem, "Seven Ages," with a musical background by Benny Krueger's orchestra, for his usual impersonation on WJAS at 7:45.

A program composed entirely of songs of the South Sea Islands, including "Hello Hawaii," "Underneath the South Sea Moon" and "Yaaka Hula Hickey Doola," is the Sanderson-Crumit offering on WCAE at 8.

Romantic songs in two languages are presented by the Street Singer with Nat Shilkret on WJAS at 9 p. m. "Just a Love Nest" and "Nur Eine Nacht" are highlights.

The "Pittsburgh Industries" series of talks on KDKA, formerly heard at 7:15, moves to a 7:45 spot beginning tonight. Wynne Morris, president of the Rieck-McJunkin Dairy Company, is guest speaker.

Seibel Discusses Theater Tonight

George Seibel, dramatic and literary critic of the Sun-Telegraph, discusses personalities and news of the theater during his weekly "Plays and Players" talk on WCAE tonight at 7.

Uncle Bob and Betty offer 15 minutes of delightful chatter and fun when they read the Sun-Telegraph comic pages on WCAE tonight at 6 o'clock.

Speaking direct from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest news flashes to WCAE listeners at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

How Do Dancers Manage?

The professional engagements of a dancer make no allowance for the trying time of a woman's monthly sickness. Yet her period must not interfere with her easy, effortless performance. Such women do not "fight" periodic pain, but avoid it. They use Midol, and do not suffer even a twinge of menstrual pain. Why don't you meet these monthly emergencies with this remarkable modern discovery?

Midol takes pain off the calendar. Monthly martyrdom is foolish. For Midol is as harmless as the aspirin tablet you take for your headache! All drug stores; just ask for Midol.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

The smart set, looking strikingly fashionable in new fall clothes, flocked to the Calvary Episcopal Church, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock to see Mary Hill, daughter of Jerome Hill, become the bride of William Metcalf Doolittle, son of the William G. Doolittles, of Sewickley.

Although the church was simply decorated, and there was no large reception, just a gathering of the bridal party and families in the Hill home, the wedding was distinguished.

White chrysanthemums and cibotium ferns decorated the altar. The tall, slender bride was patrician in her gown of white satin, moulded to the figure, and falling in the back to form a long train. Her veil was of tulle, and she carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

She had just two attendants, who wore gowns of peach pink dull velvet having criscrossed capes of the same material and full skirts, shirred at the hipline. Their sailor hats were made of the same material, and they carried boquets of blue delphinium, tea roses and bittersweets. The bittersweet was most successful, the first time I've ever seen it combined in a bridal party bouquet.

Velvet Frocks

Virginia Drake, one of the J. Frank Drakes' charming daughters, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Robert Hooker, of Burlingame, Cal., was matron of honor.

William M. Scaife, Jr., was best man, and the ushers were James Todd, Jr., Henry Lynn, Edward Hill, Andrew B. Berger, Jr., Louis Trainer, Royal S. Goldsbury, Jr., Robert Clements, of Cleveland, and Percy Owen, of Detroit.

Upon their return from their wedding trip in Bermuda, the young Doolittles will be at home in Sewickley, where they've taken a house.

House in Sewickley

One of the most attractive costumes worn by the guests was that of popular Katherine Collin. It was of blueish-gray wool crepe with sapphire blue outlining the high neckline in front, and crossing in the back to the waistline. She wore a beret type hat of the same material.

Rita Borntraeger wore a stunning coat of mandarin green wool with two bands of blue fox decking the cape collar of green, and Madelaine Alexander wore a striking coat of pale purple with krimmer collars and cuffs.

Mrs. Gordon Fisher was there in purple-red wool crepe, Betty McKay in a brown ensemble, Margarent Brill, the James O. Flowers, Louise Reed, her mother, Mrs. W. Edgar Reed, Mrs. Mortimer Miller, Mrs. John W. Lawrence and Mrs. Alan Humphreys.

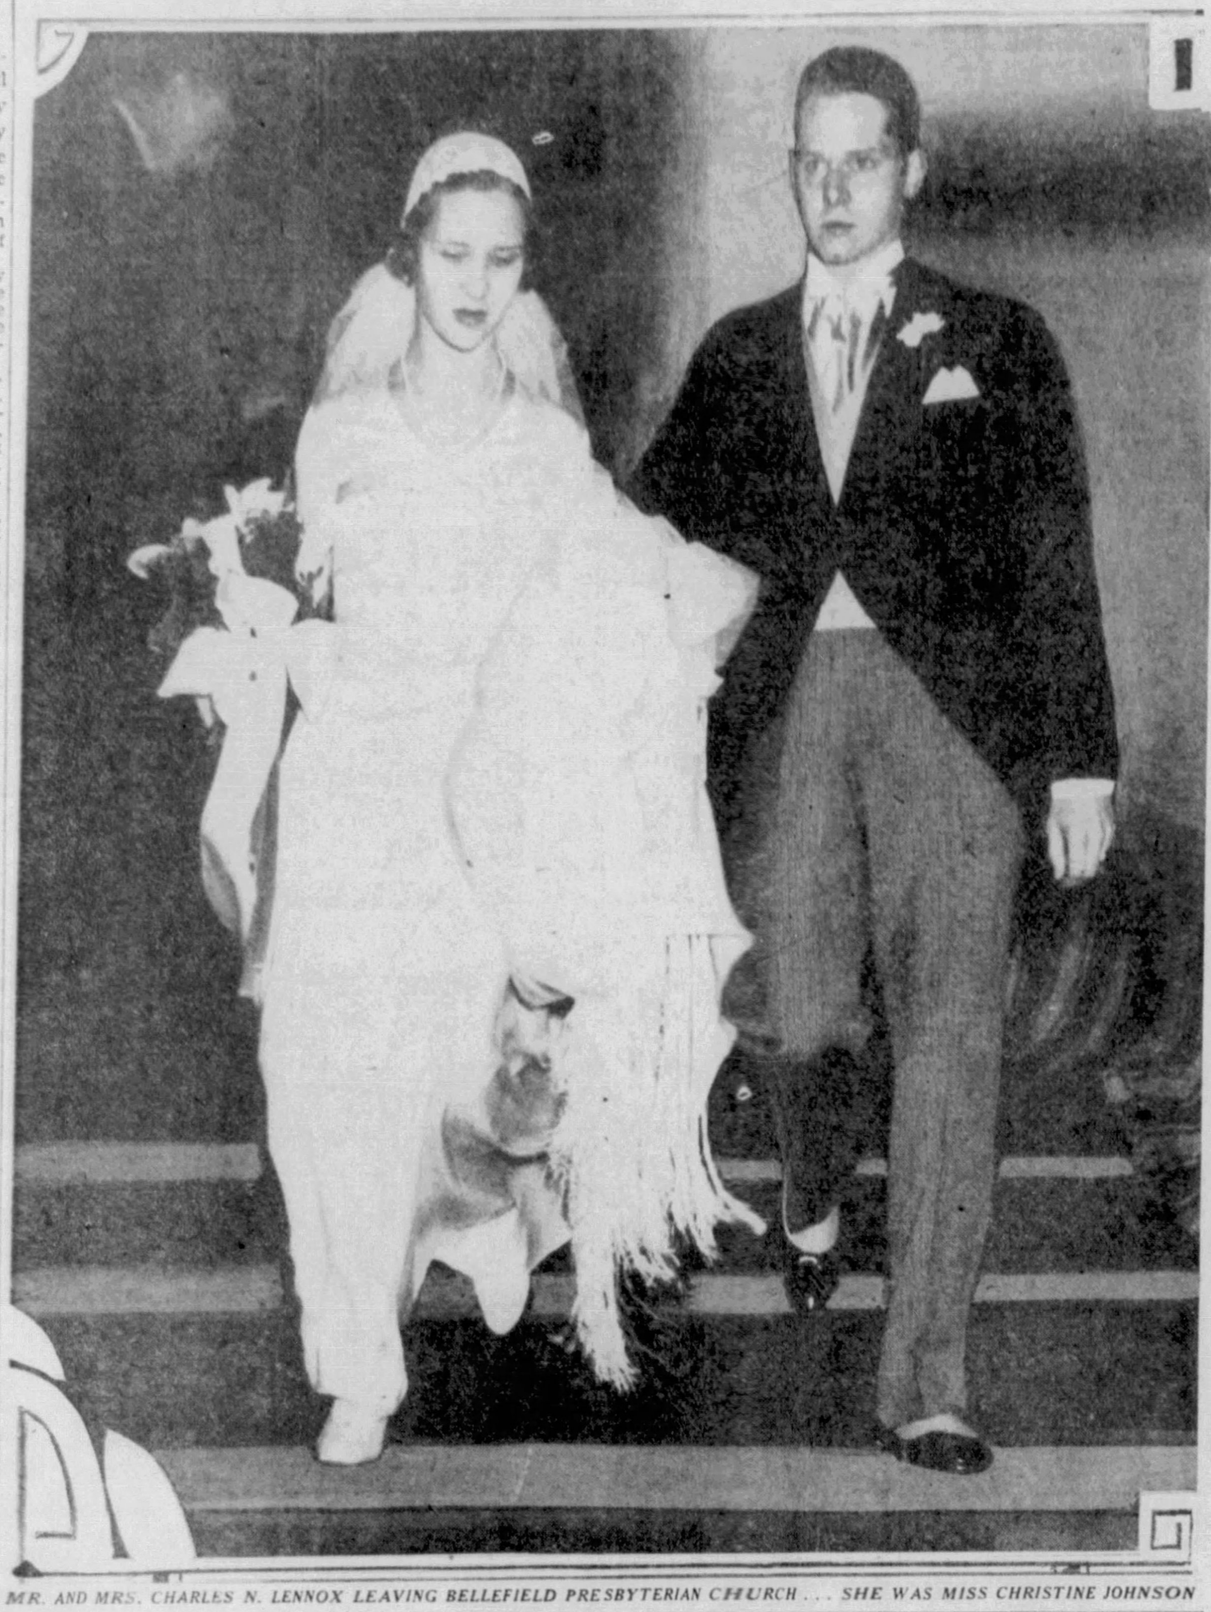
The James Chambers McKays were there, who were married so recently themselves, Frances Forsyth, Frances Fitzgerald looking smart in a hunting green wool crepe frock and a mink cape and a brown sailor hat, Mrs. James McKay, Mrs. Walter Schleiter, Mrs. W. J. Crittenden in black chiffon, accented in white.

Smart Set Attends

Others I had a glimpse of were Mrs. Raymond Hilliard, Mary Childs in a red satin back crepe, with the puffed sleeves of the satiny side, and in a black sailor hat; Mrs. William S. Moorhead, Mrs. T. M. Jones III, Neil Stewart Zang and Mrs. William Zang.

Nancy Doyle wearing orange crepe, and Virginia in green, trimmed with twisted brown velvet, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, Mrs. George P. Bassett, Lydia Irish, Susan O'Neil, Mary Louise Bickford, and ever so many more were there.

SOCIETY BRIDE LEAVING BELLEFIELD ALTAR



MR. AND MRS. CHARLES N. LENNOX LEAVING BELLEFIELD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH . . . SHE WAS MISS CHRISTINE JOHNSON

Miss Christine Johnson Weds C. N. Lennox at Church Ceremony

There was another large wedding yesterday, that of petite Christine Johnson, the Hussey Bardell Johnsons' daughter, and Charles N. Lennox, of the Pennsylvania Apartments.

They were married yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Bellefield Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Robert MacGowan. Yellow chrysanthemums and cibotium ferns were the decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in white satin, fashioned with long, tight-fitting sleeves, a V-neckline, and a train falling from the waistline in back, over which cascaded yards and yards of tulle veil. Like the other bride of yesterday, she, too, carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Brilliant autumn foliage was the inspiration for the colors worn by her bridal party. The maid of honor wore scarlet red Moroco crepe, fashioned with a short train, and trimmed with black beads, used to decorate the short sleeves and to form girdles.

Her hat was a turban style in black, the first time black has been used in a wedding costume in Pittsburgh, a striking note.

The bridesmaids wore similar gowns in orange-red or sunset hue. They carried sheaves of huge dahlias matching the tone of their dresses.

Martha Jane Johnson was her sister's charming maid of honor. And Elizabeth Davison, Helen McCune, Lorraine Taylor, Alice Arnd, Jane Forrester and Dorothy Hardie were bridesmaids.

S. Harris Johnson, Jr., was best man, and Edmund M. Campbell, Charles G. Cole, C. Donald Davidson, of Coraopolis; J. Robert Autenreith, of Beaver Falls, cousin of the bride; De Walt J. Hicks, Jr., and Harry C. May, Jr., were the ushers.

After the ceremony there was a dinner and reception at the Pittsburgh Country Club. The bridal party received before a screen of cibotium ferns. The bride's table was lovely with brilliant dahlias and delphinium, arranged around crystal gaze globes the length of the crescent shaped table, lighted by peach tapers, and the ends of the table were banked with huge dahlias. Smaller tables for the guests were centered with fall flowers.

Dormont College Club To Hear Judge Soffel

The Dormont College Club will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. B. H. Canon, Vernon drive, Mt. Lebanon, to hear Judge Sara Soffel speak. The presidents of other South Hills organizations have been invited as honor guests.

Society Folk Attend Nixon Show Opening

Even after a thrilling afternoon with two weddings, many of the fashionables were faithful to the theater, and arrived at the Nixon last night in time to see the curtain rise on "The Pure in Heart."

Betty Kennedy was there, looking smart in frothy pistachio green lace and a trick little jacket of green taffeta with a shirred petal-like collar of taffeta. Her mother chose emerald green satin.

In one group visiting between acts was Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife in black crepe with straps of the material over the shoulder, and the v-decolletage in back, cut smartly low; Mrs. Blair Childs in heavy cream lace with a narrow band of fur on the bertha collar, and Mrs. William Blair, Jr., in black crepe.

Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson was smart in black crepe. Mrs. George A. Kelly III, was there, young Gretchen Bickford in white satin, Mrs. Harry Miller, Mrs. W. J. Schleiter, Mrs. George Pearson, Frances Fitzgerald in black chiffon and her mother Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald.

Mrs. George Pearson arrived late. Mrs. Harold Williams wore green lace, Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, yellow taffenta; Madelaine MacClintock, pink crepe and lace. Miss Laetitia Hunter, Rosamound Fitch, Madelaine Alexander, the Raymond Hilliards and Mrs. Charles Flaccus also attended.

An interesting color combination was chosen by Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III. With her dress of periwinkle blue crepe, she used vivid dahlia red for accent.

Katharine Frazer looked smart in green satin, and her mother, Mrs. John G. Frazer, in red figured chiffon. Mrs. Charles S. Wunder was a theater patron last night, and so were Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, Mrs. John W. Lawrence, Mrs. R. Kent Hanson, Mrs. C. E. Lott, Mrs. Mortimer Miller and Mrs. Herbert DuPuy.

Mrs. Edward Wallis Woods, Jr., attended, as did Frances Johnston, in black velvet; Clara Dorothea Jenkins, in yellow crepe with a festive corsage of orchids; Mrs. T. M. Jones III, Mrs. Oliver Keller and Collie Jennings, one of the debs of the season.

Another deb of this year, Dorothy Blaxter, chose a black satin dress with two tiers of circular ruffles of the same material marking the skirt and a brief jacket of garnet red velvet having the shirred sleeves flared below the elbow.

Her mother, Mrs. H. V. Blaxter, was in black crepe with diamente outlining the decolletage.

Ogontz Alumnae Will Elect on October 24

Members of the Ogontz Alumnae Association, back in town after summer holidays, are planning on quite an affair for their opening session.

They will hold their annual luncheon Monday, October 24, in the Fox Chapel Golf club, one of the most attractive country clubs round about, to elect officers, and to have a bridge later in the afternoon.

Miss Abby Sutherland, Miss Alice Gentry and Col. Landon, of Ogontz, will be guests of honor. Col. Landon is head of the Morgantown Military Academy as well as being associated with Ogontz.

Making plans for this notable event is Mrs. Theodore Friend, Jr., who is being aided by the Pittsburgh president, Mrs. James Graves.

PRACTICAL CLOTHES FOR THE AMERICAN

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, Oct. 11.—One of the reasons for the present trend toward practical, wearable lines in French clothes is the fact that French dressmakers are making a thorough study of the American woman and the kind of life she leads. They are studying her, not only as she is abroad, when she is traveling and at leisure, but they are going right into her own American home, watching her manage her house, her children, watching what kind of clothes she wears when she shops as well as when she goes out dancing.

* * *

VERA BOREA—the young Italian countess who has been so successful in Paris—has just presented to Paris a collection of clothes which she thinks are more suited to American women than anything she has ever made. Fresh from a trip throughout the United States, where she not only visited factories to see how American clothes were made, but where she visited in American homes of all types, Madame Borea puts a new American viewpoint into all her present designing.

* * *

SHE HAS, for one thing, learned how to make the kind of dress that all American women like to wear an all-around affair which looks as well at a luncheon as it does out golfing. This is, of course, a difficult thing; the dress must not be definitely one thing or another; it must be simple, but not too simple, or it becomes tiresome; it must be colorful, but not colorful enough to be easily identified.

* * *

THE BOREA dress in today's sketch is one of this type—a mottled woolen, in red-brown and white with wavy stripes which are sometimes horizontal, sometimes vertical. The only contrast is on the collar, where the reverse side of the fabric, slightly darker than the other, is used. The belt is a sash of the fabric, which ties in a loose single knot at the back.

Youth is served in daytime dresses of wool and crinkled crepe at Grabowsky's. The spirited Schiaparelli has devised ingenious gadgets that add dash and sparkle. For instance, there are metallic belts of unusual design and odd metal fastenings of her inspiration. Wilkinsburg Club Prepares New Puppet Show

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Those talented members of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club Junior Section, Mrs. Edward F. Ege, Mrs. Richard T. Earle and Dorothy Phillips, have another puppet show to their credit. The play, which is Miss Phillips' contribution and has been given the alliterative title, "Dame Drudgery Dreams," has been done especially for presentation at Utility Hall in connection with Miss Karen Fladoes' classes on October 17, 18 and 19.

It will be presented first at 7:30 Monday evening, then at 2 and 7:30 on Tuesday, and at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the nineteenth, and will be given in a setting showing miniature household equipment with which the cleverly constructed puppets have been made to accord in size.

Mrs. Earle and Mrs. Ege, with the assistance of Mr. Earle, have made the puppets and will also be the puppeteers, and Miss Phillips, in addition to being the authoress, will furnish the musical setting for the performances.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS HOLD CENTER OF STAGE

Pittsburghers Willing Actors.

By MISS MINT

"Have you a package of Wrigley's?" "Yes." "Then, I have a dollar bill for you." So the dialogue runs in this Wrigley act, staged in Pittsburgh. It is fascinating to observe the emotions portrayed by the various characters in this bit of real drama. Can you imagine the genuine surprise of Wrigley users of long-standing, who have no knowledge of "Miss Mint and her dollar bills," when I pass them one of the Wrigley Dollars?

MRS. LINA GARDINI, R. F. D. No. 2, Bridgeville, was starry-eyed, and nearly breathless at the idea of receiving a dollar bill—just because she had a package of her favorite gum with her, when I stopped her on Liberty Ave. "This seems like a dream to me," she murmured, twisting the crisp dollar about in her hand. It isn't a dream, Mrs. Gardini—to prove it, buy something you need with that dollar. Mrs. Gardini says she prefers Wrigley's Spearmint—"because of the flavor." Try it, folks, you have a treat in store for yourself.

ISABEL BURCHILL, 3346 Fifth Ave.; LILLIAN LAUN, 1108 Falyan St.; D. D. GRAHAM, 514 Lovelace St.; MRS. A. V. DAVIS, 414 Chalfont St.; NOX M. KEHEW, Bradford Woods; MISS IDA EGGER, 108 Evans Ave.; BETTY BARUTH, 1450 Barnsdale St., and MR. H. BURSTIN, 538 Smithfield St., have received their Wrigley Dollars.

Keep a supply of Wrigley's at all times. Then there will be no danger of being caught short. Be ready to collect that Wrigley dollar when I stop you.

Illustrated Tree Talk Given in Mt. Lebanon

Stereopticon pictures of beautiful and unusual trees and equally beautiful scenes that he and his wife traveled 50,000 miles to take were shown the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club yesterday by James A. G. Davey, of the Davey Tree Expert Company. Much interesting information and many odd facts were also given by Mr. Davey in the pleasant and enjoyable talk with which he accompanied the showing of the slides.

For instance, the story of the African woman who, after bathing her baby in dirty water, licked the child dry. Or the fact that Australian grass trees grow so slowly that no one ever sees one grow to maturity. Or his amusing allusion to the African debutante's "afternoon dress" of spinach.

Mr. Davey showed some especially lovely views of the pohutukawa tree, the seeds of whose gorgeous red bloom he has presented to the Arnold Arboretum and whose beauty he hopes to see glorifying the Atlantic seaboard in years to come.

Mr. Davey's talk was the chief feature of a reception honoring Mrs. Charles Goldthwaite, the new executive head of the club. There was music, too, by one of the newest and best of the many little units that have recently come into being—a trio composed of Lillian Gardner, Leola Conaway and Eda Kreiling, with Nellie Risher Roberts at the piano.

The Uxority Club will begin its new activities with a reception to be held Thursday afternoon in the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Ben G. Graham is acting as chairman for the afternoon with Mrs. J. Freeman Guy assisting her. Mrs. A. B. Siviter and Mrs. Will Earhart will present a musical program. In the receiving line will be Mrs. Carl M. McKee, who is serving her second year as president; Mrs. P. H. Rinehart, vice president; Mrs. Frank Murphy, Mrs. Joseph Fleming and Mrs. R. G. Dean. New members will be special guests.

The executive board was entertained by the Philadelphia Federation of Women's Clubs and allied organizations. Three dinners were held last night. Mrs. Hamilton presided at the president council dinner, attended by club presidents. Mrs. John F. Frick, past president, and Mrs. William E. Buehler, chairman of the past presidents' special committee of the Philadelphia Federation, were in charge of a dinner for past presidents. A dinner to delegates and club members was presided over by Mrs. John M. Phillips, first vice president of the federation.

Clear-Headed . . . Bright Eyed
No Acid Headache . . . No "Heady" feeling

How by Doing One Simple Thing You Can Minimize After-Effects of Too Much Food . . . Too Much Tobacco . . . To a Marked and Amazing Degree

"Don't overindulge—don't eat too much, smoke too much, drink unwisely" is the Law of Good Health.

If you don't follow that law—Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; scientists say; is the QUICKEST, SIMPLEST AND EASIEST way to correct its effects. All you do is this:

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water before bed."

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water with the juice of a WHOLE ORANGE when you get up."

Or take six Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets the same way, which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia, for each Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablet equals one teaspoonful of the liquid Milk of Magnesia.

What It Does

This small dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts to alkalize the system. And an alkalized system is largely impervious to the bad aftereffects of excessive smoking—excessive eating, drinking.

It sweetens and purifies your stomach. Banishes the acid headache, sour stomach, deadly depression that mark the price of immoderations.

Results are quick and almost invariable. Your head clears, your stomach settles—you feel like a new person.

Every person who smokes should know this. And take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia EVERY NIGHT before bed. Every person who overindulges in food or drink should know it. And keep a bottle of "Phillips'" in his medicine chest.

Try it—just once. You will be amazed at what it does.

When you buy, be sure to get the REAL article—Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Always ask for it by the name Phillips—for all "milk of magnesia" is not alike in effect. So take care to see you get Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—the kind doctors endorse—judged the most powerful neutralizer of stomach acids known.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Items I Never Met Before

(But which you knew all along. Oh, sure!)

That Herbert Spencer distrusted Government ownership so much that he delivered his important manuscripts to his publisher by hand rather than risk them with the postoffice.

That the economic misery of the last three years has already cost more than the full value of all the war debts.

That William Shakespeare bequeathed his second best bedstead to his wife, and that among the famous people who believed his stuff was written by Bacon were Mark Twain and Bismarck.

That in 24 years a library expert has never known a case of an infectious disease due to germs carried by library books.

That Baron Jean Empain, famous French traction magnate, believes we are back to a normal business state. That is, he believes we all are producing about what we are using.

That New York State's executioner receives $150 per electrocution but wants $300. (Wonder if he has dreams?)

That the Government issued only one coin which featured an individual woman's head. The Queen Isabelle quarter.

That H. L. Doherty, the big banker, has financed hundreds of his employes through college. (I'll say he's Big.)

That Claudette Colbert, the movie and stage star, is really Lillian Chauchoin.

That Shakespeare used "penthouse" in Macbeth.

That New York policemen pay for the polish they use on department flivvers out of their own pockets. They also pay $1.25 weekly for the maintenance of a bed they never use.

That the needle of the compass does not point exactly to the north—but a bit to the east or west. (Oh, all right.)

That at the height of its glory the city of Athens was only as large as eight New York City blocks. (He's marvelous!)

That it is possible to hurt a plant's feelings. A British scientist can prove it with machines. (Do tell?)

That a tiny drop of oil no larger than the head of a safety match has been torn into 100,000,000 particles. (That's how they waste time up at the Schenectady laboratories.)

That hard-boiled eggs are easier to digest than soft-boiled ones, at your own peril, that is.

That everybody thinks the climate is changing. (One hundred and fifty years ago they thought winters were becoming warmer.)

That it took 100,000 men 20 years to build the Pyramids.

That a campaign of silence, with a ban on political speeches, is advocated by Justice Brandeis, of the Supreme Court, as an aid to constructive thinking. (And a bank president made a political speech in support of the idea!!!)

That China is more musically inclined than any other country. It publishes 500 magazines on music.

That Jean Henri, major of Napoleon's drum corps, was the first man to use a cymbal as a musical effect. (So that's the guy?)

That "to dun" originated in England during the reign of Henry VIII. A lawyer named Joe Dun made a rep for himself collecting bills from people who got careless, hence the expression.

That the father and the husband of the woman who nursed Mike Angelo were stone cutters, and they often put the chisel in the child's paws as a plaything. (I used to play with a typewriter.)

That one day last year Ben Halverson moved out of a Rashold (Wis.) house. Halvor Benson moved into it the same day.

That Apollonius Tyaneus disciplined himself for the Pythagorean School of Philosophy by 5 years of silence. (The sap!)

That stones and rocks can be attacked by germs.

That the bacillus of the common cold seems to prefer college men, because they get on the average of 3 attacks a year—or twice is many as their kinsmen and friends who stay at home.

That if the volumes containing all legal decisions (7,000 of 'em) were piled one on top of the other, it'd be higher than the Empire State Building—if they didn't topple over, I mean.

That Denver has a Socialist running for office named Alfred E. Smith. (Imagine a Smith being a Socialist!)

That imitation isn't always the sincerest form of flattery. It's usually the sincerest form of insult.

That a very good show called "Merry Go Round," which exposed corrupt politics, and which got swell reviews, had to close when it played at the Avon Theater. Because someone suddenly decided the house was "violating" fire regulations—and 50 seats were removed from the tiny people. The interference threw 35 actors out of work. The 50 seats were put back for "Nona," the Peggy (Mrs. A. C. Blumenthal) Fears show.

"Blondie"

Marion Davies' starring vehicle, "Blondie of the Follies," will have its first East End showing tomorrow in Enright.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With the settlement of the music trouble in the Nixon, the Ed. Wynn show, "The Laugh Parade," is back on the books. It will come as originally scheduled, October 24. When it appeared there would be no means of accompaniment, this show, as well as "Forward March," which was to have had its premiere October 17, were cancelled, and it was not possible to restore the latter. For the present there is no booking to take its place, hence the Wynn opera may be the next production to follow this week's attraction, "The Pure in Heart," which will have its first matinee tomorrow. Hereafter there will be 10 moosickers in the Nixon pit for dramatic shows, the number to be augmented for those having tunes.

The Mr. Vail of the Edwin Vail players continues to make good on his promise of plays of recent production to be presented by the resident company in the Pitt, which in this, its second week, is offering "As Husbands Go." For his succeeding play Mr. Vail has procured "Animal Kingdom," a comedy by Philip Barry. Ten months ago this play had its premiere here with Leslie Howard in the featured role, after which it played a successful engagement in New York. Alden Chase will play the role originated by Mr. Howard. Opposite him will be Shirley Booth, and they will be supported by other members of the company.

First Bridge Short Is Completed

Shooting on "The Forced Response," first Ely Culbertson series, "My Bridge Experience," has been completed according to schedule, and work was begun yesterday on the second of the series. Meanwhile the first episode was placed in the cutting room. Rushes of the first episode indicated a highly satisfactory beginning according to Ned E. Depinet, vice president in charge of distribution, and Zion Myers, who is directing.

THEATER PROGRAMS

In New Guild Play at Nixon 'The Pure in Heart' Are Weak in Mind

By GEORGE SEIBEL

When they played that musical whatnot, "Humpty-Dumpty," at the Nixon Theater a few weeks ago, it was clear that the authors had an idea. When they played "The Pure in Heart" last night at the same theater, it was again clear that the author, John Howard Lawson, had an idea. And on careful consideration, it is clear, that they all had the same idea—but in "Humpty-Dumpty" it turned into a farce, and "The Pure in Heart" is turned into a tragedy.

Mr. Seibel

The idea is to have the action all revolve around a musical show, the producers of which need an angel with a certain number of "grand." Then there is a stage-struck girl who gets into the show while the angel is being snared. Three weeks ago the show turned out a big hit, thanks to the talent pushing into it. Last night the talent landed in the morgue, because this is a Guild play, and Guild plays are serious.

Much could be said about Lawson's drama, but the first thing is that the title was a sad misnomer. Instead of "The Pure in Heart" it should be called "The Feeble in Mind." The heroine, Annabel Sparks, who leaves her home for a career in the first scene of the first act, is composed of gush 99 per cent and brains 1 per cent. June Walker plays the part engagingly enough, but Annabel is modeled in butter and melts obligingly into the arms of any adjacent male. Until she loves her gangster Larry.

This gangster is another specimen of minus mentality. He has been a big shot in the alcoholic aristocracy, but when the play begins he is down and out, through with the movie queen who was his moll, and ready to turn sentimental in order to save Annabel from the muck of the "Main Stem." Between acts one and two Annabel drops into the muck twice, and he gets a bullet through his arm. Between the two scenes of the third act, both get shot by an abnormally efficient police force.

PHILOSOPHIC PERKINS

Like a sort of philosophic chorus, Osgood Perkins plays a doctor who invests some money in the show, annexes Annabel for a brief adventure, dresses Larry's arm while Annabel listens in the adjoining bedroom, and threatens to get tight 10 minutes after announcing their sad end to Abe Schultz, producer of the show and Annabel's first boy friend in New York. Perkins gives a very smooth and plausible performance of a well-written role, and Schultz is played with oily dynamics by Robert C. Fischer. As for Larry, Paul Kelly looks clean and struts his sentimental stuff in the approved style of the old melodrama—which is what this play turns into near the end of the second act. All that is needed is for Thurston Hall, who is the amiable angel out of a clear sky, to be somebody's long-lost uncle and save everybody in the last act. But this is a Guild play, and nobody can be saved in a hard-boiled and realistic world, not even June Walker.

The truth is that the drama is narrative when it should be dramatic, and turns upon idle chance where the characters should push it. For instance, if Larry Gordon had not chanced to be shot between acts one and two, and if he had not chanced to come to Dr. Goshen to get his wound dressed, and if Annabel had not chanced to be there to listen, there would be no play.

Here the long arm of coincidence has three elbows.

THOSE CLEVER LINES

It is a pity that the drama is not better welded, for some clever lines give punch to dialogue that is clear-cut when it does not sentimentalize. "She's a newsboy's dream," is an apt description of the movie queen played by Helen Flint. The gangster is told "if you had been born 15 years earlier, you'd have been a hero in the war."

"Any place with plumbing is a home" in the first act. Thurston Hall, beaming as the angelic Mellon, asks Annabel if she has "ever read Bruce Barton?"

The settings, too, provided by Woodman Thompson, have atmosphere and solidity. The direction has caught the bustle and glamor of backstage. The music provided by Edmund Ziman for the show within the show merits mention. But the fatal defect of "The Pure in Heart" is that with all their "guff about a soul"—one of their phrases—"neither of us can help anything"—another of their phrases. It is impossible to feel real sympathy for characters with the cerebral capacity of goldfish. Osgood Perkins manages it, but he has a large library probably dealing with subnormal psychology.

Well written, well acted and well staged, this play flutters between melodrama and musical comedy, and ends nowhere between the two scenes of the last act. The author of "Processional" had an idea but let two vacuous characters dilute it to futility.

Academy is Offering "Merry Whirl"

Lillian Murray, called the "It" girl of burlesque, is a singer and dancer who heads the cast of "Merry Whirl," current in the Academy. Harry Stratton and Happy Hyatt are the comedians. Ritzie Phillips, brunet, and Rosemond Maye, a redhead, also entertained with songs and dances. The featured scenes are "Beautiful Southland," headed by 12 girls, and "Moments Musical." Three daudeville acts and the 10 Usherettes, who perform on the illuminated runway, also are in the show.

Tryst

Kay Francis finds a secluded place for a mysterious tryst. Her next picture for Warner Brothers will be "One-Way Passage."

French Jailbirds Fly Into Wonderland

If you come in the middle of the French film, "A Nous la Liberte," which is at the Avenue Cinema this week, you wonder what it is all about. It's as topsy-turvy as "Alice in Wonderland" and as much of a madhouse as the "Cabinet of Doctor Calgary." Even the closing flashes do not rend the veil of mystery and nightmare.

Then you see the opening, after some pleasant adventures with Mickey Mouse and a lawn-mower, and it becomes obvious. Two convicts in a French prison—the title means "Freedom Is Ours"—manage to escape after they have been locked in their cells. It seems they are knocked senseless in eluding their pursuers and everything happens in their minds.

It is a hodge-podge of old memories and new cerebrations, in which prison life and acquaintances and fantastic daydreams form a hash of comical terror and embarrassing delirium. Rene Clair, one of the geniuses of continental studios, has put the diverting thing together, while Auric has provided an appropriately fantastic score.

Joan Blondell now appears in "Miss Pinkerton," mystery film, in the Davis for a week.

Rachel Crothers Comedy Is Nicely Presented By Vail Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Eddie Vail thought they "got away with it very nicely." He would, you probably will think as you hereby learn that he was referring to the presentation of "As Husbands Go" by the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt last night. They did, indeed, acquit themselves "very nicely" in this charming Rachel Crothers comedy.

Still we protest. "Got away with it" implies something approaching an unmerited procurement of an honor, and the way that this fine little play was acted last night revealed an excellent production, acted with an evenness and urbanity that left little to be desired.

AN ADROIT PLAY

This pleasing little work is an adroit handling of the problem of a married woman, united to a man she loves, and finding herself at a point where she thinks she loves someone else a little bit—or, perhaps, a great deal—more. As she is of the well-balanced kind instead of erratic, solidly based on the orthodox moral principles, instead of wavering, it is not an easy one for her. But it is pie for her wise-headed husband, who solves her problem for her without her ever being aware that he knew she had one, which gives the play not only a slightly spicy quality, but a much deeper element of honesty and wholesomeness.

And it is in this that the company scored its strongest point of excellence. It did not fail to get across the footlights the play's deeper moods as well as the comedy of lines, situations and characterizations. Hence there was that feeling of warm satisfaction of having witnessed something worthy both in the exposition of a clever playwright's fancy and in the good job of workmanship on the part of the actors.

HE USES HIS HEAD

As last week's play belonged largely to Shirley Booth, the leading woman, this one belongs largely to the capable leading man, Alden Chase. It is no strain at all to accept him as an unassuming American business man, deeply in love with his wife just of the type you rub elbows with every day. He keeps you from pitying him because you know he is a man, and you are not much surprised at the wisdom he displays in sensing his wife's peculiar situation and handling it most neatly.

Miss Booth, too, gave her part a degree of the believable that was extremely gratifying. Last week she had seemed so much the ingenue type that it was hardly possible to conceive of her becoming so mature and womanly. Yet she did assume these qualities and gave a characterization that was more than merely adequate.

FLIGHTY COMPANION

Ella Ethridge, as Emmy, her dearest friend, and flighty companion on a trip abroad, where all of the romance began, was a real woman from Iowa rather than an actress giving a pleasing comedy characterization. Baker Moore, as the second male in the triangle, had to make such a character worthy of some sympathy at least, and did so. Sam Flint was properly obsequious and polished as the likable fortune-hunter Emmy picked up on the other side.

Kind words, too were merited by Sylvia Manners, as a flapper, and Henry Richards, as her boy friend.

A local boy, on the program as Jimmy Heriot, proved that he is right at home on the stage in portraying the young nephew of Mr. Chase.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Story Without a Moral

MR. JOHN Revere whistled merrily as he stepped from his morning tub. He howled his favorite songs with great gusto as he rubbed himself briskly with a rough towel. He slipped into his crimson bathrobe and marched happily to the kitchen door.

A few feet beyond, his wife stood. His wife, his pal, his companion and his best friend. She was pouring water into the percolator.

"Good morning, darling!" he cried. "Good morning, my sweet."

She didn't even look up.

"What the devil's good about it?" she replied.

The husband raised his hands in mock horror.

"Tch, tch, tch," he soothed. "Mamma mustn't swear. Not so early in the morning anyhow."

His wife gave him an expert glare.

"In the first place," she stormed, "it's not the early morning. It's almost 11 o'clock. In the second place, don't you let me hear you calling me mamma again. In the third place, I'll swear how and when I please. Now get out of here."

Mr. Revere permitted himself the luxury of growing a trifle peeved.

"Aw," he growled, "you don't have to fly off the handle right away. I was only trying to be nice. Can't a husband kid his wife once in a while?

"What's wrong with—"

Mrs. Revere had the percolator in mid-air.

"Will you get out?" she shouted.

John got . . .

At the breakfast table, everything was quiet—for two minutes. The wife suddenly put down her fork and folded her arms.

"Is that all the respect you have for me?" she grumbled. "Reading your paper that way right through breakfast. Don't you think I deserve a little consideration?"

Mr. Revere pushed his plate away with a gesture of disgust. He stood up.

"Why don't you stop nagging me?" he demanded. "When I want to talk to you, you tell me to leave you alone. When I want to read, you want to talk.

"I'm getting sick and tired of this. It's getting on my nerves, I tell you, and I can't stand it much longer. You'd better get wise to yourself before it's too late. Goodby."

He grabbed his hat and left the apartment. As soon as the door closed, his wife began to cry.

"He says I'm nagging him," she wailed. "He says that to me when I've worked my fingers to the bone for him for seven years. Oooooohhh." . . .

An hour later, Mr. Revere was on the phone. He was as humble as a Pullman porter after a dollar tip.

"Listen, mamma," he said. "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to say what I did. Honestly I didn't.

"What's that? You'll forgive me if I don't call you mamma? All right.

"Tell you what we'll do tonight just to make up. We'll have dinner at Moore's and I'll get tickets for a show. Meet you in front of the restaurant at 7:30. Okay? That's fine, mamma.

"What's that? What did you say? Well, suppose I did call you mamma? What of that? Hello. Hello. Hello . . ."

Mrs. Revere was waiting for her husband that night in front of the restaurant. She had been there but three minutes, and already her foot was tapping.

"Well," she opened up, "what happened? Did your stenographer keep you this late? Think of some excuse in a hurry."

The man sighed.

"Let's go in and eat," he muttered. "I'm on time, and you know it. Let's go inside and eat. And keep that expression on your face. Maybe Jim Moore will think you're a long-lost relative."

A few minutes later, Mr. and Mrs. Revere were glancing at menus.

"I know what I'll have," smiled the husband, "and it's going to hit the spot, too. I want a nice piece of bluefish. Put plenty of butter——"

"You're having nothing of the kind," snapped Mrs. Revere. "You know perfectly well that bluefish gave you the hives a few months ago and I had a terrible time with you. You're going to have lamb chops."

The waiter ignored Mr. Revere after that. He smiled at the lady.

"Yes, ma'am," he said. "And what will you have?"

"I'll have a nice piece of bluefish," replied Mrs. Revere.

We're skipping the next few hours and carrying you directly to the front of the Capitol Theater as Mr. and Mrs. Revere emerge after a showing of the feature picture. Mr. Revere had already ordered tickets for a show, but Mrs. Revere had preferred the picture.

"That was a nice picture, mamma," said the husband complacently.

"You mean, don't you," she sneered, "that that dizzy blonde across the aisle was a swell picture? Oh, you needn't deny it. I was watching you—and your eyes were on her all during the show. I know you, John Revere, I've been your wife long enough, heaven knows."

"Listen, woman," he almost shouted. "I'm telling you that you're driving me crazy. Don't you ever get tired of picking on me? I didn't see any blonde in that theater. You're just batty, that's all. You're cracked!"

They were entering the 50th street subway station by this time.

"That's right," she fairly shouted. "Tell me I'm demented. Well, maybe I am—but if I am, you're the one who made me that way. Don't tell me that you didn't stare at that girl in the theater.

"Why, it's a wonder she didn't have you arrested for mashing. I got sick of looking at you. You made me so nervous that I felt one of my attacks coming on. I—"

But John had walked away. He strolled rapidly over to an armless beggar who stood near the entrance. He drew a dime from his pocket.

"Say," he remarked as he edged the dime toward the beggar's cup. "How long since you lost your arms?"

"Ten years, buddy."

"Ever been married?" inquired John Revere.

"No," returned the other man. "Never."

"Hell, man," cried Mr. Revere, "you've got nothing to worry about."

And he put the dime back in his pocket!

Davis Must Campaign Without Verdict

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Senator James J. Davis will be compelled to go through his campaign for re-election without any court verdict as to his guilt or innocence of the charge that he profited from alleged lotteries conducted by Moose lodges throughout the country.

Mr. Shields

He had asked for the expedited hearing which resulted in a mistrial in New York last week. He expressed a desire for speedy action so the issue would not enter his campaign. But with the case running on the rocks of a juror's queer action, the Senator said he did not wish to be tried again until after November 8, and the government agreed.

That means certainly that the Senator's clash with the federal government will be a factor in his fight for re-election. Democratic speakers will ask the Senator for an explanation. Already they have used the episode for the basis of attack, and will do so at greater length, now that there is assurance no official verdict will be returned before election day.

* * *

Whispering Campaign Thing to be Feared

Presumably Senator Davis will answer, reviewing the testimony of the trial up to the day of its abrupt termination, and asserting he had done nothing wrong.

The upshot will be that the same testimony will be used for and against the Senator, the interpretation given it depending upon the sympathies of the speaker.

One of the things which the Senator has to fear is a whispering campaign to the effect that he will encounter trouble securing title to his seat, even if elected. That sentiment is being spread now, and it is coming principally from regular Republican sources which never have been friendly to the Senator, as well as from Gov. Pinchot, an example of the wish being father to the thought. These same Republicans will speak for him, probably even vote for him.

Their attitude is that he is on the Republican ticket, that they will do their best to see that this ticket suffers no defeats, but that after November 8 it will be up to the Senator to fight his own battles. There will not be the same criticism of the Senate if it interposes that there was in the Vare case, or at least it will not come from the sources which so diligently charged that the Senate, in barring Vare, acted in an arbitrary manner.

* * *

Speculate on Episode Effect on Hoover

Should the Senator be convicted the Senate might have a right, as a layman's views of the ethics and moralities of the case, to bar him. But should he be acquitted it would not seem according to these same principles that the Senate could set up a barrier because of private transactions which a jury had declared were proper, or with which the Senator was not improperly connected.

The attitude of some of the Republicans is very puzzling, just another example of the remarkable chain of circumstances in this unusual case. Not the least remarkable was the manner in which the mistrial came to be declared. Remember the exceptional coincidence that out of all the hundreds of thousandss of persons who ride the subways, a relative of a juror sat by the relative of a Davis attorney, struck up acquaintance through a fraternal pin, and took the first steps which led to the mistrial.

It was like a movie. It was uncanny.

There is considerable speculation as to whether President Hoover will not suffer more from the Davis episode than the Senator. If Davis still retains his grip on the Moose, the latter may resent the indictment of him by an arm of the federal government on the eve of the campaign, and visit that resentment on the chief of all the federal bureaus, the President.

* * *

Influence of Moose May Turn Some States

A number of Republican leaders have considered this phase of the incident, and not without misgiving. In a campaign as hard fought as this, with Mr. Hoover needing every vote he can get—and probably more—each defection or hinted defection is something about which to worry. The influence of the Moose, if they are resentful, might turn the tide in some states.

And Senator Davis, as an elective officer, and as one seeking elective office, is under no particular obligation to the President, between whom and himself there never was any close attachment even when Davis was in the Hoover cabinet. Indeed, he never would have been in that cabinet had labor been able to get together on a successor at the time of the Hoover inauguration.

It was a deadlock between the railroad unions and the American Federation of Labor affiliates, each with its own choice, and with the President at the time wishing to affront neither, which led to the retention of Davis from the Coolidge cabinet as the easiest way out.

At any rate, the first plunge of the Senator into the campaign will be watched with interest, and he must be prepared for rough and tumble scrapping. This is a campaign year in which heckling has been revived on an old-time scale.

CITY PENSION FUND FACES BIG DEFICIT

Board Asks $290,000 To Continue Paying Former Employes

The Municipal Pension Fund faces a deficit of approximately $290,000 as result of the removal of scores of city employes from active duty during 1932, it was disclosed today by Controller James P. Kerr.

Kerr submitted the report to City Council for study. Council is asked to make an appropriation of at least $290,000 to assist the fund during 1933.

The councilmanic appropriation for the present year was $160,000, but this amount was insufficient, it was revealed, because of the large number of persons pensioned. Most of the pensioners were from the Public Works Department. The municipal fund is separate from the police and fire funds. Each city employe pays up to 3 per cent of his salary into the fund and Council makes up the deficit.

Revenue up to September 30, 1932, according to the report, was $96,861, while disbursements were $284,944.

So great was the drain on the fund's money that it was necessary for the board to dispose of all its securities during the first nine months of the year.

G.O.P. QUARTERS OPENED HERE

Allegheny County Republicans today opened headquarters on the mazzanine floor of the William Penn Hotel, and in the four weeks intervening until election County Chairman William H. Coleman will hold almost daily meetings with workers from the various legislative districts, a plan followed in past campaigns.

A mass meeting has been scheduled for Syria Mosque the night of October 22, with Joseph Scott, of California, who nominated President Hoover at the Chicago convention, slated as the chief speaker. Local Republican leaders will also appear and endeavor to stimulate interest in the campaign.

Mrs. A. W. Powell, president of the Women's Republican Club of Pittsburgh, will hold a reception for Allegheny County members of the Republican State Committee at her home, 30 Hoodridge drive, Mt. Lebanon, from 8:30 to 10:30 tonight. There will be speeches by Republican leaders.

Last night in Eleventh United Presbyterian Church, California and Davis avenues, County Chairman Coleman spoke before a League of Women Voters meeting on behalf of the Republican candidates. He said the re-election of President Hoover would be brought about through the interest of women.

MISS VIRGINIA HERINS, 20

Campus Reporters Ruled by Charm Of Farrell Girl

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 11.—When the boys on the staff of The Holcad, student publication of Westminster College, go chasing their stories these days, it's a girl that tells them how to do it.

The editor-in-chief is Virginia Herins, 20, who hails from Farrell, Pa. Virginia's ability is rare. Although the college is 80 years old, she is the first woman to control a campus newspaper.

But the men do not mind even if a girl does tell them what news to get and how to write it. They say:

"Virginia knows her news, and then who can resist a beautiful girl."

A co-ed editor also has other activities that take her time. She is a student assistant in the psychology department, literary editor of the year book, member of the Westminster News Bureau, and belongs to many campus organizations.

Injuries in Mine Fatal to Mars Man

JUDGE SCORES EVASION TRICK, JAILS TWO

Patterson, Racket Foe, Finds Move to Shift Pleas 'Preposterous'

Judge Frank P. Patterson put his foot down on attempts of two alleged speakeasy proprietors to withdraw pleas of guilty late yesterday and sent both to the workhouse for a year, with stiff fines to be paid as well.

They were William Springer, 40, of Shady avenue, fined $500 and a year in prison, and Pete Shuker, 36, Frankstown avenue, fined $200 and a year.

ARRESTED TWICE

They had been arrested by the "Four Horsemen" raiding squad of county detectives in Judge Patterson's cleanup drive. Springer was first arrested September 22 in a raid on 6373 Frankstown avenue and held as the proprietor. He gave bail, and while awaiting trial was again arrested October 5 in front of 6373 Frankstown avenue. On this date Shuker was arrested inside the place and held as the proprietor.

Springer pleaded guilty before Judge Patterson last week to the first charge and named William Hall as the person who had set him up in business. Sentence was postponed while county detectives tried to find Hall. Shuker pleaded and also named Hall as his boss.

SCORNS 'TRICK'

Late yesterday both asked leave to change their pleas to not guilty, claiming they had not understood they had pleaded guilty. Judge Patterson said:

"The court is not going to be stultified or tricked by this kind of proceeding. This man Springer pleaded guilty as clearly as any man could plead, and explained that he was pleading to his first arrest only. The court will have to exercise its discretion and retain the pleas of guilty. We will not allow men, after they have entered pleas, to get advice from some unknown source and come back with preposterous stories like this."

Raymond Mantzell, alias Dean, was remanded to jail by Judge Patterson when he pleaded guilty to a liquor charge.

The "Four Horsemen" had arrested him as proprietor of a speakeasy at 4808 Liberty avenue on September 15 and again on October 6. He is said to have told the detectives he worked for John Nemo, of Yew street. Nemo is now in jail in default of $5,000 bail awaiting trial and Mantzell is to be called as a witness before he is sentenced.

PROBERS SEEK PINCHOT'S AID

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Attorney General William A. Schnader had letters today from the Rial Senate Committee asking their assistance in delving into Public Service Commission affairs.

The communications specifically asked the Governor and Schnader to submit to the committee any evidence in their possession relating to improper action by any present or former member of the commission.

Oliver K. Eaton, counsel to the committee, has established offices on the fourth floor of the capitol. The same offices were used 20 years ago by the committee that exposed the capitol graft case.

The Rial committee is scheduled to hold its first hearing Friday.

SISTER MISSING AS BOY DIES

No word had been received today from missing Dorothy Nemitz as final preparations were made to bury her brother, George, 9, who died of a heart attack while playing near his home with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Nemitz, of Pitcairn, postponed the funeral until today in the hope that Dorothy, who disappeared after she left for New York with Joseph Volpe, might attend.

Volpe and Albert C. Mertz, of Wilmerding, and Michael Russo, of New York, are under indictment in connection with the girl's disappearance.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SAN SALVADOR, Oct. 11.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

I am leaving for everything south of the equator. Revolutions are thicker down there than Roosevelt Republicans. Am flying down the west coast by Chili, then to Argentina for a week, and up the east coast by Brazil.

Will Rogers

South America is our coming country, so it's good to know where it's at.

I want to get back just before election. Not to vote, but just to see the show. I think people would like to read something in the papers besides Hoover said this and Roosevelt says that. I think it's a good time to go. In fact I am gone.

Yours, WILL.

Woman Returning From Funeral Hurt

DISTRICT TRADE GAINS GROW

Reports being received by the Pittsburgh branch of the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank indicate a continued improvement in business with small manufacturing concerns throughout the district, J. C. Nevin, director of the branch here, said today. Mr. Nevin said:

"Small manufacturing concerns in a number of lines are doing better than they were. Merchandise shelves appear bare and reports coming to us are that orders are beginning to appear. That means payrolls are increasing slightly. Reports received from the district indicate a continued further slight improvement."

Mr. Nevin indicated some concerns in the district are exceedingly low in inventories.

Judd Denies Massie Case Prompted Visit

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Dismissal or reopening of the case against four natives accused of attacking Mrs. Thomas H. Massie in Honolulu last winter has nothing to do with his visit to this country, Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, of Hawaii, asserted here today. He denied coming here to interview either Mrs. Massie or her husband.

NOTED BREWER CITES PLANS ON VISIT HERE

Firm Ready to Expend Millions on New Equipment

Millions of dollars will be invested in equipment and hundreds of thousands unemployed given jobs if the modification prediction of Senator David A. Reed is fulfilled, according to August A. Busch, Jr., vice president and general manager of the famed Anheuser-Busch brewery, St. Louis.

This important benefit will be in addition to the revenue the government will gain through taxes on wine and beer, Mr. Busch pointed out at his William Penn Hotel suite, when informed of the Pennsylvania Senator's statement. He said his company did not want the return of the saloon, but favored the Canadian system.

Citing his own company's program, Mr. Busch said:

"Return to beer manufacturing by our firm would put 10,000 persons to work. This would include all branches of our company, such as office force, salesmen, drivers and so on, and those needed for such supplies as printing, shipping cases, barrels and equipment. Take the automobile industry alone. The distribution would require purchase of one to five-ton trucks throughout the country. Present equipment is too light for beer handling.

"Railroads would gain shipments. A carload of malt products today would equal 90 carloads of beer, with the shipment of full barrels to a designated point and return of the empties.

"Our company would be required to invest five to seven million dollars to establish a modern brewing system and distribution. Thousands of orders already have been received for shipment of the first output. Because of the near-beer process, we could start selling the real product very quickly."

Reed Predicts Beer By Next Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(Universal.)—Modification of the Volstead Act to allow real beer and an increase in taxation at the coming session of Congress are declared certainties by Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania.

The whole country is demanding a change in the prohibition laws, Reed said yesterday, adding:

"I don't think this Congress will wait until the new Congress comes in to effect modification.

"President Hoover said present conditions were intolerable. I think he means there should be both modification of the Volstead act and submission of the Eighteenth amendment to the states."

On taxation, Senator Reed, who is a member of the Finance Committee, said:

"Regardless of who is elected President there will be new tax legislation. The Treasury deficit is now around $500,000,000.

"The wisest situation would be to adopt a general manufacturers' sales tax, with a low rate applying generally and not discriminating against a few industries."

Europe must and will pay her war debts, but there is little hope of meeting the American ideas of disarmament. Reed informed President Hoover upon his return from abroad on a highly confidential mission.

It's a Big Game When Cal and Al Are Only Caddies

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Cal and Al have warmed up their 1928 political chinaware.

Except this time the old pals are barking in front of the main tent.

Cal rattles the cups and saucers for Hoover in Madison Square Garden tonight. Next week Al unwinds a big medicine talk for Roosevelt.

You know it is an important election when two big boys like Cal and Al are caddying.

We would like to hear Cal say something about that proposition of putting elapsed vice presidents in the Senate for life. Doesn't seem fair when they allow ex-presidents and ex-candidates to run loose.

After a man has given four of his best years to the nation he should be allowed to embark and detrain as he pleases.

We don't think that Cal can break Al's record run in Madison Square Garden. Al was there three weeks without food or water in 1924.

FINAL PAYMENT TO COMPANY INVOLVED

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, sitting in Pittsburgh tomorrow, will grapple with Allegheny County's $1,100,000 bogey—vote machines.

As the first order of business, the court will hear an appeal from the ruling of Judge Frank P. Patterson dismissing a taxpayer's suit brought by Ada Bassett to prevent the county from making a final payment of $400,000 to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company of Baltimore.

Under a previous order of Judge Elder W. Marshall is a mandamus action brought in behalf of the company, the old board of County Commissioners, in the closing days of their administration, paid over the $400,000, it is said, before the Bassett suit, brought by Attorney C. F. C. Arensberg, had been disposed of.

LINK DIVORCE IN 2D DEATH

DEWITT, Ark., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—A grand jury today began investigating the possible connection of Helen Spence Eaton, comely 19-year-old divorcee, under two-year sentence for shooting Jack Worls to death while he was being tried for her father's murder, with the slaying of Jack Bohots, restaurant owner.

The young woman, who rose in court two years ago to kill Worls, interrupted her second trial yesterday with a plea of guilty. At the first trial, she was convicted and sentenced to five years' imprisonment, but the Supreme Court ordered a second trial.

She has been in jail since last February for the death of Bohots, her former employer, whose body was found in his parked automobile. Mrs. Spence denied she shot him.

CHURCH TAXES PROPOSED TO COUNCIL

Members of City Council today were considering the possibility of taxing church properties following a recommendation made late yesterday by Attorney Franklin A. Ammon as a committee was being formed to plan the new special tax levy.

Ammon also recommended taxes on street parking by automobile owners, assessments on leased ground and fines for parents who permit their children to play football, baseball and other games on city streets.

HEAD TAX

At the same time Budget Controller Robert J. Alderdice recommended Council give attention to the law passed March 7, 1901, by which every male more than 21 can be assessed a head tax of not more than $1 a year.

Herron said the personnel of the tax committee would be named within the next few days. Council had also received copies of resolutions drafted by the Chamber of Commerce in which the manufacturers' and municipal affairs committees opposed taxes on machinery and inventories in business.

PUBLICITY URGED

The chamber's committee recommended, however, that efforts be made to publish both city and county tax assessments to prevent political favoritism being shown to officeholders and friends of the administration in power.

The committee added:

"Publication of the valuation placed by the assessors upon property for tax purposes has been resorted to in a number of large cities including New York, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Paul. The publication has made it virtually impossible to continue favoritism in the assessments and has naturally brought about a sufficient increase in the tax yield to permit lower tax millages. We are advised that there is no legal obstacle to the publication of the assessors' lists."

Opera Friends Losers, Do Not Blame Insull

MRS. GIORGIO POLACCO (EDITH MASON) . . . INSULL NO ENEMY

Jock, Dog Companion, Guest at Hospital, Master a Patient

The Scotsman who walked more than 50,000 miles in 39 countries during the first 11 years of his avowed 20-year hike, without mishap, is in Pittsburgh Hospital today with a dislocated shoulder because he fell down a flight of steps.

While Arthur John McMarold, 35, of Walk Leeds, Edinburgh, Scotland, lies in his hospital bed, his traveling companion, Jock, a black and white fox terrier is being cared for Dr. William Barnett, resident physician at the hospital.

When he fell yesterday, McMarold was preparing to leave Pittsburgh for New York City and was loaded down with his pack, which includes police badges and "keys to the city" from hundreds of American and foreign cities he has visited on his tour begun in January, 1921.

"Mac," as he prefers to be called, intends to keep walking until January, 1941. Asked why, his answer is:

"I just like to walk."

WAYNESBURG MARKS VICTORY

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 11.—An old-fashioned "shirt tail" and pajama parade—symbol of athletic victory at Waynesburg College in the pre-World War period—was revived last night as a cheering and jubilant student body joined in a three-hour celebration of the Waynesburg College football's team's victory over Penn State Saturday and which marked the second time in the 82-year history of the college a football team has triumphed over a major eleven.

Following the parade the students were guests of their president, Dr. Paul R. Stewart, at a weiner roast.

Our Own Fault, Say Polacco and Wife, Edith Mason

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Giorgio Polacco and his wife, Edith Mason, old friends of Samuel Insull and among those who lost heavily through the collapse of his utilities interests, said today that they hold no grudge against him.

Polacco, who was director of the Chicago Civic Opera, said:

"We don't blame him a bit. It is our own fault if we are completely ruined now."

Friends of both have said that they lost half a million dollars in the Insull collapse. They gave him large sums to invest, but when they cabled him for advice when the market crashed, he replied:

"Hold on; these are just panic prices."

3 PLEAD GUILTY IN PRISON PLOT

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Three pleas of guilty to charges growing out of a frustrated Michigan State Prison escape plot were on file today in Circuit Court.

James Hall, alias Overstreet, and Edward Cross, the convicts whose liberation was sought, and Mrs. Agnes Schoonmaker, friend of Hall, entered guilty pleas yesterday afternoon.

Archie French, prison guard, who has confessed, officers said, to complicity in a plot by which Mrs. Schoonmaker was to smuggle firearms to the prisoners, stood mute and a plea of not guilty was entered for him.

Kenneth Watson, another guard accused of complicity in the attempted break, demanded an examination when he was arraigned in Municipal Court yesterday. The examination was set for Friday.

MAJ. GEN. J. R. O'RYAN AT NEW YORK REVIEWING THE STATE GUARD, A. E. F., 27TH DIVISION

7 ROBBER GANG SUSPECTS PUT BEHIND BARS

Seven men, the last of the "gang of 10" accused in the theft of 13 automobiles and thousands of dollars in cash from the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company and the Ingram car barn during the past three or four months, were placed behind bars today to await trial.

Two women and another male member previously had been held for court. Bail was refused in all 10 cases.

The seven brought before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today on one or more robbery charges were John Maug, John Flaherty, Edward Turpac, C. J. Moyer, Wallace Biggart, his brother, Roscoe Biggart and Herman Molten.

Maug, Flaherty, Turpac and Moyer were identified by J. W. Ervel, dispatcher of the Lexington avenue office of the bus company, as the men who held up the office September 21, escaping with $654.

Maug, Turpac, Wallace Biggart, Moyer and Molten were held for the robbery of the Ingram car barn, charged with taking $1,250 in cash and $1,250 in tokens.

Roscoe Biggart also was held on 10 additional charges of larceny for the theft of 10 automobiles in Pittsburgh.

COAL HEARING NOVEMBER 9

The new coal rate to Cleveland on the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad will be the subject of a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, November 9.

Until that time, no efforts will be made to extend the lower rate to the Montour Railroad, according to Pittsburgh and West Virginia officials. The new rate, involving a reduction of 39 cents a ton, is now in effect on the latter road.

The first cut was made by the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad to points in the Eastern Ohio coal fields and was approved by the Ohio Utilities Commission. The Pittsburgh and West Virginia's petition for a similar cut was first refused by the Interstate Commerce Commission and then allowed, pending a hearing.

Other railroads with lines from the Pittsburgh district to the lakes did not join in the cut.

Self-Centered Indulgence Is A Cause of Boredom

Bored? Disgusted? Sure that life's a washout, and there's nothing interesting under the sun?

That's the fix Rhoda's in.

And it isn't because she hasn't plenty of friends, plenty of fun, plenty to eat and wear; for she has. In fact she has a lot more than a great many of us. She's young, pretty and smart, and she has a good job.

Know what ails her?

Know the cure?

Listen!

"Dear Sally:

"Do you think you can tell me what ails me? If you can, I wish you'd do it. It has me stumped.

"There are plenty of people, I know, who will think I am just plain crazy or ungrateful, or what have you, because I guess I haven't any real troubles at all.

"I haven't lost anything in the depression. I am not homely or friendless or out of funds. On the contrary, I am fair looking, pretty popular, have a good job, and really about everything I could want—except an interest in living.

"In other words, although I have nice clothes, a pretty apartment, plenty of dates, see most of the good shows and take a nice little trip every now and then, I'm bored.

"I have seen pretty nearly everything that the ordinary person ever sees, and have done most of the things that people do, but life seems just empty, useless. I can't see that it gets anywhere, or what it's all about.

"I often look at myself and think, 'What are you alive for, anyway? What is anybody alive for? What are we here for? What is it all about?' and it is driving me crazy.

WHAT'S WRONG?

"Do you know the remedy for a feeling like that? If you do, for Pete's sake give it to me, before I go crazy.

"If I were destitute, or restricted, or underpaid, I could understand why I feel that way, but as it is, I can't. What's wrong with me, anyway? I have a far better time and far more liberty than a lot of people I know, but it all seems like nothing. I'd just as soon die as go on like this. "RHODA."

Do I know what's wrong with you, and what the remedy is?

Yep, Sissy, I think I do!

My guess is that what's wrong with you is too much easy living—and too much Rhoda! Things have fallen into your lap so easily that you've had no struggles to pep things up for you and make them interesting. You've seen everything, tasted everything, and now your spirit has indigestion, just as your tummy would have indigestion if you crammed it with ice cream sodas and chocolate cake.

FIND NEW INTERESTS

And, to make it worse, you've spent all your time thinking of yourself and how things affected you, till you're running around in a little narrow circle—the circle of your own feelings and your own ego.

The remedy? Get out of that circle. Stop filling your world with Rhoda. Begin to think and wonder about other folks, and how things affect them, and why. Begin to go out to other folks, and to observe the tremendous adventure and drama of life that is spread before you. There's more thrill in one second of that Big Show than there is in a lifetime of your self-centered indulgence.

Forget yourself. Throw yourself into that drama. Make yourself a part of other lives.

And begin to reach out in your job, too. Take on something that'll give you a fight, that'll make you step lively to lick it.

Begin to build something; it doesn't matter what. Your skill at a tougher job; anything that'll take all your sand and give you a run for your money. And use your imagination!

Then you'll find life the whizzing adventure it was meant to be! And you'll forget all about boredom!

Be Your Own Best Self Always, Fay King's Advice to Young People

By FAY KING

One cannot help observing that many young persons take great pains to imitate their favorites of the screen in dress and manner.

But one also notices that even more young persons are satisfied to be just themselves.

At the movies one sees countless happy couples much more interested in each other than in the sleek sirens and great lovers emoting before them.

Except for a momentary curiosity they prefer their own choice.

There is a certain artificiality about too perfect grooming and poise.

Nothing lasts so well and is so permanent in its appeal as unaffected, wholesome naturalness.

Exotic personalities and poses are like odd shades. They attract, but soon grow tiresome, while a true blue is forever pleasing.

Be your own best self, always.

Contract Bridge

How to Play — How to Win

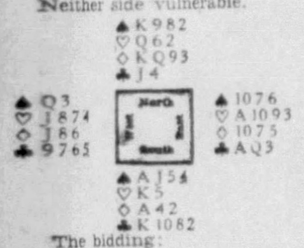
By Josephine Culbertson

Safe and Sure

There is a type of play, understood by the more expert Bridge players, which, for want of a better title, is known as the safety play. This play usually involves the giving up of an otherwise possible trick, in order that the safety of the contract may be assured. Frequently, however, players who have learned the value of this play find that instead of the play limiting them to their contract premium, it brings the rich dividend of an extra trick, as in the hand illustrated below, which was played in the President's Cup contest at the American Bridge League tournament at Asbury Park, New Jersey.

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 ♢	Pass
3 N T	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding follows fairly conventional lines, the pattern of both the North and South hands suggesting that play at no-trump is better than play at a suit. This hand is interesting because of the fact that several players reached the same eventual contract and, playing for the maximum, were defeated at three no-trump. One player, however, in playing the hand in what he considered the safest way to make the game, succeeded in gathering all the tricks except the two outstanding Aces.

The Opening lead was a low heart, upon which the Dummy played a low card, and East rightly played the 9. South winning with the King. At this point most Declarers went over to the spade King. At this point most Declarers went over to the spade King to take the natural finesse in that suit, and went down to defeat. In the case which I am discussing, South realized the danger of permitting West to obtain the lead, as another lead through the heart Queen, in case East held the Ace, would be obviously fatal. South, in this instance, laid down the Ace of spades and followed with the 4, intending, in case West played a low spade, to put on the 8-spot in Dummy. When, however, West played the Queen, the hand from that point played itself. All the spades and diamonds were run, and East elected to throw one club and one heart. West had retained all his hearts and discarded three small clubs. When the run of the diamond suit was completed, East was thrown in with the Ace of Clubs and now could cash only the Ace of Hearts.

The safety play, as is frequently the case, had rewarded the Declarer with overtricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

East, at his first opportunity, makes a Jump bid of three hearts over his partner's Overcall of two clubs. Should this bid be construed as a Forcing Takeout?

Answer: No. This bid is only highly invitational. It strongly requests partner to bid and shows about as much strength as required for a Forcing Takeout of an Opening bid.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"Captain of the Men of Death" to Be Laid Low?

Pneumonia was named by one of old as "Captain of the Men of Death." This is an appropriate name, because statistics show that about 10 per cent of all the deaths in a community can be traced to pneumonia. It respects neither age nor sex, and is particularly fatal in the very young and the aged.

Dr. Copeland

New knowledge concerning pneumonia has been gained within recent years. It is now known that there are four types of the disease. Types "one" and "two" constitute about half of all the cases of pneumonia. Type "three" is the most serious form, but fortunately for mankind only about 10 per cent of cases belong to this group. Type "four" is a miscellaneous group in which are included about one-third of all the cases.

We are indebted to the brilliant work of those scientists who have awakened hope of a cure for pneumonia. These men have recently developed a serum, the particular serume to be used depending upon the type of the disease. Experimentation on animals has given encouragement, because up to date they have responded favorably to this serum treatment.

This marks, indeed, an important degree of advancement, for, although our knowledge of pneumonia has greatly increased within the past quarter of a century, our ways of treatment have changed very little. It is now hoped that within a short time a dependable method of combating this disease and reducing its death toll will be made available.

Until then we must continue to guard against colds and infections. We must keep in mind that lack of sleep, excessive fatigue, exposure to cold and dampness and lack of nourishing food are among the factors that may encourage the development of pneumonia.

Many cases of pneumonia can be traced to neglecting the common cold. Infections involving the upper air passages, particularly of the throat, should be regarded as danger signals. Many of the infections of childhood, such as measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever, if neglected, may lead to pneumonia and when this complication occurs it is indeed serious.

Persistent cough, pain in the chest and fever are signs that must never be overlooked. Too often these early symptoms of pneumonia are unsuccessfully treated with home remedies. Complete rest in bed, careful nursing and medical attention are essential to complete recovery.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When blackheads are deeply imbedded, soaping and scrubbing won't budge them. Best then to steam the face by applying heavy towels that have been wrung out of hot water, drying gently, pressing out each stubborn plug with a blackhead extractor, a small instrument that can be purchased at the drug store. This beauty aid has an open space like an old-fashioned watch key and, as pressure is evenly divided, there is no possibility of abrasions.

Stiff joints are death to graceful movement. So is the rigid backbone that hasn't been carried tall so that its numerous little pads and cushions have remained flexible. When a woman finds that she has to unfold herself when she rises from a chair, it's high time for her to take up rhythmic dancing, join a gym class or force herself to take a three-mile walk each day. It was meant that the body should have muscle work, sufficient exercise to retain fiber resiliency and that nice steppiness of youth.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to attend a church wedding at 10 o'clock in the morning and breakfast at a hotel to follow.

The groom and his attendants will wear the usual formal morning dress, but the bride's sister said that it would be perfectly proper for the men guests to wear business suits. May I ask what kind of suit? Can it be brown, or does it have to be black? Also what kind of tie, and what kind of shoes?

MAN READER.

Of course, strictly speaking, it would be the correct thing for the men guests also to wear formal day clothes, undoubtedly many of the men guests will wear business suits. Especially for such an early morning wedding.

Wear your "best" business suit. The color doesn't make much difference, though the "tried and true" navy blue is the usual one. A brown one, especially a dark brown, will be all right . . . much better than black.

Wear, with the business suit, the accessories that customarily are worn with a business suit. Don't "dress it up" for doing this calls more attention to its informality. Wear, for instance, a good-looking four-in-hand tie, say of dark blue background, and perhaps with small stripes, or grouped stripes, or an inconspicuous figure.

Flower Souvenirs

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please suggest souvenirs for ladies and gentlemen for a formal dinner (birthday party dinner)? My mother is giving this party and she thinks that the men should be given roses for their lapels, at the door, but what to give the ladies is still a puzzling problem? R.

If you and your mother wish to give flower souvenirs at this dinner party, I suggest that they be placed by the places at dinner. They add a very charming gala touch to the dinner table.

Have one white or one very dark red carnation, made into a boutonniere by the florist, at the place of each man. And a small corsage, say of two gardenias, the corsage also made by the florist, but using only the leaves of the gardenias—no ferns or other greenery.

TRADE WITH CARDS GIANTS' FIRST MOVE TO REBUILD

TRADE UNIMPORTANT; EDGE FOR GIANTS

THE SIX-PLAYER trade put through by the Giants and Cardinals is nothing to get excited about. It is big only in the sense that it involves an unusual number of pastimers, whereas the importance of any baseball swap is to be measured solely by the QUALITY of the athletes exchanged. A swapping of uncertain pitchers and second-string men in other departments by two clubs that were not strong enough to win half of their games this year, and that finished so low as to be tied for sixth place, will hardly have any great bearing on the next pennant race.

Gus Mancuso

The only sure bet in the lot is Gus Mancuso, a capable catcher, and .282 hitter, but not needed by St. Louis when Jimmy Wilson is sound. Ray Starr did some impressive pitching in the closing games of the season, but did not work often enough to prove himself. New York gave up only a lot of junk, as judged by 1932 performances. Pitchers Bill Walker and Jim Mooney together won only 14 games and neither came close to breaking even. Walker has an ailing arm. Mooney is not always in shape. Catcher Bob O'Farrell, going back to the club he once managed, is 36 years old, slow of foot, and hit only .242. Outfielder Ethan Allen also was a bust, with the puny batting average of .175. The Giants appear to be getting the better of the deal and may have paid some money on the side. Any time the players in a trade are unequal in number, it is an admission that one side is giving up quality for quantity, and you can't win ball games with quantity. The club getting the quality has the edge.

ONE NEW GRIDIRON regulation not meeting with favor among the patrons is that permitting frequent substitutions. It's a fine thing for the coaches and the schools with large squads. They can rest a player who has taken a hard bump, and send him back in another quarter when needed in an offensive drive or defensive stand.

But it takes time to make from 35 to 50 substitutions, as many of the big teams have been doing. From that angle the new rule slows up the game. Later on, the coaches probably will not make so many changes, but the early games have been drawn out an extra half hour or more by the frequent substitutions.

HARVEY HARMAN, at Penn, is a coach who thinks the dead-ball rule will diminish aggressive spirit. "The reason for the rule, to remove the danger of piling on, is so sound that a coach hesitates to complain," said the former Pitt lineman.

"But otherwise, I don't like it. It seems to be going toward the negative side when we kill in an athlete the urge to get up, when he is able, and continue his run toward touchdown territory."

JOHN KARCIS, former fullback at Carnegie Tech, is being counted on by Benny Friedman for a lot of help in keeping the Brooklyn Dodgers on top in the National Professional Football League. Karcis has been playing a strong game. He is part of the starting backfield, with Friedman, Grossman and Wiberg. Friedman isn't throwing as many passes as in the old days, for the whole league is wise to him. So Benny is doing some of the receiving himself, with Wiberg and Grossman doing the throwing.

HAND IT TO Lefty O'Doul for keeping his word. In his last year with the Phils he worked for $12,000. Brooklyn paid him $15,000 for 1931. Last year he was cut $1,500. He accepted the reduction and signed without a squawk.

Lefty O'Doul

"It seems to me they could have got along without cutting my salary," he said. "But maybe they were a little disappointed in me. As a matter of fact, I was a little disappointed myself. But I'll lead the league in hitting this season and get it back." And he did. He topped the Heydler clouters, and in the contract for 1933 which he signed last week the former $15,000 salary was restored.

IT IS SAID O'Doul will be the highest-salaried Brooklyn player for 1933. Other players argued with him that he might have obtained a larger sum by holding out, and would have been assured of the $15,000 in the end anyhow. But Lefty says he can't see the holdout stuff.

"A holdout usually winds up feeling sore at the club," O'Doul remarks, "and the club invariably feels that he's trying to get into the front office safe with dynamite. If a club offers a fair salary, holding out is not worth while."

THE OPINION THAT Walter Johnson ought not to be allowed to drift out of the big leagues to become manager in some small city or town in the minors appears to prevail among critics and fans all around the major circuits. There is a feeling that some National League club could help itself and gain a little favor for the senior wheel by taking on the once great pitcher as a coach in New York, for one place, this is being advocated. It is suggested that inasmuch as Bill Terry appears to be opposed to the return of Dave Bancroft as a coach for the Giants, it might not be a bad idea for Stoneham & Co. to sign Johnson for the duty of supervising the pitchers and assisting in the base line coaching.

THAT THE SALE of John Ross Roach to the Detroit Falcons was due to the fall-down of Roach in the last series for the Stanley Cup and the professional hockey championship, is not denied by Les Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, who disposed of the goalie.

Patrick likens the collapse of the Ranger defense in the cup games to the crumbling of the Cub pitchers in baseball's world series. He holds that a goalie in hockey is very much in the same position as a pitcher in baseball. The goalie must take the brunt of defeat or the acclaim of victory.

LUIS GUTIERREZ, MANAGER of Kid Chocolate, insists that the Cuban Negro has suffered only one real defeat. He admits that Fidel La Barba beat Chocolate the second time they fought, but contends that the decisions given against the Keed to Tony Canzoneri, Jack (Kid) Berg and Battling Battalino were unjust.

Glenna Collett Vare

Gutierrez regrets that Chocolate isn't as serious about the fighting business now as he was in earlier days, when he even studied moving pictures to improve himself. Every time a new fight film was shown in Havana, the Keed would be there to see what he could find out that would be adaptable to his own case. But according to the manager, success and money have spoiled Chocolate to some extent and he no longer trains as diligently as he once did.

WOMEN'S GOLF PROBABLY has seen the last of its greatest American figure insofar as being a contender for the national championship is concerned. Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, Jr., who was Glenna Collett, has no intention of retiring from competitive golf in minor tournaments around her home district, but intimates strongly that she will not again play for the national title. Her recent crushing defeat at the hands of Miss Virginia Van Wie had nothing to do with her decision, she says. It's simply a case of not wanting to give up from her home life the time it takes to prepare for a week of crown competition. Five times Glenna won the championship. Seven times she reached the final round and was defeated there only by Miss Helen Hicks in 1931 and by Miss Van Wie in 1932. But now she is done, and when the title hunt opens in Chicago next year, America's greatest woman golfer in history will be missing for the first time since 1919.

TERRY OBTAINS GUS MANCUSO, RAY STARR

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—As the fore-runner of a wholesale shakeup in the playing personnel of the New York Giants, two southpaw pitchers, an ancient backstop and a substitute outfielder have been traded to the St. Louis Cardinals for a recruit right-handed pitcher, Ray Starr, and a catcher, Gus Mancuso.

In a straight trade for these two players, the Giants parted with Bill Walker, the National League's most effective pitcher two seasons ago; Jimmy Mooney, 25-year-old southpaw who failed this year to duplicate the sensational form he displayed in 1931; Bob O'Farrell, veteran of 18 major league catching campaigns, one-time manager of the Cardinals; and Ethan Allen, fast but light-hitting outfielder.

NO CASH INVOLVED

Denying any cash was involved, even though the Giants gave "four for two," Secretary Jim Tierney made this statement on the club's behalf:

"Manager Bill Terry, who has recently signed a two-year contract to pilot the Giants, made the deal as part of our policy of bringing new faces to the Polo Grounds and, we hope, obtaining better results. This is the beginning of a series of trades by which he will strengthen the Giants. We are dickering with several other clubs."

Baseball gossip has linked the names of Fred Lindstrom and Shanty Hogan with talk of other prospective trades, but Tierney declined to say whether these players were likely to go elsewhere.

On the basis of 1931 form, the Giants would have had much the worse of the deal just concluded with the club which wound up in a tie with the New Yorkers in sixth place this season. Mooney, the southern boy, won seven straight games for the Giants after being brought up late in the 1931 season from the Bridgeport farm, but this year his record showed only six victories against 10 defeats.

WALKER IN SLUMP

Walker also slumped this year, winning eight and losing 12 after a great 1931 campaign, during which he won 19, lost nine and led the league in effectiveness with an average yield of only 2.26 earned runs per game.

O'Farrell and Allen saw little action last season and do not figure to gain places in the Cardinal lineup. The veteran backstop, who came to the Giants in 1928 after managing the Cardinals in 1927, played in only 51 games and batted .242. Allen, who was obtained in a trade with

TEAMS IN TIE AT SHANNOPIN

The pro-amateur golf tournament, staged at Shannopin yesterday, as a testimonial gesture on the part of the club and the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association to Tom Manning, Shannopin pro, wound up in a tie between Vincent Eldred, state open champion, teamed with W. J. Kappel and Joe Ludes, assistant pro at Oakmont, and J. R. McGregor. Both duos carded 71s.

Alden Hunt, 22, of 718 Merchant street, was released from the hospital after X-ray photographs were taken of an injured shoulder.

Cletus Kremmel, 20, of 529 Melrose avenue, is recovering at home from an injury sustained to his chest.

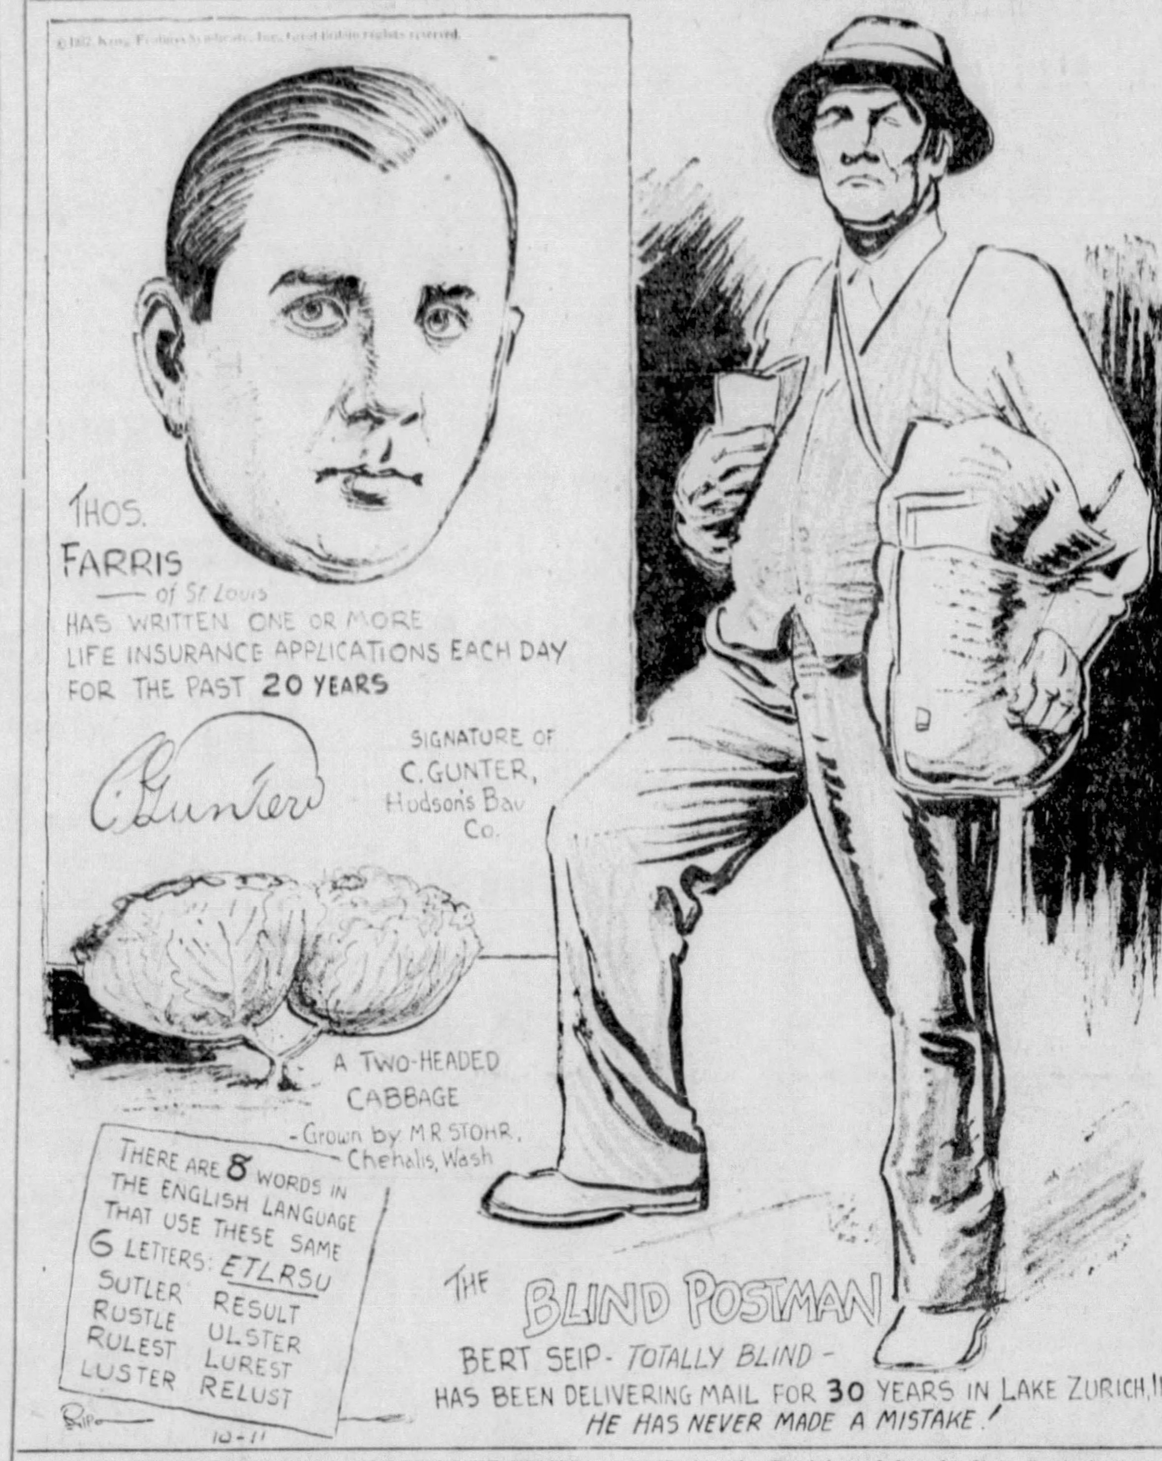
(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)



EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE SHIPS OF HALIFAX HARBOR—Capt. George suffered shipwreck of the big "Laurel" in 1857, as a result of which he lost a leg. The limb was interred at Harring Grove on the western shore of Halifax Harbor. Eventually the captain was appointed Lighthouse Keeper at Mauger's Beach, McNab's Island, which is on the eastern shore of the Harbor. For three years every ship entering or leaving the harbor passed between Capt. George's legs. AN ORIGINAL FLAG—Out of the nine provinces constituting the Dominion of Canada, Nova Scotia is the only one flying its own flag, which is neither French nor English in origin but all its own. It is a white flag with the blue St. Andrew's Cross dividing the field in four. In the center is the double tressed Lion of Scotland ramping in gold. The design is based upon the coat of arms of Sir William Alexander, first grantee of the province, and the Royal Coat of Arms granted to Nova Scotia by King Charles I in 1625.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Back from New York, where his Ted Yarosz was held to a draw by Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, in Madison Square Garden, last Friday night, his first failure to win the decision in 57 starts as a professional, Manager Ray Foutts today gave his version of the battle . . . He readily admitted that Ted was trailing going into the latter rounds and had to rally to get a draw, but blamed the Monaca youngster's off color fight on his over-anxiety to score a knockout in his first appearance in New York . . . He says Ted stung Wolfe several times with right hand punches, but missed oftener than he landed with the rights, leaving himself open for Wolfe's countering. . . . Once Ted got the feel of the ring, however, he settled down and was his old self, and almost finished off Wolfe in the last round. . . . The pair received an ovation at the finish and Ted has been offered a return engagement in the Garden against Baby Joe Gans for November 4, as well as offers from two Boston clubs to box Johnny Indrisano. . . He appears well on the way to making some serious money.

Ted Yarosz

Word comes from New York that another Monaca product, John Karcis, former Carnegie Tech football star, is making good with a vengeance as a member of the Brooklyn team of the National Professional League. . . Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, will accompany Charley Belanger here for the Canadian's battle with George Panka at the Arena, Friday night of next week.

One of the best books on Knute Rockne is just off the press. . . It is written by McCready Huston, novelist and former Pittsburgh newspaperman on the old Gazette Times, who later was a managing editor in South Bend and now is located in New York. . . It deals with Rockne's career aside from his football coaching, detailing his work as a super-salesman, first of football at Notre Dame and then as promotion manager for an automobile manufacturer. . . There is a chapter on college stadia as business ventures, including a discussion of the Pitt Stadium proposition.

Dr. Jake Stahl and Dr. George McLaren, former Pitt stars, were officials, along with Ducky Holmes, at Westminster's game with California Teachers' College over the week-end and someone stole Dr. Stahl's shoes out of his locker while the game was under way . . . Which is what he gets for having been a lineman . . . Jimmy Perry, former local boxer, who met Mike Gibbons, George Chip, Jack Dillon, Ray Bronson, Honey Mellody, Harry Lewis and other good welterweights and middleweights in his time, now is the proprietor of a billiard parlor in Sharpsburg and plans to develop an athletic club on the side.—HARRY KECK.

Honolulu Gridder Dies After Injury

HONOLULU, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Frederick Winstedt, 18-year-old Punahou Academy student, is dead of cerebral hemorrhage apparently resulting from injury in football practice last Tuesday.

Winstedt was removed from a practice game when knocked dizzy with a blow to the head in scrimmage. The youth collapsed Saturday and did not regain consciousness.

DUKES FEAR OGLETHORPE

It took a 65-yard run for a touchdown by a substitute halfback, Ed Baker, to enable Oglethorpe to defeat Xavier 7 to 0 in Cincinnati last Friday night, but the close margin of victory isn't causing the Dukes to take the Atlanta visitors lightly this week. Oglethorpe meets the Night Riders at Forbes Field, Friday night.

Coaches Layden and Bach assembled their Duquesne squad yesterday and sent them through a long drill. The 33-0 defeat at the hands of the Pitt Panthers Saturday failed to dampen the ardor of the Dukes, who hope to stage a comeback at the expense of the Southerners this week. The squad came out of the Pitt game in good physical trim, although the linemen showed the effects of the pounding they took from the Pitt power plays.

Oglethorpe, under the tutelage of Harry Robertson, formerly associated with Chick Meehan at New York University, will present an attack as strong, if not stronger, than that of the Dukes. Xavier is rated as a strong eleven this year, and the fact that the Atlantans were able to hold them in check and then shake Baker loose in the final period speaks well for their chances against the locals. So well was Baker's interference working on his run for the touchdown that he finished the last 40 yards of the dash in the clear.

Coach Layden plans no changes in his regular lineup. The attack is to be polished this week and the defense against forward passes strengthened.

FORMER COACH DIES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Eddie March, 58, who rowed No. 7 in the Vesper Boat Club eight-oared shell that won in Paris in 1900, and later coached at the University of Pennsylvania, died here yesterday.

TARTANS FACE BIG TEST IN WASH-JEFF

By JESS CARVER

They are thinking seriously of putting through a somewhat drastic shake-up out at Tech among the varsity football players. By they is meant the two Skibo football doctors, Bob Waddell, the head coach, and Jedge Wally Steffens, the advisory mentor. Like a sluggish liver, the Tartan gridiron body isn't functioning as it should click, and as it will have to click here Sat'day against old Wash-Jeff.

Hooks Sample

Usually, on the Monday after a game, the daily practice is comparatively light, but yesterday, the Skibos were sent through a strenuous and lengthy drill. Another will follow today, and another tomorrow and Thursday. There is plenty to be accomplished before the team is put together and sent against the Presidents. Plenty.

The hint has been dropped that a shakeup is in prospect. Perhaps the psychological effect of the threat will defeat its being carried out. Several men who saw action as starters in the games with Geneva and Western Reserve, have failed to come up to expectations. The blocking in the line has been atrocious, for a big league team, and poor blocking against Wash-Jeff can be nothing else but fatal. The Presidents are too tough to be fooled with, for the old Red and Black jinx, which has held sway over Carnegie elevens for lo, these many years, still is very much alive.

SAMPLE INJURED

One Tartan star who did not report for duty yesterady was Capt. William Egbert (Hooks) Sample, the co-captain of the squad, who does right well as a guard. Hooks suffered an injury to one of his legs late in the Western Reserve clash and had to be taken out of the contest. He's been the most consistent performer in the Skibo forward wall this fall, and his absence against Wash-Jeff could not help but be felt keenly. Coach Waddell will handle Hooksie with kid gloves this week; nothing will be done that might possibly aggravate the injury, for they'll need the big guard Saturday.

The backs ran hard and effectively against the Clevelanders but the mopping up in front of them was still weak and disorganized. More blocking is on the program for today, and also an increase in the play repertoire that the quarterbacks have been permitted to use in the two games to date.

The Tipoff

Shoes, to Charley Fedutes, quarterback of the Newell (Pa.) Independents, may be o. k. in the drawing room, the dance hall or for walking on broken glass, but on the football field, they are just so much excess baggage. In a sandlot game Sunday, Charley found he was not getting the usual amount of speed. He checked up and discovered that his shoes were slowing him down, so he took them off. Then he ran 60 yards for a touchdown. . . Messrs. Herrel, Reider, Sullivan, DeLuca, Sabo, Milum and Jim Rooney please take notice.

The Pitt varsity squad will depart for West Point on the Red Arrow Thursday night, leaving here at 11:56 o'clock, which is just four minutes short of midnight. Arriving in Gotham, the Panthers will move on to the Point, passing up the attractions of Broadway. Imagine Broadway not getting to meet Bulldog Reider!

Greasy Neale isn't going to make any further shifts in his West Virginia lineup for the game with Wesleyan this week. He was very well pleased with the way in which his young men carried on against Temple last week, even though they lost the ball game. Tin-lizzie Jim Scott, a 150-pound backfield star, Neale thinks he's found a needed sparkplug. Scott looked like the best man on the Mountaineer team against Pitt.

Your correspondent wrote a piece for the Pitt-Duquesne football program about a star football player in a prison being cut up for parole just prior to the big game. It was just a yarn. Now comes a true story from Sing Sing, where Jumbo Morano, star halfback, is to be released in "mid-season." Morano, sentenced from the Bronx on a robbery charge, will be paroled October 20, after serving almost four years.

Carnegie Tech's varsity wasn't the only college grid squad to be surprised with a strenuous workout yesterday. Andy Kerr gave Colgate a busy afternoon; Sam Willaman made faces at his Ohio State Buckeyes; Vic Hanson drove Syracuse; Lou Little was relentless in handling Columbia's Lions; Mal Stevens was tough on Yale and Jock Sutherland did not exactly serve tea to the Panthers.

Maypole Injured In Speed Races

BAY CITY, Mich., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Jackie Maypole, of River Forest, Ill., former class B amateur national outboard champion, was injured this morning in a collision of three outboard motorboats during the national outboard championship races on the Saginaw River.

Maypole, who was succeeded as class B champion by Art Jacobs, of Chicago, following a ruling of judges today, was taken to a hospital where physicians said he was suffering from a nose injury, shock and possible internal injuries.

Jacobs placed first in the initial heat of the class B event Saturday and ran third in the second heat.

ADVERSITY FINE GRID SUCCESS SPUR, WARNER SAYS

POP HOLDS NO NATIONALITY 'STANDOUT'

By GLENN S. (POP) WARNER

Member All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

When I was coaching at the Carlisle Indian School, and for several years thereafter, I was often asked what tribe or tribes of Indians made the best football players.

Pop Warner

This was a logical question, since we had at the school the representatives of about all the more than three score tribes in the United States and Alaska. My answer always was that I could see no great difference except that the Indians of some tribes were characteristically of small stature and they, of course, did not have the size and strength to make good football material. I could see no difference in any of the tribes as far as gameness was concerned. The one thing which was demonstrated by my experience with the Indians along this line was that the boys of the tribes which were in the poorest condition from a financial standpoint, the tribes which had the toughest time to make their living and received the least help from Uncle Sam, were the best and most reliable football material.

The late Knute Rockne used to say that the best football players were the descendants of parents who emigrated to this country from the down-trodden European nations. That is why we see so many foreign names in football rosters at every university in the country. All of which goes to prove that the boys who have been raised in the school of hard knocks, who have had to work and hustle for everything they have received, are the boys to whom this rugged game of football most appeals.

SACRIFICES NEEDED

The boys raised with the proverbial silver spoon, who never have had to do any hard work or suffer any hardships, do not, as a rule, care for the game because it takes plenty of hard work to become adept at it. Sacrifices have to be made in the way of giving up social and other pleasures such as the sons of wealthy or well-to-do people are accustomed to. Of course, there are many exceptions. Many sons of wealthy parents have had the ambition and the strength of character to submit to the grind of daily training and the hard knocks of the football field and have become great players. I always have a deep admiration for those boys. They are the ones who will carry on with the same success as did their parents.

Along the same lines as the inquiries about which tribes of Indians made the best football players is the question which is often asked of coaches as to what nationality produces the best players. I never have seen any great difference in the gameness, the will to win, and the ability to learn or the desire to play in boys of the different nationalities. They may all show their national characteristics—boys from the Latin nations may be a bit more temperamental and have somewhat more fiery tempers than the Germans and the Scotch, while boys of the latter nationalities are likely to be more persevering and consistent in their play.

APPEAL UNIVERSAL

We see on most every team players whose names indicate that they are of Italian, Polish, German, Irish and Jewish descent, and judging from my observations and experience no one, or no few, nationalities have any preponderance of the qualities of gameness, perseverance and determination which are necessary qualifications of good football players. Boys of all nations like this rough, personal contact game.

We see a less number of players of the old American name such as Brown, Jones, Warren, Wilbur, etc., because there are more boys of foreign descent now going to college and they are a hardier lot than the descendants of our old American families. They not only have the qualities of which athletes are made, but they are fast supplanting the sons of our old families in the business world and in every field of endeavor.

Leaders in Chess Play Undefeated

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The two leaders in the international chess tournament, Dr. Alexnder Alekhine, of Paris, and Isaac Kashdan, of New York, were again winners in the fourth round last night.

Both conducted the white pieces. Dr. Alekhine, castling to the left in a queen's gambit declined, worked up a powerful attack against which Capt. J. Vazquez was unable to offer sufficient resistance. The world champion scored in 36 moves.

Kashdan adopted a Ruy Lopez in his game against E. Gonzalez Rojo, who was also defeated in 36 moves. Dr. Alekhine and Kashdan remain undefeated.

Edwards Recovers After Operation

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Henry P. Edwards, veteran sports writer and service secretary of the American League, was recovering from an operation for appendicitis at the St. Francis Hospital, Evanston, today.

Edwards contracted a severe cold during the recent world series. He was given a complete phycical examination and it was found that he suffered from abdominal pains and appendicitis. The operation was performed last Friday.

CRONIN NAMED NATS' PILOT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Joseph C[illegible], youthful star of the Washington baseball club of the League baseball club of Succeed Walter Johnson.

Clark Griffith, owner of the club, said Cronin had been given a one-year contract.

In naming the young shortstop leader of the Senators, Griffith followed the precedent set several years ago in naming Stanley (Bucky) Harris, boyish baseball baseman as manager. Harris led Washington to its only world championship.

Cronin came to the Senators in 1928 and became a regular that season.

Once a fixture in the lineup he became one of the best infielders in the game, hitting well over .300 and fielding sensationally. Only 26, he will be the youngest manager in the major leagues.

Joe Cronin started his major league career with the Pittsburgh Pirates, who obtained him from the Pacific Coast League, farmed him out to the Johnstown club of the Middle Atlantic League, and finally released him outright to Kansas City.

Purchased by the Washington Senators three years ago, Cronin immediately bloomed into one of the best shortstops in the major leagues. Last year he was picked as the best shortstop in the American League by Babe Ruth.

FORMER PIRATE CONSIDERED AS PILOT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Reports from Washington and other baseball points to the effect that Walter Johnson would not be at the helm of the Senators next year came as a big surprise to Pittsburgh baseball fans, who have long a wholesome admiration for Johnson, are deeply interested in the fortunes of Joe Cronin, star shortstop of the Capital City club.

Cronin is credited all over the American League circuit with being the inspiration for the Senators, and although Joe Judge and Sam Rice have both been mentioned as successors to Johnson, there is a likelihood that Owner Clark Griffith would invest the crack shortstop with the managerial reins.

DOYLE SAID SIX WEEKS AGO JOE MIGHT LEAD NATS

They all laughed when Charley Doyle, baseball expert of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, sat down to his typewriter more than six weeks ago and pounded out a story to the effect that Joe Cronin might be the new manager of the Washington Senators. But here he is, along with clippings of Doyle's forecast story and the story telling of the naming of Cronin to succeed Walter Johnson at the helm of the club. Note the circled datelines.

ARMY PREPARES FOR PITT

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—A blackboard drill and a workout on the scrimmage machine comprised Army's preparations yesterday for the important game with Pittsburgh.

Major Sasse had Elliott in at quarterback in the first-string backfield, the other members of which were Ken Fields, Tom Kilday and Paul Johnson.

Recalling the rout in Pittsburgh last year, Coach Sasse took special pains to warn the Cadets against the running of Warren Heller and Capt. Paul Reider, the Pitt halfback stars, and against the Panthers' aerial attack, which was sprung as a complete surprise on the Soldiers last year.

Eastern Briefs

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Coach Fritz Crisler spent the entire afternoon yesterday developing his reserve material, giving the first team a holiday after Saturday's hard game with Columbia. Jack James was the only regular in uniform and took part in an hour's scrimmage between the second and third elevens. The Tigers' next battle is with Cornell.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—New York University, meeting Georgetown next, took things easy yesterday, but plan two and possibly three scrimmage sessions before Saturday. Most of the workout was on forward passing, which is expected to play a major share in the Violet's attack against Georgetown.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—One of the hardest workouts of the season was called by Lou Little at Columbia yesterday. Little was plainly dissatisfied with the work of his linemen against Princeton. The Tigers consistently outplayed Columbia's forwards and Little said he was much concerned. Columbia's next two games are against Virginia and Williams, but the Lions are pointing for Cornell.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Undismayed by the unexpected defeat at the hands of Ohio Wesleyan, Vic Hanson drove his Syracuse varsity through a long drill yesterday, concentrating on a defense for the forward passes Southern Methodist is expected to employ this week.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Colgate's first real test, against Lafayette this week, induced Andy Kerr to call for scrimmage yesterday, although Monday usually is an easy day.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Dartmouth's outlook for the Penn game brightened as Ward Donner, veteran end, and Ray Hulsart, guard, rejoined the squad and took part in yesterday's light workout. Both were on the sidelines against Lafayette, but probably will play Saturday. So perhaps will Jack Donovan, back, injured in the battle with Lafayette.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—On the injured list for two weeks, Jim Patton, veteran guard, worked out with Brown's varsity yesterday and probably will start against Yale. Coach Tuss McLaughry handed out several new plays for his squad to use against the Elis.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Coach Mal Stevens gave his Yale outfit, disappointing in its first two starts, a sharp lecture and then sent the squad through a short drill on fundamentals yesterday.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The mistakes his Harvard team made in the rout of New Hampshire were the subject of a blackboard talk by Eddie Casey yesterday. Roger Hallowell, varsity center, was badly battered by the Wildcats, but probably will be in shape for the Penn State game.

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Johnny Dugan was sent into the Boston College varsity backfield yesterday in place of Pete Chesmulevich, when it appeared the latter would not be in shape to play against Centre College tomorrow.

Jockeys Injured In Rose Tree Races

MEDIA, Pa., Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Two jockeys were suffering from broken ribs and other injuries in the local hospital today as a result of spills at the inaugural events of the Rose Tree race meeting at the Rose Tree Hunt Club.

G. Balding, Long Branch, N. J., was thrown from his mount in the third race of the afternoon, suffering two broken ribs. He also is feared to have received internal injuries.

Jimmy Knight, a stable boy, riding Frank Sherlock's Landlord in the opening race, took a spill on a turn and was trampled upon, suffering several broken ribs.

Following Balding's spill, protests were filed against the riding of Jockey James McCarthy, of New York, and the latter was barred. His mount, Pearly Prince, owned by F. Ambrose Clark, New York sportsman, was disqualified although finishing third in the race.

W. Va. Bench Show Dates, Site Set

Derby dogs will be cast November 1, all age dogs will be cast November 2. The bench show will be held that afternoon, the annual business meeting will be held in the evening.

Claude Gore, of Clarksburg, will be judge of the bench show and Ernest Ball, of Alva, will be master of the hounds.

FLINN SECOND IN TOURNEY

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Match play got under way this morning for both men and women in the annual Hot Springs fall golf tournament over the Homestead course. The women are playing in eights and the men in sixteens.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia won the medal in the women's event yesterday with a 77, five over par.

Ten strokes behind Mrs. Vare, and five strokes behind Mrs. Thomas R. Hulme, of Philadelphia, the former Dorothy Vare, who posted a 42-40—82, was Helen Hicks, the star from Hewlett, Long Island. The remaining qualifiers were far behind the three leaders.

Fay Ingalls, of Hot Springs, who played on the Harvard golf team with Chandler Egan, topped the field in the men's tournament with 37-39—76, five over par on the hazardous Cascades course. Trailing him by four strokes was George H. Flinn, Jr., of Pittsburgh, with 38-42—80.

RACE DATE SET

The annual Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. cross-country championship race will be staged over the Schenley Park course, November 5.

PITT CAPTAIN RETURNS TO LINEUP

Jock Sutherland had the heavy equipment out yesterday, which means that he didn't consider the work of his interferers any too hot against the Dukes on Saturday.

Paul Reider

He also had Capt. Paul Reider ready for duty, although the latter did not get a chance at any of the rough stuff. Joe Tormey is nursing a bad back, and is hardly a favorite to start against Army Saturday. Longshanked George Shotwell likely will be the choice for the snapperback job.

It looks like the bench again for Mike Sebastian, after doing better than yeoman service. And it also means that Dick Matesic goes back to the third string. What a third-string!

Jock is set to open up against the Army. Every play in the bag will be at the disposal of Quarterback Bob Hogan.

The Panthers will pull out on Thursday night and will go directly to the Point. The West Point Hotel will be the Pitt headquarters.

It will be the Panthers first view of the Point, and the Point's first view of the Panthers. It's a tossup which is going to get the biggest kick. If Heller begins throwing strikes to Reider, Dailey and Skladany, the East is going to get the biggest treat.

And if Onder and Hartwig can clear a hole for Mr. Heller through the Army line, the East will get another treat—maybe two or three.

Cross-Country Star Opens Training Grind

YPSILANTI, Mich., Oct. 11.—Billy Zepp, of Worcester, Mass., Michigan Normal College freshman distance ace, will begin training this week for the defense of his national A. A. U. 10-mile track championship. The annual run is to be held this year on November 5, in New York City.

Zepp, who won the title last year at Norwich, Conn., has received an invitation from Daniel J. Farris, national secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., to take part in the 1932 classic. After this run he will turn his attention immediately to preparation for the National A. A. U. six-mile cross-country grind, scheduled for November 26 at Cincinnati. He also held the latter crown in 1930, but lost it last year to Clark Chamberlain, Michigan State veteran, in the annual run staged over the Huron course here.

Fight Results

At Toronto—Bobby Leitham defeated Tony Marino, 12 rounds.

At Terre Haute—Tiger Jack Fox defeated K. O. Christner, 10 rounds; Hank Hankinson knocked out Tony Brown, first round; Donald Fogg defeated Hern Anderson, 4 rounds.

At Charleston, W. Va.—Chuck Burns defeated Johnny Roberts, 10 rounds; Gregoie Demerse knocked out Vince McNeil, 2 rounds; Don Sanson knocked out George Tackett, first round.

At Manchester, England—Johnny King defeated Dick Corbett, 15 rounds, for British bantamweight championship.

At Culver City, Cal.—Kid Thomas and Pedro Villaseva drew, 8 rounds; Ernie Toth defeated Johnny Higgins, 4 rounds; Pete Angles won by technical knockout over Joe Andreo, 2 rounds; Charley Mesa defeated Mike Hernandez, 4 rounds.

At New York—Eddie Reed defeated Lew Farber, 10 rounds.

At Albany, N. Y.—Frankie Petrolle won by technical knockout over Mike Baran, 7 rounds.

Baer-Carnera Bout Planned for Fund

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Madison Square Garden officials today sought Max Baer, California heavyweight, to box Primo Carnera, Giant Italian, in the 15-round feature event of the New York Christmas Fund show. The charity bout will be staged on December 9.

Carnera has agreed to the bout, but Baer was reported suffering from "manager" troubles. He was said to have so many managers cutting in on his purses that little remained for himself. Garden officials said Baer had threatened to quit the ring unless his shareholders agreed to compromise their claims.

BOXER IN AUTO CRASH

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Dave Stoop, local amateur boxer and a member of the Penn State tennis, was seriously hurt last night in an automobile accident near Tyrone. Phil Klevash, Altoona merchant who was driving the car in which Stoop rode, was slightly injured. Hospital attaches said Stoop's condition this morning is fair.

Ambridge High School, coached by Moe Rubenstein, is showing the way to all rivals in the race for the Class A football championship of the W. P. I. A. L., while Glassport High School, coached by Roy Hickes, is the pacesetter among the Class B teams, according to latest percentages compiled under the point system governing the two title races.

Ambridge High, boasting three successive victories over Class A opponents, shows a point average of 116 2-3, nine and a fraction more than Butler High, resting in second place with 107½.

Glassport High, which sprung one of the big upsets of the season in defeating Homestead, a Class A team, shows a point average of 115, five points more than East Huntingdon, which holds second place with 110.

Ambridge's three victories over Class A schools were recorded at the expense of Rochester, Mt. Lebanon and New Brighton, while Glassport's two Class B victims were Centerville and Fayette City.

Ambridge meets its fourth Class A opponent of the season at Ambridge Saturday afternoon, when Carl Aschman brings his California High eleven to the Bridgers' home gridiron. A victory over California will add 110 points to the Ambridge total as the Aschman team has played ties with Donora and Waynesburg, each worth five points. If California should check the Ambridge winning streak it will receive credit for 130 points.

School Notes

The punting ability of Len Plummer, star end of the Peabody eleven, and Bill Lentz, brilliant quarterback of South Hills, has started a controversy in City League football circles. South Hills supporters are willing to stand by Lentz, while East Enders are just as convinced that Plummer is the better of the two. The two schools do not meet this season. Last year Peabody scored a 13-0 victory over the City champions in an intersectional game. Lentz, by the way, is recovering from that crippled ankle. The cast has been removed, but he is hobbling around on crutches.

Jeannette and Greensburg make their bows in the Class AA Conference Saturday afternoon. Greensburg invades Norwin to meet Jack Clawson's team, already defeated twice in Double A contests, while Jeannette is host to Monessen, a team that is taking them on the chin quite frequently. Coach Ditty's Greyhounds have been held to a tie by Duquesne and beaten by Canonsburg. The two headliners in the Conference will be the Washington-New Castle duel at New Castle Friday night and the New Kensington-McKeesport fracas at New Kensington Saturday afternoon. All are undefeated in Conference skirmishes.

The City League football card this week is headed by the Westinghouse-South battle at Langley Field Thursday afternoon. Westinghouse, tied at present with Schenley for the lead in Section 1, can take undisputed possession of first place by scoring a victory over the Washabaugh charges. South, however, is capable of giving the best of them a real battle and may upset the Burton machine.

Homestead High School, upset by Glassport last Friday, faces another tough opponent Friday when Coach Henry Leucht brings his Mt. Lebanon machine to the Homestead Athletic Park for a night fray with Campbell's boys. Campbell scouted the Mt. Lebanon eleven in its battle with Miles Bryan, of McKees Rocks, while Leucht was an interested spectator at the Homestead-Glassport contest. Campbell got a real eye full at Mt. Lebanon. Campbell expects a lot of trouble from Bill Davidson and Paul Kennedy, Mt. Lebanon backs, while Leucht is building a defense to check the plunging of Walter Miller, Homestead fullback.

One of the most consistent performers on the Turtle Creek Union High eleven this season is Milos Mahalovich, star center of the Foxy Miller machine. Mahalovich has stood out prominent in every one of the four games played by the Valley eleven this fall. Bill Bupp, of Mt. Lebanon, is another boy who is acquitting himself nobly at this difficult post.

Four Local Horses In Steeplechase

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Oct. 11.—The biggest steeplechase ever to be held in this section will take place at the Gendarme-Miles farm, two miles east of this city, Friday afternoon with approximately 11 entries, four of which come from Pittsburgh. The steeplechase is being sponsored by the American Legion of this city.

Ailing Gopher Gridders on Mend

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Further definite improvement had been noted today in the condition of Myron Ubl, Minnesota football player. He has pneumonia and a fractured breast bone, the latter received in football practice nearly three weeks ago.

Gerald Griffin, Minnesota's new quarterback, was in the hospital with a slight attack of ptomaine poisoning.

Bradbury Robinson, Gopher right end, injured in the Purdue game and taken to the hospital Saturday with a head injury, was released yesterday. He is expected to return to practice in a few days.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Johnny King, of Manchester, last night won the British bantamweight championship, outpointing the defending title-holder, Dick Corbett, of London, in a 15-round bout.

'Now It Can Be Told,' Or, Where is Bill?

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Bill Hinchman, Pirate scout, was slightly injured in an auto smashup in Columbus last week, Prexy Bill Benswanger, of the Pittsburgh club, upon learning Hinchman was not harmed, wrote him a teasing letter, the postscript of which carried this sentence:

"Do you know where you are?"

And, if Big Bill's lips weren't chapped, he probably broke into a loud laugh. Here's the "lowdown—"

Hinchman explores a large section of the United States in quest of diamond stars. When he reaches a town wherein he expects to spend a day or two he wires the home office so that he can be contacted quickly by 'phone or telegraph.

Bill was scouting in the wilds of Texas this summer when he made a change into Oklahoma. In some manner the lines of communication became tangled. Benswanger was anxious to reach him, and, hearing he was in Tulsa, he shot Bill a wire to this effect:

"DO NOT KNOW WHERE YOU ARE. HOPE THIS REACHES YOU."

Hinchman was not in Tulsa and he did not receive the message for several days. When he did open the envelope this is what he read:

"DO YOU KNOW WHERE YOU ARE . . ."

A lot of dynamite popped in the changing of the one word. The scout thought he was being censured severely. He concluded Benswanger had figured he was gallivantin' around. Bill sat down and penned an earnest letter to Benswanger which began as follow:

"First of all, I want to tell you I have not touched a thing—not even home brew for a month . . ."

Hall and Mangin Win in Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Favorites advanced through the first and second rounds in opening matches of the autumn Greenbrier Lawn Tennis tournament yesterday with E. C. Maloney, of New York, providing most of the diversion in two stirring sets with J. Gilbert Hall, of East Orange, N. J. Hall won the match 6-3, 8-6.

In a second round match, Manfred Goldman, of New York, defeated Dr. J. M. Smith, New York, 6-4, 6-1. Gregory Mangin, of Newark, using an easy stroke trounced J. D. Ferber, of New York, 6-1, 6-3, in the first round and won his second round match by default from Dick Stevens, of Hot Springs, Va., to draw even with the field.

GRINS From the GRID

By O. W. (Red) Severence

Noted Southern Football Official

(This is the first of a series of humorous and "inside" stories on football written for Associated Press by Red Severence.)

The South's brilliant rise to national football prominence during the last 10 years marks one of the bright spots of gridiron history, but a Northern player paid the most appropriate tribute to a Dixie star.

Coach Robert A. Higgins, of Penn State, tells the story of an episode that took place in the New York University dressing room just after Tennessee had administered a 14-0 drubbing to the Violets.

Throughout the game, Chick Meehan, N. Y. U. coach, had watched Herman Hickman, Tennessee's great guard, break through the line and wreak devastation in the New York backfield. Hickman's huge, squat form appeared in the thick of almost every play.

And, though convinced of Hickman's greatness, the coach wanted to hear from one of his own players an expert opinion on Hickman's ability.

Leaning over one of the exhausted linemen, the coach asked:

"Tell me, just how good is this Hickman?"

Came this startling reply:

"Well, I'll tell you, coach. He's just this good. In the third quarter he called me a dam' Yankee, and I made believe I never heard him."

Horsemanship New Sport at Hobart

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Hobart College, Geneva, today enjoyed the distinction of being the only college in the country with horsemanship as intra-mural sport.

Approximately 40 men are enrolled in horsemanship classes, authorities said. This is one of more than 10 sports on the intra-mural program, which attracts greater than 90 per cent of the student body.

Horsemanship groups are three, beginners, those with some experience, and expert riders who will be taught polo, jumping and like sports.

Major Cavanaugh To Remain As Ram Coach

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Reports that Maj. Frank Cavanaugh had been relieved of his duties as head football coach at Fordham University because of ill health were given official denial last night by Jack Coffey, graduate manager of athletics. Coffey said:

"So far as I am concerned and so far as I know, Cavanaugh is going on as Fordham's coach."

The report, printed in an afternoon paper, said that Cavanaugh, who has been suffering from a hip injury, had been relieved of his duties and had been succeeded by William (Hiker) Joy, his assistant for more than a decade.

Maj. Cavanaugh denied any intention of resigning and said the report he was to be dropped was new to him.

BIG DEAL FAILS TO STIR FANS

The reaction of Pittsburgh baseball followers today to the "big" deal completed yesterday by the New York and St. Louis clubs of the National League was somewhat negative. Pirate boosters appeared to think that the only sure-fire star involved in the swap was Catcher Gus Mancuso, the little Italian, who wields a dangerous bat and receives effectively.

That the Cardinals might dispose of either Bill Walker or Jim Mooney, southpaws, in order to replenish their scant coffers, was the opinion expressed in some circles. Local fans apparentlty would not be surprised were Chicago or Brooklyn to deal with the Redbirds. The Cubs and Dodgers made a lot of profit in the seasons just closed.

William E. Benswanger and Samuel E. Watters, Pirate officials, figured the deal as being only relatively important. They feel that both teams may be benefited, especially the Giants—C. J. DOYLE.

BURNS PRIMED TO ENGAGE WEST VIEW

By TOM BIRKS

With two torrid battles disposed of in the West Penn Independent Gridiron Conference last Sunday, fans in the district, especially in the Allegheny Valley, are looking forward to the Dan Burns-West View tilt, scheduled for New Kensington tomorrow night under the floodlights. Burns will try and keep its record unbeaten to enter Sunday's game with the J. P. Rooneys at Greenlee Field.

Ganzy Benedict

The Rooneys will be the next attraction at New Kensington, one week from tomorrow night.

CHAMPS FACE TEST

Tomorrow night at Greenlee Field, the Rooneys will clash with the Erie Pros. The Erie club is composed of former Duquesne University players, Bud Devinney, Kovalcheck, Silverstein, Benedict and Mike Ferrare being featured members of the squad. The club was playing independent football at Erie, but could not afford to pay the large guarantees visiting attractions demanded.

The Rooneys will have trouble and plenty of it with the Erie eleven. In the first place they'll meet a fast stepping aggregation, and a pip of a forward passing machine. Bud Devinney, former Duquesne quarterback star, will be on the tossing end of the majority of the heaves, and Bud throws 'em fast and accurate.

KOVALCHECK STAR

In Kass Kovalcheck, the plunging fullbacker, the Rooney line will be tested as it has not been tested all year. Kovalcheck is in as good physical condition as he was in his playing days at Duquesne, and he was about as hard and quick a hitter as ever wore a Duquesne uniform.

GIANTS, CARDS SWAP STARS

Cincinnati, hit only .175 in 54 games this year.

STARR PROMISING

The Giants feel Starr and Mancuso will give them much needed battery strength. Starr, with the Rochester Internationals the past two seasons, has been regarded as one of the best pitching products of the Cardinal farm system. He came up for a trial this spring after winning 20 and losing 7 with the Redwings, but was shipped back again. Recalled this fall, Starr looked good in a brief turn against the Giants and then blanked Brooklyn.

Mancuso, while serving as understudy to Jimmy Wilson, has shown speed and ability.

PLEASED WITH TRADE

CENTRALIA, Ill., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Ray Starr, rookie right-handed pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, when advised today he had been traded to the Giants, said:

"It's the best news I've heard in six years. It's sure a surprise to me. I knew a trade was in the making, but didn't think I would be in on it, and I'm sure glad to hear I will go with the Giants."

NATS PLAN DEALS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Power in the pitching box and brawn behind the bat stood forth today as the primary aims of Clark Griffith, owner, and Joe Cronin, new manager of the Washington baseball club, for entering the 1933 season.

Cronin, who at 26 succeeded Walter Johnson as pilot of the American League Senators, talked things over quite a while with Clark Griffith yesterday. That was their decision.

The result is expected to be some of the swapping of players that earned for Griffith the title of "The Old Fox" during his eight years as manager of the Senators, ending in 1920.

RAILS CHEERED BY ROOSEVELT PROGRAM

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Recent developments have encouraged railroad managers to feel that the carriers had become wards of politics, rather than remaining footballs of politics.

A consensus of opinion among executives is that since Gov. Roosevelt's address on the railroads at Salt Lake City the carriers could look for sympathy equally from the two major parties. I have sounded out the opinion of representative railroad presidents, and find them on the whole extremely encouraged by Mr. Roosevelt's utterance. About the only criticism made, from the railroad's viewpoint, is that both major parties have stayed away from discussion of government operation of the inland waterways, about which the railroads are greatly distressed.

Mr. Rukeyser

As a matter of fact, in his Des Moines address on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project, the President threatened the railroads with more waterway competition rather than less.

The president of one of the great railroad systems, entering the Chicago gateway, told me:

"It seems to me that Mr. Roosevelt's railroad program is essentially sound. Especially important is equal regulation of carriers competitive with the railroads. So long as our hands are tied and our competitors are free to make any rates or do anything necessary to take the business, we cannot know where we stand and a chaotic condition will continue. This is true of inland and intercostal water competition, the same as with motor carriers, although Mr. Roosevelt's program does does not, apparently, embrace water carriers."

Another important railroad executive said:

"Waterways and highways and airways should be subject to the same regulation that the railways are, and so far as taxation or subsidies are concerned, there should be equality of treatment."

Still another said, referring to the Roosevelt address:

"I wish that he had dealt with inland waterways as vigorously as he dealt with highway transportation."

I emphasize this subject solely to indicate that in the worries of the railroad operator competition from waterways looms exceedingly large.

Traffic Spurt Brings Rally in Profits Of Railroads

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE RAILROADS were hit harder than most other industries by the depression, but they now promise to be recovery leaders. An indication of what may be expected from the railroads can be seen in a comparison of the earnings for July and August. It will be recalled that car loadings took an upward turn in the latter month. In nearly all cases this produced gains in net railway operating income which were in far greater proportions than the expansion in gross revenues.

In the three years of the depression the problem of the railroads has been particularly acute, because it is not as easy to cut expenses as in manufacturing organizations. In dull times a factory can be shut down or operated only a few days a month with a corresponding reductions in expenses. But a railroad cannot shut down. It must continue to give service seven days a week whether traffic is heavy or light.

Of course the railroads have materially reduced their expenses. They have made large inroads on their payrolls. But the operating conditions set a minimum beyond which they cannot go. Nearly as many men are needed to control the movement of trains over a line whether business is good or bad.

* * *

Slump in Net Was Not In Line With Traffic.

AS A RESULT of these circumstances, the net income of railroads fell off much more sharply during the past three years than the decline in their actual volume of traffic. A reverse condition will be found with traffic on the upgrade. A substantial recovery in business will be needed to put the railroads back on their feet, but any material change in the condition of the country's business will restore the railroads to their former position of security.

A bulletin published by the Alexander Hamilton Institute makes some interesting comparisons of gross operating revenues and net railway operating incomes of leading carriers in July and August. Gross operating revenue is the total amount received by the lines from freight and passenger traffic. Net railway operating income is the amount left after charging off current expenses but before providing for such fixed charges as bond interest.

* * *

Net Income Shows Sharp Improvement

AS AN EXAMPLE of the effects of increased traffic in August, Baltimore and Ohio with a gain of 5.4 per cent in gross showed an increase of 21.7 per cent in net. Boston and Maine with a gain of 2.5 per cent in gross had a spurt of 34.2 per cent in net. Pennsylvania with an advance of 1.8 in gross increased its net 5.1 per cent.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute points out that deficits were reduced by seven of the carriers, including Atlantic Coast Line and Lehigh Valley. For seven others a deficit was turned into a positive figure, as in the cases of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, Chicago and Northwestern, Great Northern, New York Central, Northern Pacific, and Southern Railway. But the most significant comparison is afforded by the group into which the largest number of the roads fall—those whose gross revenues gained and whose net operating income rose in much greater proportion. Improvement of varying degree is shown here by 22 of the roads tabulated. Noteworthy are the increases of Chesapeake and Ohio, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Kansas City Southern, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, New York, New Haven and Hartfort, Reading, and Union Pacific. The increased operating income of Norfolk and Western and Pennsylvania, while smaller in percentage change than that of a number of other roads, is respectively double and triple the percentage gain in gross revenue.

I. C. C. ORDERS RATE BOOSTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Interstate Commerce Commission holds as unjust discrimination against interstate commerce the refusal of nine states to allow increased freight rates specified by the Commission in its decision in the general rate increase case of 1931. The states which either failed or refused to permit application of the freight rate increase surcharges corresponding to those ordered in interstate traffic include Arkansas, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Utah.

GULF DRILLING BARCO WELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The Gulf Oil Corporation's South American subsidiary has started development work in the great Barco oil concession of Colombia, South America, and will bring in its first well early next year, it was learned in oil circles today.

Title to the concession was confirmed last year after a long legal battle. It is a part of the Tarra oil field in Venezuela, lying across the border line directly south of the Tarra field. Geologists claim that oil underlies the surface.

Rumors that negotiations were on between Gulf and Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for pooling the Gulf's Venezuelan oil properties with those of the Standard were denied at the office of the Standard Oil in New York and also at Gulf headquarters here.

But, however small the monthly bills may be, it is still much more convenient to pay them by check drawn on your account at the bank than to pay them in cash. Your check, pinned to the bill and mailed to grocer or butcher is a time and trouble saver. The canceled check is your receipt.

MELLON NATIONAL BANK

STOCKS HIGHER IN QUIET TRADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The stock market recovered substantially in quiet trading today, after the sweeping recession of the past week.

The recent selling appeared to have spent its force at the opening, and prices recovered 1 to more than 4 points in many issues. During the third hour, a number of issues slipped back a point or two, but the list hardened again in the early afternoon. Bonds also improved.

Brokerage quarters were in a somewhat confused state of mind over the market. The advance was felt to reflect short covering to a substantial degree, but some fresh buying was reported, both from domestic and foreign sources. Foreign business was not large, but buying orders were felt generally to be exceeding selling orders. The dollar was again firm in the foreign exchange market.

Corporate news included the announcement that Nash Motor had ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, although for its quarterly period ended August 31, earnings amounted to only 6 cents a share. Reports from the automobile centers indicated that extreme quiet was still prevailing, and it was felt that substantial revival would not be seen until active production of new models gets under way late in the year. General Motors dividend action, due in a few weeks, was the subject of considerable conjecture in Wall street.

WHEAT PRICES TURN UPWARD

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Grain prices turned upward early today after a hesitant start. New York stock market upturns had a strengthening influence, and there were also advices that locusts were spreading in Santa Fe and Cordoba Provinces, Argentine. Opening unchanged to ⅜ down, wheat later showed a rise all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ off and subsequently advanced.

Advances in wheat values came after the market here, sympathizing with Liverpool weakness, had sold at a new low price record for the season. Evening up of accounts so as to prepare for tomorrow's holiday aided the upward trend of wheat here.

There has been a decided change in the spread between Chicago and Winnipeg wheat prices in the last week. Chicago December contracts shifting from 2½ cents premium October 4 to 1¾ discount today. Corn and oats followed wheat. Provisions were neglected.

Forbes

Stirring Up Fear Is Not Wise Today

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

PRESIDENT HOOVER erred most unfortunately when he proclaimed to the world that the United States at one time this year could not have withstood Europe's withdrawals of gold for more than another fortnight. Even were his statement not open to debate, it would have been better had he remained silent.

What has happened?

European banks and bankers and investors have exhibited fresh alarm. They had been led to believe that our financial stability was all along as impregnable as the Rock of Gibraltar, that at no time was there the remotest danger of our being forced off the gold standard.

When they accepted such statements as facts, they ceased withdrawing gold and almost immediately began replenishing their stores here. With the result that we regained a very large part of what we had lost.

But the foreign exchanges have moved strongly against us since the President's "disclosure." In laymen's language, this means that foreigners are now showing inclination not to continue sending gold to us, but to withdraw gold.

Of course, their nervousness is wholly uncalled-for. Our gold, our monetary position, is thoroughly strong. There isn't the slightest danger that we will be unable to meet whatever demands may arise.

It is lamentable that anyone should deem it necessary to make alarmist statements at this time. True, our financial and economic storm has abated. True, our troubled business waters have become calmer. But the going is not yet so smooth that we can afford to incur avoidable risks of rocking the boat.

The political portents being as they are, surely it is the reverse of statesmanship to strive to incite the whole country into fearing that should Gov. Roosevelt prove victorious, dire things are bound to happen.

After all, prosperity is more transcendently important than party politics. No matter how ardently we may wish one candidate or the other to win, isn't it dangerously shortsighted to promulgate the notion that, if the election does not go the way we may want it to go, all prospect of the return of prosperity will be blasted?

Looking at the future wholly and solely from a business rather than a political point of view, the writer regards such tactics as loaded with dynamite.

AMERICA'S WORST "red" menace is red ink.

IS IT NOT refreshing to learn how different concerns have exercised sufficient managerial skill and resourcefulness to combat adverse conditions successfully?

One reader tells how the Reynolds Spring Company, of Jackson, Mich., manufacturers of automobile and furniture cushion springs, as well as other products for the automotive industry, went about meeting the situation when the automobile industry's demands seriously diminished. He says:

"They hit upon the idea of making household and gift utensils from a new material —spoons, bowls, cups, saucers, cigaret boxes, powder boxes, funnels, biscuit cutters, salt and pepper shakers, etc., all very light and non-shatterable.

"They began production about four months ago, and large-scale production early in September. Today the company is distributing these articles through more than 700 stores. The company's bakelite plant in Jackson is operating 24 hours a day seven days a week, and hired 350 employes in September, and by October 15 will have 800 more employed than were working on September 1."

President Charles G. Munn sees profits from now on.

That news may stimulate other concerns to exercise equally effective enterprise.

This country's problem of problems is to get people back to profitable work. We are all interested in avoiding rocking and upsetting the boat.

Pennsylvania Crude Storage Increases

OIL CITY, Pa., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The Derrick says that major pipe line companies of the East held stocks of Pennsylvania grade crude oil at the end of September totaling 3,107,734 barrels.

This figure, the newspaper states, is an increase of 109,652 barrels over the previous month.

Daily average shipments of all grade for last month, 170,524 barrels, were the lowest since December, 1930.

London Market Up On Loan Conversion

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—British government stocks rose sharply after a £150,000,000 2 per cent bond issue was fully subscribed today. The issue, offered at par, for redemption of the 4½ per cent bonds, the 4½ per cent war loan, and for repayment to holders who did not convert the 5 per cent war loan bonds, runs from 1935 to 1938.

Waco Gets Brazil Airplane Contract

TROY, O., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—An additional order for eight armored airplanes and a substantial parts order have been received by the Waco Aircraft Corporation from the Brazilian government. The new ships, representing the fourth order from Brazil, will be constructed for use in that country's navy.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Val's Hopes Realized When She Finally Meets Her Former Sweetheart

CHAPTER XLIV.

Is there anything in telepathy? Val began to doubt it. In the dark, in the quiet of the night, she sat, hands pressed over her eyes, sending message after message into limitless space.

"Lester . . . It's I—Val, calling you . . . I'm at Marjorie's . . . Lester, darling, come to me!"

A mocking bird sang in the little park across the street. Leaves rustled. A dog barked. In the apartment below someone snored.

Val gave up and went to sleep.

When she had been in Hollywood three days Marjorie said: "Funny I don't hear from Les. I told him you were coming. But he'll turn up. He's talked and talked about you, hon. He's probably just drinking a lot. He goes on awful sprees, you know."

"Oh," Val felt rather sick. The responsibility of it . . .

They spent the day at the beach. "This is really too early. You should have come in the summer," Marjorie said. "Everybody's here in the summer. We have keen times. Of course it's awfully dull now."

"I like it. I hate crowds."

"Do you? I'm going to have Betty and Peggy and their boy friends and an extra man for you, to play bridge tonight. I thought you'd like it! Shoot! If I thought you didn't like a crowd I'd just let Frank take us to the movies, like he wanted. But I thought you'd get tired of movies. We've gone every night for three nights."

NEW FRIENDS

"Oh, I like bridge. But I don't play terribly well."

"That's all right. We don't worry about it. I like to be able to talk and have some fun. Wait till you see the score pads I have—they're awfully cute!"

They gave Frank a sketchy delicatessen dinner, spent hours making sandwiches, arranging flowers. Val set up the card tables and laid out the cards and score pads while Marjorie put her best lace spread on her bed, and fixed guest towels in the bathroom.

But they didn't play cards, after all. The men went out to the kitchen where Frank was shaking cloverleaf cocktails and saying, "You don't have to be afraid of this gin. I made it myself. A dentist friend of mine got me the alcohol. It's good stuff!"

The girls sat around in the living room, sipping cocktails, eating chocolates and gossiping. They were nice friendly girls, Peggy and Betty, and Val made plans to have lunch, shop and go swimming with them both. But she never saw either of them again.

Towards midnight Marjorie made coffee, brought out the sandwiches and cake. Val was terribly sleepy, and once she nodded and her eyes closed in spite of herself.

FRANK INTOXICATED

"Val, if you aren't the same as ever!" Marjorie, a little noisy after her four strong cocktails, shouted "I don't know what I'm going to do with you! Why, you don't like a good time any better than you ever did!"

But when it was all over, and Val had flung the sheets and blankets on the Chesterfield, and tried to go to sleep, she was wide awake.

Marjorie's shrill voice came from the closed bedroom door. "You hadn't ought to get drunk at your own party, that's all! Frank Vogel, you make me sick!"

"Marghie, you've no right to shay sho. I am NOT—'scuse me—drunk."

"No? Excuse ME! But when the host is found sleeping under the gas range, one thinks there's something wrong with him. My mistake. Why don't you go to sleep there now if you like it so much? See if I care!"

"Now, Marghie, don't you—'scuse me—hiccups—love me? Marghie, listen. Ansther nie truthfully, because I wanta know the truth. Because I wanta have you tell me truthfully, Marghie—do you, or do you not, love me? Truthfully, Marghie, do you or do you not—"

Val pulled the covers over her ears. Better suffocate than to lie awake listening to that.

VAL IS ENVIED

Wonder why Joe didn't write. He could at least write to ask if she arrived safely. He could do that to a perfect stranger. He would, too. If he didn't write, there was something wrong. That weather was enough to give anybody pneumonia, and he hadn't been looking too well. Now Val, don't worry . . . try to sleep . . .

A fresh wind blew in from the window, purifying the stale air, blowing cigaret ashes out of ash-trays, rattling the window-shades.

Val shifted uncomfortably. If this was Marjorie's idea of a perfect evening, it wasn't hers. What was the matter with her? Was the whole world wrong, or was it herself?

* * *

"Frankie always does something nice for me after he's been drunk," Marjorie said.

So they were to go to Agua Caliente for the week end.

Val was delighted. She had had such a glorious time last summer when she went with Millie . . . oh, dear, how long ago that was!

Their arrival in Frankie's shabby old car wasn't much like the excitement driving up in Vincent Shalor's big car, with a chauffeur and maid, had been.

Still, people did turn, to look at Val.

"Gee, hon, if I had your looks I'd simply have them all crawling around on their knees," said Marjorie, pretty in her nice young matron-in-her-best-clothes manner, staring with honest envy at her friend.

SEES LESTER

Val laughed. "Then you should see my mother. Nobody ever sees me when Millie is along. If Millie were preceded by a brass band she couldn't create more excitement. When you go into a restaurant with Millie, people put down their knives and forks and stare."

Excited by her thought of Millie's triumph, Val's eyes sparkled, she smiled, and unconsciously imitated Millie's slow, gliding step, her high-held head.

Their entrance into the hotel dining room was almost a sensation in consequence, and the headwaiter who had been about to shunt them off to a side table, took a second look at Val, decided his first estimate of the party had been wrong, and led them to one of the coveted boxes in the main dining room.

Val walked on air. For the second time since her marriage she wore the exquisite ice-blue satin gown, the ermine wrap, the diamond bracelet.

Frankie was examining the wine list the wooden-faced waiter held.

"Er, what you like?" he asked the girls.

"Oh, anything," Marjorie said lightly, and whispered, "nothing too expensive."

"Er, some of the 219."

Marjorie waited till the waiter had gone. "What kind is that, dear?"

"Darned if I know. But it's the cheapest thing on the list!"

They all laughed delightedly.

Val lifted here eyes. Someone, the waiter . . . no, not the waiter . . . someone . . . Lester . . .

"Why, Les—I thought you were the waiter with the surprise bottle!" Frank grinned. "Sit down! Glad to see you."

"My dear, WHAT are you doing HERE?" Marjorie cried. "Why Val—you know Lester Sherwood! Of course—you're old friends!"

Val found that she couldn't talk. She took his hand. He held it. He, too, seemed to have lost the power of speech.

Even after they had left the table, were dancing together they had little to say.

"So you are married."

Yes. And you?"

Still waiting."

He could feel her tremble in his arms, and just before he brought her back to the table where Frank and Marjorie were waiting he said:

"And still hoping, Valentine!"

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a manhating maiden aunt, Julia, and becomes a stenographer. After a brief infatuation for the dashing Lester Sherwood, she marries a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, and goes to Minneapolis, where Joe is an architect. Pearl Neely, one of Joe's friends, visits and begins to take liberties about the apartment. Val dislikes Pearl, but says nothing. Unused to housework, Val becomes discontented. Joe tells Val his plans for the future, but she is unimpressed. Millie's husband dies. Val travels alone to California. She visits Millie and then goes to Hollywood, where she hopes to see Lester.

Madge Overjoyed at Compliment From Dicky

Unexpectedly Dicky himself saved the day, and I was meanly glad of the irritation in his voice, not patent to a stranger like Dr. Jim Paige, but perfectly plain to the Underwoods, to Edith and to me.

"Those wonderful decorations are locked up, my dear girl, and cannot be exhibited until we all go in together. We just finished giving them the once over, and they're all ready for turning on the switch that will spell 'surprise? surprise!' to everybody."

"But I'm not everybody," she persisted. "They're partly mine."

"Possess your soul in patience, little girl, and let Madge show you your room. Dr. Paige, you'll have to come over with Mr. Underwood and me to the house of a neighbor. I fancy you've met him—Major Hugh Grantland.

"He has taken pity on the men of our house party, and is going to entertain them over night. We'll dress over there, so as to leave this house for the feminine fripperies."

"Do you know, I think it would be a good idea for us all to get over there pretty soon," Harry Underwood struck in. Suppose I round up the younger generation and take them together, then you can bring over Brixton and Owen when they arrive."

HARRY LEAVES

"That's one by one, kid" Dicky said promptly, and I guessed that he knew Harry Underwood's reluctance to see much of the man who had been the intimate friend and business associate of Tom Morton, Lillian's first husband, who had treated her so vilely.

"Then suppose you and Dr. Paige have a smoke on the veranda while I rout out the boys," said Harry.

"How about some food, Madge?" Dicky amended.

"Thank you, but we stopped and had a snack just a few minutes ago," Dr. Paige answered, and in another minute Harry was on his way to the rooms of the boys, Dicky and Dr. Jim were ensconced cozily on the veranda, and Lillian and I were escorting Edith to Marion's room, which she was to have for the night.

Marion's things were already in my room, with her mother's. Lillian's room was to be given over to Mrs. Brixton, and Marion and Carolyn were to have the room in which Ronald and Bob were now packing their bags for their over-night stay at The Larches.

We stayed in Edith's room only long enough to see that she was comfortable, and when we left Lillian beckoned me into her room, now ready for Mrs. Brixton's occupancy.

"Don't let that lady kid you or spoil your evening," she said in a low voice. "She had no more to do with those decorating plans than Katie. I can just hear her when Dicky told her you were going to sling a party. 'Oh, where are you going to dance? Yes; that room lends itself beautifully to decoration. Let's see. How would this be, Dicky-bird?' Of course he had to be polite and listen to her, and probably tell her she had swell ideas, or words to that effect. But don't you ever think he planned any decorations with her."

MADGE COMPLIMENTED

"She said he did," I answered feebly.

"In the words of the immortal Mrs. Ticer, 'She says more than her prayers, that one,'" Lillian retorted. "Snap out of it, lady. Lie down for an hour; then you'll have almost two hours for prettying before dinner time."

"The Brixtons are coming at 6," I reminded her

"What of it?" she countered. "Dicky will rush the men over to The Larches, and I'll take care of Helena. Go to sleep, and get yourself in a frame of mind to enjoy your party; and if you let that dame in there spoil it —" She shook a facile fist in the direction of Edith—"I'll crown you."

"I won't, I promised, and when I awakened from my nap I found myself in a mood joyous and exalted enough to make easy the keeping of the pledge. Later, dressed and coiffed, as I stood in the lower hall with Lillian, Harry and Dicky to receive our guests, Dicky gave me just the fillip needed to make my enjoyment complete.

"This is just about the prettiest affair I've seen in a long time," he said for my ear alone, and then in a still lower key he murmured "And the prettiest article in it is ma chere femme. All the other women will look like selling platers beside you."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By ROY ROWE

The presidential campaign was temporarily forgotten as the young voters of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club strolled in to cast the ballots given them at the previous meeting. The election was for the office of "grand jester." To make our convention not unlike the political party conventions, we thought it only fitting and proper to surround ourselves with a similar atmosphere. So, with the blast of the trumpet and the roll of a drum, Wally Saraff and his band burst forth with several snappy numbers of martial music. And, we might add, that when it comes to cheering and applauding their champion, the members of the Enright Chapter can out-do the largest Republican or Democratic convention ever assembled.

Due to the unavoidable absence of Ruthie Miller we did not have the usual dancing school. Instead we substituted the very popular game of "Poison." This event was won by Bill Eiseman, who received a large bar of candy for his efforts. Thomas Blackburn came in second and he also received a bar of candy—not quite as large as Bill's.

Then came the high spot of the day's activities. This was a potato race. First the boys ran in relays until one team remained. Then the girls held an elimination race which left one team of boys and one of girls. The finals were so close that we were forced to run the race over. Due to an error on the part of one of the girl contestants, the boys were enabled to win by a very close margin.

RETAIN TITLES

Two of the former champions retained their titles, however, when Catherine O'Neil again won the rope-jumping contest and Domenic Libertos' "dribbling" team emerged victorious, just as they had done at the meeting a week ago.

Catherine, for her efforts, was awarded a large cake, which she shared with the girls, and Domenic was presented with a large pie, which he immediately divided among the boys who were on his team.

By this time the ballots were all counted and Bill Eiseman, by a large majority, was re-elected grand jester. With the announcement of Bill's re-election, the members were informed about the meeting which will be held this Saturday, and the games and prizes which will be given also were announced.

The meeting was closed by Wally Saraff and his band with all the members singing "Say It Isn't So."

CAMERAPHONE CHATTER

Betty Lou Wardsworth, the girl with the dazzling red hair, wants to be a movie star when she grows up and would like to play a part like Jean Harlow had in Red Headed Woman.

Jean Foley wants to be a nurse and take care of her brother Billy's patients when he graduates from medical school.

John Congello is noticed every afternoon after school these days with "Queenie," his new dog.

Readin' 'Ritin' and 'Rithmetic is what Olive Smithe wants to teach when she grows up.

Harry Riley says that his greatest ambition is to be a reporter on one of the big New York papers and scoop all the others with a murder story.

John Brennan wants to go to Paris and study interior decorating and then return to Pittsburgh and do over all the "swanky" homes in town.

Belle Richman wan' to be a school teacher along with Olive Smithe, providing they can both teach at the same school.

Congratulations to all the boys and girls of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club who are celebrating their birthdays today.

TREAT A COLD IN THE FIRST STAGE

—and You Nip It in the Bud!

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, 1 to 3 days; the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief in the first stage is far easier than in the later stages. In fact, it is taking chances to let a cold run beyond 24 hours.

As soon as you catch a cold the wise thing to do is to take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This famous tablet stops a cold quickly because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. It kills the cold germs and fever in the system. It relieves the headache and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. That is the treatment a cold requires.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective, but harmless. Contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. For years it has been the reliance of thousands in all cases of colds and grippe. Every drug store in America sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Handy, pocket-size box, cellophane-wrapped. Get it today.

CALL AGAIN, MRS. TEAFTALLOW!

This little lady kindly consented to pose before the camera while we congratulated her for what we believe is one of the most sensible suggestions of the year. When she knocked shyly at our office door we were inclined to speak gruffly. She was so timid—and seemed so alone in the world. Then she thrust forward a bouquet of pussywillow sprigs—first of the season—and said, in a voice which was ill at ease—

"I'm just a nobody I guess. I don't belong to any women's clubs or anything. But I want to make a suggestion. I just want to propose that radio artists be put under, instead of on, the ether."

Taxpayers in Rebellion

Public Sentiment Demands a Further Cut in the Cost of City and County Government.

The taxpayers are in revolt against the high cost of municipal government. Scarcely a day passes that the demand for reductions in the municipal expenditures is not publicly voiced by some influential representative of a large section of the citizens.

The latest development in the rebellion is the call for a meeting at the William Penn Hotel Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which an organization is to be formed to wage a vigorous campaign for a reduction in taxes. The call comes from well-known Pittsburghers, who invite all civic and trade bodies to submit candidates from whom the board of directors shall be chosen.

The largest of our commercial bodies are already in the fight. The Real Estate Board has accumulated facts and figures which show inexcusable extravagance in the municipal government. J. W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners and Managers Association, has been rendering yeoman's service by pointing out specific offices and jobs in the city and county where savings can be effected. The Chamber of Commerce gave impetus to the movement when President Thomas A. Dunn, asked to suggest to City Council new things to be taxed, coldly answered there was no justification for new taxes.

This is the time of times for the taxpayers to strike. Strike while the iron is hot! It is hot now, because the 1933 budget is up for consideration. Mayor Charles H. Kline has just received from department heads the estimates of their requirements for next year, and in a few weeks, after he has made such revisions as he sees fit, he will submit them to Council. If municipal expenditures are to be reduced in 1933, the reductions will be effected in the immediate future.

The county budget will come up for consideration shortly afterward. Under the present regime the county is not squandering money as it did under the last previous administration, but there is room for still more saving.

The highly paid county officials could voluntarily reduce their salaries, for example. The Mayor, the Councilmen and department heads of the city administration have agreed to cut their pay, and there is no reason why the County Commissioners, judges and other high-salaried county officials should be exempt from the sacrifice that everyone else has had to make.

The organization that is to be formed Thursday no doubt will press for these economies. It will have the almost solid backing of the taxpayers.

A Good Example

Mrs. Drew Gives a Lesson in Civic Duty by Serving on the Jury in a Murder Case.

For men and women of affairs serving on the jury is an annoyance. They do not care to leave their business or their homes for a week or more. Consequently many find reasons for being excused from serving.

Mrs. Mary Snyder Drew, wife of Justice James B. Drew, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, set a good example, when drawn for jury service, by offering no objection to serving.

If more citizens of the highest intelligence were to take a leaf from Mrs. Drew's book there would be less reason to find fault with verdicts.

Mrs. Drew was chosen yesterday for service on a murder jury. This is particularly disagreeable service because the jurors are not permitted to go home until the verdict has been returned. The responsibility of passing on a case involving the possibility of capital punishment is also more than many persons are willing to assume; they get out of it by pleading conscientious objection to capital punishment or through some other excuse.

Mrs. Drew did not shirk her duty in this ordeal, either.

Would that all citizens were as willing to fulfill their civic obligations!

New Plays Assured

Everybody Will Be Glad to Know the Strike at the Nixon Has Been Settled.

The strike at the Nixon Theater held out a gloomy prospect for Pittsburgh. Harry Brown, the manager, had declared that unless he was able to come to terms with the musicians the playhouse would be closed for the season. That meant that Pittsburgh would have to do without the best of the new plays, musical comedies and revues.

Consequently everybody will welcome Mr. Brown's announcement that the dispute has been settled.

The so-called "legitimate" theater is having a hard struggle for existence. There are large areas of the country in which movies are the only kind of theatrical entertainment available.

Pittsburgh is fortunate in still having a "legitimate" theater which presents "road shows." We are doubly fortunate in the fact that producers more and more are choosing the Nixon for the world's premiere of their pieces, which means that Pittsburgh playgoers have an opportunity at the earliest possible date to become acquainted with dramatic works that may be much talked about and may enjoy long runs in New York before the people of other cities get a chance to see them.

It is a satisfaction to know that that advantage is not to be taken away from us.

Pennsylvania Apples

No Other Orchards Produce Fruit of Finer Flavor Than Those Raised in This State.

A pleasing picture was that in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday showing apple gatherers at work in heavily laden trees in a Western Pennsylvania orchard.

It is well for Pennsylvanians to keep in mind that it is unnecessary to look elsewhere for good apples. Our orchards produce fruit of as fine a flavor as may be found anywhere—a fact that is gradually meeting with widespread recognition.

Pennsylvania was the birthplace of modern horticulture and is exceeded in apple production only by Washington, New York and Virginia. Apples from our commercial orchards are now shipped to all parts of the world.

It is no wonder that our apples are so good, for our progressive farmers have been experimenting in the cultivation of the fruit since Colonial days and originated some of the best known varieties.

EUROPE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

VENICE, Oct. 11.—A refreshing sleep, and Venice, from a lancet window, seemed lovelier than ever. In the clarity of a blazing sun, sad, mellow palaces, domes and minarets shimmered darkly in canals and church spires seemed swimming sword blades in the dreamy light.

A dew-spangled rose lay across each breakfast plate, and I wondered where they grew in this network of waterways. The waiter said the city was cleaner than ever before, attributing its spruceness to Mussolini. It was breakfast so I didn't tell him about the dead cat floating in Grand Canal last night.

After New York's sharp perpendicular, all architecture seems out of kilter—like a modernistic scene on a revue back drop. Signor Silvey, over a steaming cup of American coffee, did not think the city would last long. But he has been gondolaing in the moonlight. And seems wan.

Outside of Cologne, Germany, I never heard so many morning bells, some harsh, some silver-tongued and one with a long sustained soprano note. No one appears to be in a hurry, save the police, who briskly staccato, move about like clock-work soldiers.

I have heard, Venetian women have a grace and sculptural beauty no others have. This may be true of dancing girls at festivals, but those I have seen are rather stodgy, white-stockinged and unexpressive. Most of them would look at home in the brooding doorways of Mulberry street.

* * *

Throughout the languor of Venice is felt the alert undercurrent of Italy's dominating dynamo, Mussolini. A current story concerns his handling of a vendetta, in which five were stilettoed in a hamlet in Sicily. The total male population numbered 258. All refused to talk, and the entire 258 have been banished for life—with no hope of reprieve.

The best known American in Venice is Dorothy Caruso, widow of the idolized tenor, Enrico. She has a venerable palace in town and a villa at the Lido, is active in charity and a social leader in the colony from the states. She adores the Venice that Caruso loved, but her plump daughter, Gloria, at 13, reputedly longs for New York.

My knowledge of the Italian language is nil, so I find myself putting an "i" or an "o" at the end of English words. No one understands it, of course, but I have a good time and it's my vocation. Italian is too elongated anyway. The bill boards blaze today with news of a "prima rappresentazione straordinaria." That's a heck of a way to announce a "first night."

* * *

I am not music-conscious, but, being so full of fun and everything, I like the Venetian brand. The orchestra tries to drown the singers and the singers in purplish apoplectic strains try to drown the orchestra. When all this fails, they suddenly combine and in extraordinary obbligato try to raise the roof. It gives music a certain something.

* * *

Venetian vittles, outside a large variety of sea specialties, is mostly veal, paste and spaghetti. I've been urged to toy with the toy octopus that abounds. It is called calamaretti, but I made no promises. Then there is the popular fritto di mare, a jumble of tiny fish netted in lagoons. Venetians always are so steamed up about their moonlights, castles and old paintings, they have never given serious thought to a juicy T-bone steak. I'll trade my Peru bond for a single share in a "T-Bone Tomasso Shack" in any side calle. And toss in my Columbus, O., Union Depot necktie to boot.

* * *

In a bit of man-about-towning, I found singular charm in the midget public squares, so pleasantly pastured on every hand. Such breathing spots, though savored in small doses, offer frequent and sudden escapes. None is larger than a ball diamond, but are stubbled with types—grandees with silver-headed canes as well as withered ladies with half-fingered black gloves. And so on.

We dined at the never-closed Florians, with its quadrangle of outside chairs. Two tables away, an unhappy American tourist, depressed by copious helpings of local panther-sweat coupled with homesickness, was having an ultra fancy cry. I've been in Europe almost long enough for second papers myself and I wanted to join him. I have a new sniffle that is a honey.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Remember when you were 15, and all your gorgeous dreams of what would happen some day?

What a marvelous place that Some Day Land was going to be, and what a marvelous person you were going to be when you reached it!

Now, of course, you were only 15, and everything was all wrong. But some day—!!!—Some day everything would be different. Some day you would have the breaks, and people wouldn't be always crabbing at you the way they did. They'd seek you out and appreciate you and give you a chance to show what wonderful things you could do. For, of course, you could do wonderful things any time you wanted. You only needed a little appreciation, that was all! Then they'd see!

For some day, when you really got your chance and people started being nice to you, you were going to surprise everybody. You would make them feel awful cheap for the way they had treated you. You would make them feel cheap by being so splendid to them. And you'd get your mother a diamond pin, and your sister a new silk dress, and you'd give Dad the swellest pipe there was!

And everybody would admire you because you were so kind, and good, and brave, n' honest, n' noble, n' handsome, n' smart, n' tidy, n' rich, n' powerful. Yes, everybody would just bust with admiration!

Some day! What wonderful dreams they were, when you were fifteen! And how you smile over them now, looking back through the years!

BUT DO YOU REALLY HAVE TO LOOK BACK VERY FAR? HAVE YOU TRULY OUTGROWN THOSE FIFTEEN - YEAR - OLD DREAMS OF THAT MAGIC SOME DAY LAND?

Millions of human beings haven't. Millions of us stay fifteen all the days of our life.

For it's so easy to postpone action until "some day" time; so easy to wait until we "get the right breaks."

That letter you were going to write your mother—

That little check you were going to send your Dad—

That bad habit you were going to break—

That old quarrel you were going to heal—

How many months, or years, have you had these things in mind?

Some day, when you got around to them, when you had time, when things broke right, you were going to do all these things.

BUT THEY'VE NEVER BEEN DONE YET!

AND THEY NEVER WILL BE DONE IF YOU WAIT FOR "SOME DAY."

For that perfectly convenient some day will never come. Things will never break just right. There will always be some hitch, some handicap, some reason for not getting busy. You will never find the perfect place and the perfect time and the perfect opportunity. They don't happen in this imperfect world.

AND THE TEST OF A MAN'S MATURITY IS HIS REALIZATION OF THIS FACT. A CHILD WAITS FOR SOME DAY. THE REALLY MATURE MAN DOESN'T.

THE MATURE MAN TAKES HIS WORLD AS HE FINDS IT AND ADAPTS HIS NEED TO IT. HE MAKES THE BEST OF THINGS WHILE THE MAKING IS GOOD. HE PAYS HIS DEBTS AS HE GOES ALONG.

Don't wait for some day!

LIVE YOUR GOOD INTENTIONS NOW!

Text For Today But by the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but I laboured more abundantly than they all: yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me.—I. Corinthians, xv:10.

New York Is Safe: Roosevelt Is Elected

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

As far as New York is concerned there is every indication that the jig is up, and that the Hoover conspiracy, hatched in Washington and financed to the tune of three-quarters of a million dollars of the taxpayers' money to make a Hoover holiday by a hypocritical investigation of New York City Democrats, has failed.

The events in Albany at the state convention and in New York City at Madison Square Garden clear the way for victory with the united support of the party. The nomination of Herbert Lehmann for Governor spells victory; for he is one of the outstanding personages of the state, clean as a hound's tooth, with a superabundance of business ability, unquestioned public and personal integrity, and actual experience in the management of state affairs.

The hope of the Hooverites was a factional fight on the mayoralty. That hope has been dashed by the nomination of Surrogate John P. O'Brien with the support of John M. Curry and Ed Flynn, of the Bronx. The organization has not been wrecked; it has been unified. Faction has given way to the fervor of loyalty.

Walker Will Be Vindicated

In bringing this about no one is entitled to more credit than James J. Walker, who could have had the nomination for the asking and would have been elected without a doubt. The nature of the fight might, however, have endangered the success of the national ticket, and Walker voluntarily stepped aside with his usual fidelity to his party. Time, and a very short time, will vindicate his administration. It was the most constructive in the entire history of the municipality.

It would require columns to merely enumerate the really great things he accomplished for the city. The most intensive investigation ever conducted, with every resource imaginable at the service of the inquisitors, with three-quarters of a million dollars of the taxpayers' money appropriated to a political party for party purposes, it was not found or charged that of the billions that passed through the hands of the administration one single penny of public money found its way into a private purse.

His brilliancy, his rare charm of personality, his very human qualities have endeared him to millions, and everyone will hope for the early restoration of his health.

Victory Is Marching On

New York's electorial vote, in doubt 10 days ago, is now assured to the Roosevelt column—because of the unification of the organization forces. Victory is marching on; and the "pork barrel campaign," as Roosevelt aptly describes the campaign strategy of the Hoover High Command—promising one thing to one section of the country and another opposite thing to another, playing wet in the East and featuring Curtis the bone dry in dry territory—that "pork barrel campaign" is doomed.

The minds of the people are made up. "The hoss's eyes are sot." The people have had enough of the stupidities, the ineptitude, the failures, and the human tragedy to paint Mr. Hoover as an innocent victim of a depression for which the system of government imposed upon the country by Mellon, the Daddy of them All, is in no sense responsible, won't wash.

Bainbridge Colby at St. Louis has answered that—if it required an answer:

"To say that he is the victim of a panic and the depression is in large part a mistake. He botched the tariff. He botched farm relief. He botched prohibition, and has sought to botch the efforts of the nation to extricate itself from the political and social wreckage for which prohibition is answerable."

Which means, in short, that he has "botched" prosperity and has "botched" the efforts at recovery.

And Colby touched another count in the impressive indictment against his "leadership":

"He has been unable to envisage the misery of the masses of our people in a crisis, which, if it continues another year, will profoundly affect the lives of every one of us."

All in the Same Boat

The Mellon-Coolidge-Hoover bubble burst three years ago; but it was not until a few days ago that Mr. Hoover discovered that there are any people in America with which government is concerned except bankers, railroad owners, and the heads of great corporations. Stealing rather openly Mr. Roosevelt's theory that in national prosperity all elements, including working men and farmers are independent, Mr. Hoover announces that the farmer, workingman and businessman are all in the same boat.

He announces it with the eclat of one making a discovery; for him it is. And it requires the white light of a general public illumination of an elemental truth to make it clear to him.

If the people decide to "Hold on to Hoover" until they sink, he will forget tomorrow what he pretends to have discovered today.

The Handwriting On the Wall

Thoroughly desperate now, the strategy of the Hoover High Command is to resort to the more than dubious methods which were successful with it in 1928 when Mr. Hoover gave such an illuminating illustration of his "sportsmanship." He who now complains so querulously of "personalities"—meaning perfectly proper open attacks upon his official record—was quite content to profit by the spread, by whispers, of the lowest, falsest personalities against Al Smith ever used in any campaign in our history.

And so with the handwriting on the wall—for Belshazzar's feast is over—the Hoover strategy now, evidenced by his own and Mills' speeches, is to talk about "sound money" as though any one favors any other kind. When he tells what his administration has done to save the financial structure and implies that Mr. Roosevelt's party would wreck it, he signally fails to remember that his administration could have done literally nothing had it not been able to fall back on a Democratic masterpiece of constructive statesmanship.

It was the existence of a Federal Reserve System which again has saved the financial structure from collapse; and saved it notwithstanding the fact that under the Hoover-Mellon regime it has not been kept to its original purpose.

And that system was created over the united opposition of Mr. Hoover's party.

It is quite possible that Mr. Hoover was not cognizant of the fact. At the time of the party battle over the Federal Reserve bill, Mr. Hoover had his residence in London, where he lived for many years, and was in no wise interested in American public affairs. He may not have known that his associates unitedly fought that wise measure and that it was put through by the Democrats who are such a threat to "sound money."

There is no threat to sound money from any quarter; but there are millions of Americans who are penniless today who stand for a new deal through which some of the sound money may get into their hands, instead of being concentrated more and more in the hands of a favored few through the policies for which Mr. Hoover stands.

Isn't It So?

There is no reduction in the joy of living.

A tack in the tire is worse than a dozen in the hardware store.

Youth can be foolish, but not quite so foolish as age when it starts out to be real young.
